WALL STREET STOCK CROWD WON'T FOLLOW BULL OR BEAR

NEW YORK CITY TRAFFIC DROPS

Entire Market Affected by Decline That Follows Supreme Court Decision in Fare Case.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 8.—The stock market alternately blew hot and cold today as control of the price movement shifted between "bull" and "bear" forces. Neither faction was able to gain a decided advantage, due to the apparent disinclination of the outside public either to add to their commitments or to sell those already owned, with the result that the day's trading was largely professional in character. The market held upward at the opening, turned heavy just before midday when heavy selling cropped out in the copper and tin moved higher in the early afternoon under the leadership of the merchandising shares.

The feature of the late trading was the slump in New York City traction which broke from 5 to 20 points on the unfavorable decision by the United States Supreme Court on the 7-cent fare case. The entire market was affected somewhat by the selling outburst in this group and sank to the day's low levels. Greene Cananea and Anacondo coppers fell over 6 points. Wright Aero lost 4 and Ralston 2 1/2, both reacting a little at the close.

No Change in Credit.
There was no change in the credit situation today. Call money moved at 7 per cent and appeared to be in fair supply at that figure, but Wall Street was anticipating another "squeeze" around the middle of the month. The money market was quiet with a 1 per cent quoted for all maturities.

Early selling of the copper shares was based on the speculative idea that the current high prices for the red metal will not be maintained. Federal Mining & Smelting broke 16 points, Greene Cananea 5 1/2, Calumet & Arizona, Anacondo and Nevada dropped 3 1/2 to 4 points and a number of others, including American Smelting, Andes, Kennecott and Inspiration yielded 2 points or more before sufficient buying support appeared to check the tide of selling.

Rail Rally Short Lived.
The rally in the rails was short lived. Chesapeake & Ohio advanced a new high record at 229 3/4, following the announcement that the Interstate Commerce Commission had approved the issuance of additional stock, and dropped back to 224 on profit taking. Other rails turned quiet, pending the possibility of a decision by the United States Supreme Court in the O'Fallon case.

New Highs for Year.
There was brisk demand for the merchandising and chain store issues. Woolworth, R. H. Macy, Interstate Department Stores, Julius & Kayser and Jewel Tea ran up 3 1/2, 4, 5 and 6 points, closing 1 1/2 to 6 1/2 point net higher.

NEW YORK CITY WINS FIGHT FOR 5-CENT SUBWAY FARE IN THE U. S. SUPREME COURT

Increase to 7 Cents Forbidden—Decision Criticizes District Tribunal for 'Improvident' Acceptance of Jurisdiction.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, April 8.—The 5-cent passenger fare in New York won over the proposed 7-cent fare by a decision of the United States Supreme Court today which reversed the interlocutory order of a statutory Federal court restraining the City of New York and the New York Transit Commission from interfering with the proposed 7-cent fare. The Supreme Court already had granted a temporary order voting the statutory court's injunction.

The decision was made on jurisdictional grounds and paves the way for an orderly settlement by the State courts of the fundamental question as to whether the contract of the municipality stipulating a 5-cent fare is binding on the Interborough Rapid Transit and the Manhattan Railway companies. They contended that a 5-cent fare was confiscatory and non-compensatory and that the contract with the city had been nullified by a subsequent statute of the New York Legislature.

Decision of 18 Pages.
The 18-page decision, written by Justice McReynolds, said in its conclusion: "The Transit Commission has long held the view that it lacks power to change the 5-cent rate established by contract and it intended to test this point of law by an immediate, orderly appeal to the courts of the State. This purpose should not be thwarted by an injunction."

"Upon the record before us, we cannot accept the theory that the subway and elevated roads constitute a unified system for rate-making purposes. Considering the fair value of the subways and the current receipts therefrom, no adequate basis is shown for claiming that the 5-cent rate is now confiscatory in respect of them. The action below was based upon supposed values and requirements of all lines operated by the Interborough company treated as a unit; and the effort to support the proposed rate upon a like assumption. The Transit Commission of New York is composed of three members and it exercises jurisdiction over transit facilities in the city. The Interborough, a New York corporation, operates elevated and subway lines in four of the five boroughs of Greater New York.

5-Cent Fare in Contract.
By an elaborate 125-page contract, the municipality in 1900 and 1902 leased for 50 years city-built subways to the Interborough, stipulating that the lessee was entitled to charge its patrons five cents "but no more" for service. The rent for use of the subway was equal to the annual interest on city bonds issued to cover construction of the subway, plus 1 per cent for amortization. The lessee retains title to all equipment, which the city agreed to purchase at fair value when the lease ended. Later other subways were built and leased to the Interborough on similar terms.

In 1907 the New York State Public Service Law was amended to regulate and control the Public Utilities throughout the State. This law provided that whenever a formal complaint was made that maximum rates, fares or charges, chargeable by any common carrier, railroad or street railroad corporation are insufficient to yield reasonable compensation for the service rendered, and are unjust and unreasonable, the Commission shall determine the just and reasonable rates, fares and charges.

Two Pleas to Commission.
Acting under this provision of the amended State law, the Interborough applied to the State Public Service Commission for an increased fare. The petition was denied on the ground that the company was bound by its contract with the New York Transit Commission. In 1928 a similar petition was dismissed on similar ground. In 1925, the Interborough memorialized the Governor and the Legislature asking for relief from the 5-cent fare. No action was taken on the application.

In February last year, the Interborough, having adopted a method prescribed by the State law, filed with the City Transit Commission a new schedule of 7-cent fares, to be effective at month's end. The Transit Commission denied that it had the right to authorize the proposed increase and directed its counsel to institute suits in the State courts to prevent the threatened violation of the law by the Interborough through failure to observe its contracts.

The Interborough, however, objected to the State courts and took the issue before a Federal Statutory Court of three Judges, which authorized the interlocutory injunction restraining the Transit Commission and the City of New York from interfering with the proposed fare increase.

SURVEY OF PAVING DONE BY RYCKOFF IS BEGUN BY CITY

Pitzman's Company of Surveyors Checking Work for Which $175,000 Overpayment Was Made.

TO LAY GROUNDWORK FOR SUIT TO RECOVER

Contractor Ignores Invitation to Send a Representative—Grand Jury Inquiry This Week.

The city's survey of the street lighting installation done by A. M. Ryckoff, Chicago contractor, was started today to lay the legal groundwork for a suit to recover bond issue funds expended for work not performed. At the same time Circuit Attorney Miller was clearing the grand jury's docket, preliminary to hearing testimony this week in support of the Post-Dispatch's recent disclosure that Ryckoff was paid not less than $175,000 by the city for brick sidewalk repaving which could not possibly have been laid. The grand jury inquiry will be directed not only to fraud against the city by Ryckoff, but also to determine if graft money was paid by him to the "city hall crowd" as Ryckoff has stated in a Post-Dispatch reporter and others as his reason for making "short cuts" on his contract.

Ryckoff Ignores Invitation.
Pitzman's Company of Surveyors is supervising the city's survey, the start being made at Ohio avenue and Pestalozzi street from a manhole in the middle of the street. The first day's program called for measurements of the sidewalks on Arsenal street, on Arsenal west to Compton, back north to Pestalozzi and to the manhole at Ohio. Ryckoff, who had been invited by registered letter to have a representative with the survey, did not answer Comptroller Nolte's invitation and had no one present. The city was represented by Charles W. Spencer, inspector for Comptroller Nolte; R. M. Arbuckle, field engineer, and William Wehmiller for the Department of Public Utilities.

How Survey Is Conducted.
Pitzman's crew consists of three men headed by W. A. Herter. Two of the crew make measurements with a steel tape and Herter keeps a record of the measurements on a field sheet. All questions arising are settled by agreement of Herter, Arbuckle, Spencer and Von Almen. The Board of Estimate and Apportionment, composed of Mayor Miller, Comptroller Nolte and President Neun of the Board of Aldermen, employed Pitzman's Company of Surveyors at the suggestion of Mayor Miller after the Post-Dispatch had presented to the Mayor a copy of its survey showing the overpayment to Ryckoff on brick sidewalk repavement. At the same time Mayor Miller called upon Circuit Attorney Miller for a grand jury investigation of Ryckoff's acts.

The survey is being conducted exactly as it was done by the Buchmuller organization for the Post-Dispatch, except that the length and width of the secondary cable trench is being measured as well as the width of paving across roadways. The Post-Dispatch survey was confined entirely to the trench as it passed under sidewalks to determine if Ryckoff did all the sidewalk repaving he was paid for. Roadway paving and length of trench are two entirely separate items for which he was paid on a separate unit price.

260.9 Miles to Be Measured.
Ohio and Pestalozzi are in the district B, the largest of the three districts covered by the Ryckoff contract. The district is bounded by Chouteau avenue, Arsenal street, Grand boulevard and the river, and has the most unpaved area. The surveyors expect to measure a minimum of one and one-third miles a day. The total length of trench to be measured, according to figures certified by the Department of Public Utilities, is 260.9 miles of which the Post-Dispatch's survey disclosed 50,000 lineal feet unpaved.

SINCLAIR MUST GO TO JAIL; U. S. SUPREME COURT AFFIRMS HIS CONVICTION AND 90-DAY SENTENCE

ADVERTISING FREE CLINICS AT ISSUE IN ETHICS ACTION Doctor Charged With Violating Regulations for Giving Services.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, April 8.—A case which is expected to test the ethical regulations governing the American medical profession has been laid before the General Council of the Chicago Medical Society. The case involves charges of unethical conduct preferred by one of the society's affiliated organizations against Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, 46 years old, a physician and surgeon engaged in philanthropic work with a number of free clinics that advertise their services. By advertising, the complainant organization charges, the free clinics enter into unfair competition against physicians generally, who are prohibited under their ethical code from advertising. Although the action against Dr. Schmidt was introduced at the beginning of a campaign to curb the activities of free clinics, Dr. Frank R. Morton, president of the society, said only the point regarding advertising was at issue in the case.

TRACTOR USED TO HAUL 20 PERSONS TO A FUNERAL

Fallbearers, Mourners, Singers and Musicians Rode in Machine Because of Inaccessible Road.
By the Associated Press.
AUBURN, Me., April 8.—A 10-ton tractor was used to transport the minister, singers, fallbearers and mourners to the funeral of Albert Garcelon in South Auburn for funeral services yesterday. Frost coming out of the ground made the road from the main highway impassable, except by horse-drawn vehicles or tractors. The tractor carried 20 persons on the improvised seats. The caulked with Garcelon's body was hauled by wagon to the churchyard for interment.

MISPLACED DECIMAL POINT CAUSES DEATH OF THREE BOYS

Error in Prescription at London Hospital Results in Patients Getting 10-Fold Strength of Drug.
By the Associated Press.
LONDON, April 8.—An inquest held today into the death of three boys who came to London from Sudbury recently to be treated for ringworm, brought out that misplaced decimal point in a prescription caused the deaths. The boys, Charles, Leslie and John Thorpe, 10, 7 and 5 years old, respectively, died under mysterious circumstances after taking medicine compounded at the hospital to which they applied. The jury decided that they had died from poison accidentally administered. The testimony showed that a mistake made in the calculation of a quantity of a drug resulted in the oldest child receiving 2.5 grams instead of .25. The others also got proportionately 10 times the desired quantity.

MISSOURI U. BOARD VOTES TO SUSPEND DR. MEYER A YEAR

Upholds Discharge of Dr. De Graff and O. H. Mowrer From Faculty for Sex Questionnaire.

DECISION FOLLOWS 18-HOUR HEARING

Removal of Psychologist Modified to Suspension Without Pay Because of Long Service.

By GUY FORSHEY, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 8.—After a determined three weeks' fight for reinstatement of Dr. Max F. Meyer and Dr. Harmon O. De Graff, suspended faculty members, the liberal forces of the University of Missouri and the State met defeat yesterday when the board of curators upheld in substance the ouster action taken by its three-member executive board March 20. Dr. De Graff, assistant professor of sociology, is permanently dismissed for his share of responsibility for circulation of the recent sex questionnaire among 1000 men and women students of the university.

Dr. Meyer, distinguished psychologist and veteran of 29 years of teaching service in the institution, is suspended for one year without pay, a modification of the original action which is generally regarded as an empty gesture of compromise. The dismissal of O. H. Mowrer as student assistant instructor in psychology also, is upheld by the full board.

ST. CATHERINE'S, Ontario, April 8.—Five University of Michigan students and their balloon, in which they made a forced landing here yesterday after the bag developed a leak, were back in Michigan today. The students went by train last night and the balloon on a motor truck today. Two of the students were slightly injured in the descent on the farm of W. H. Bunting, north of St. Catherine's. Larry Ball and Harold Hoskstra were cut about their faces. Their wounds were dressed by one of the farmer's daughters, who is a nurse.

RICHMOND, Va., April 8.—An accidental discovery in the railroad yards here yesterday led to the seizure of approximately 4000 quarts of bottled in bond liquor, which were being shipped in 417 boxes labeled "tomatoes" from Hollywood, Fla., to Newark, N. J. The liquor was stored in the Henrico County jail, while several hundred persons watched the transfer, which took hours. Police said they had no definite clue and regarded the shippers' names as fictitious.

CHASE BANK TO ABSORB AMERICAN EXPRESS COMPANY
Combined Capital, Surplus and Reserves of New York Merger Will Exceed $283,000,000.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 8.—Directors of the Chase National Bank today announced a plan to absorb the American Express Co. with its extensive foreign banking organization. The plan calls for the reduction of the par value of the Chase National Bank stock from $100 to $20 a share and the issue of additional stock, which would be exchanged for American Express stock. Since the sale of its interest in American Railway Express to Adams Express last week for a sum understood to be in the neighborhood of $18,000,000, American Express has been left with only its foreign banking and travel service. The combined organizations will have a capital, surplus and reserves of more than $283,000,000.

OIL LESSEE WHO DEFIED THE SENATE LOSES FIGHT

Justice Butler Reads Unanimous Opinion Upholding Power of Congress to Make Inquiries.

ADVICE OF COUNSEL IS NO DEFENSE

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, April 8.—The United States Supreme Court ruled unanimously this afternoon that Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil operator and one of the central figures in the scandals of the Harding regime, must serve three months in the "Washington asylum and jail," and pay a fine of $500, for refusing to answer questions of a Senate committee five years ago. There is no further appeal for Sinclair.

He must go to jail. He will be the first of the oil conspirators to suffer such a penalty. The opinion of the court was read by Justice Pierce Butler, the same Justice who gave the court's finding that the leasing of the Teapot Dome Oil Reserve to Sinclair by former Secretary of the Interior Fall was consummated in fraud and corruption. That case and the one growing out of the lease of the Elk Hills reserve to Edward L. Doheny, also branded by the court as fraudulent and corrupt, were civil cases.

Today's decision was the first that the high court has given in any of the criminal proceedings resulting from the oil scandals. Another Jail Term Appealed.
Another criminal case against Sinclair is pending and will be argued at this term. This is the jury tampering suit in which he was convicted with H. Mason Day, William J. Burns and Sherman Burns. Sinclair is under a six-months' jail sentence imposed in this case by the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

About a year ago Sinclair was acquitted of conspiracy charges by a jury in the District of Columbia Supreme Court. Today's decision fully upheld the right of congressional committees to compel the attendance of witnesses and seek from them information that may be helpful in the framing of legislation. The court rejected Sinclair's contention that the oil investigating committee was trying to pry into his private affairs. The case was first tried and the sentence imposed in the District of Columbia Supreme Court. Appeal was taken by Sinclair to the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, which certified to the United States Supreme Court certain questions on which it desired information before deciding the case.

The Supreme Court expedited the procedure by directing that the entire record be sent up to it. Arguments were heard and the case decided on the merits. History of Case Outlined.
Justice Butler began by quoting the statute under which Sinclair was convicted. This provides that a recalcitrant witness before a congressional committee shall be held guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than $5000 and sentenced to jail for not more than one month to a year.

The opinion then gave a history of the events leading up to the case, including the Harding executive order by which the reserves were transferred from the jurisdiction of the Navy to that of the Interior Department, and the subsequent leasing of the reserves by Fall to Sinclair and Doheny. It told how the Senate, moved by

WAR-TIME INCOME TAX APPEAL BY TERMINAL OPENS

Railroad Association Objects to Assessment of $45,000 Made by Internal Revenue Commissioner.

RESULT EXPECTED TO SET PRECEDENT
Six Claims Consolidated in Hearing at Washington Over Profits During Federal Operation.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201 Kellogg Building.
WASHINGTON, April 8.—Hearings were started today before Percy W. Phillips of the Federal Board of Tax Appeals in the suit of the St. Louis Terminal Railroad Association against the Commissioner of Internal Revenue over alleged deficiencies in the Terminal's income tax returns arising through Government operation of the railroads for 26 months, from 1918 to 1920.

A preliminary hearing on the appeal was held at St. Louis in February, at which John B. Milliken of the Appeals Board presided. Milliken said at the time that the Terminal case decision probably would set a precedent for similar cases by other railroads against whom deficiencies running into the millions are charged.

No other railroad has intervened in the present suit, but Nelson Troutman, counsel for the Chicago & Northwestern, has been retained by the Terminal. He was in charge of the Terminal's suit today, although Thomas M. Pierce, vice president and general counsel of the Terminal, frequently advised him.

Six appeals have been consolidated in the present hearing. Four of these, however, center around whether or not the St. Louis Bridge Co., which owns Eads Bridge, and the St. Louis Tunnel Railroad, are affiliated with the Terminal through a 500-year lease. In a previous case, the board has held that the Terminal did not control these roads absolutely during 1917 to 1919 inclusive, although it controlled virtually all the stock. The Terminal hopes to have this decision reversed. About $45,000 is involved in the four suits.

Two other appeals center around the payment of $205,000 to the Terminal by the Federal Railroad Administration for under-maintenance, and the immediate refund of the same amount to the Government by the Terminal for over-maintenance during the wartime operation.

The payment was made by check, the Government tendering the check to the Terminal, which indorsed it and returned it to the Government. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has ruled that the $205,000 payment was income for the Terminal and should be taxed. The Terminal contends that it did not benefit by the transaction and should not be taxed.

Tells of Counter-Charges.
Ralph D. Robinson, assistant to the president of the Terminal, recounted in detail the charges the Terminal made against the Government for under-maintenance and the Government's counter-charges of over-maintenance.

When the Terminal was turned back to the corporation, he said, the executives immediately asserted that the road had not been kept up to standard, and demanded $315,000 indemnity.

The chief items in this claim were $117,000 for the Wiggins Yard No. 3, which the executives said was built unnecessarily; $115,000 for the fourteenth street viaduct; $150,000 for maintenance of ways and structures and $163,000 for miscellaneous additions and betterments.

The Government, through James C. Davis, Director-General of Railroads, asserted that the Terminal owed $175,000 for over-maintenance. President Miller of the Terminal and Davis finally compromised and agreed to wipe the slate clean by the indorsed check plan.

be terminated beginning April 8, 1929.

"It is further ordered that, except as aforesaid, said report, orders and recommendations be approved and adopted as the action of the full board.

"It is further ordered that the following recitals in said report be made a part of this order, to wit: 'Whatever else a university may be, it must be a place to which parents may send their children with full confidence that the surrounding moral atmosphere will be sane and wholesome. Fortunately, such is now the condition at the University of Missouri.

"Persons most familiar with the personal standards of conduct and character among the student body testify that conditions are most favorable.

"It is clear that the promiscuous circulation of questionnaires which by every tenet of sound sense and common decency should have been suppressed, was in no sense a reflection of any morbid or unsatisfactory conditions affecting the whole student body.

"It is the opinion of the executive board that students should not be made subjects of investigation by other students, particularly when such investigation by its very nature tends to create the condition which it is alleged to correct.

"Neither can we find any justification for an inquiry that from its very nature could not produce any scientifically valid conclusions nor any facts likely to be of substantial value.

"We feel that the responsible individuals have a radically mistaken conception of the essential conditions which must prevail in order to establish and maintain public confidence in the university.

In view of the long session, the tedious examination of Meyer and De Graff and a few sounds of heated debate among the board members, a few of the loyal had taken courage when the meeting dragged past midnight. But where those same loyal ones had aroused the student body to a fighting pitch on March 20, they sat yesterday discouraged.

The fight was gone. Procedure of the defense in Saturday's hearing before the full board differed somewhat from that followed in the hearing of March 20, when Meyer and De Graff made their defense alone. In the final hearing they were represented by an attorney, Leland Hazard of Kansas City, an alumnus of the university, who volunteered his services and paid his own expenses.

Columbia. Hazard, appearing to a board which comprised four lawyers out of nine members, sought to weld together the strong points in the testimony of each and present a more unified defense than two scientists might be expected to develop for themselves. He sought by direct questioning to adduce these strong points of testimony and pursued the same tactics in the examination of other witnesses.

Late Saturday night several students who had been members of De Graff's sociology course were called to testify. Questioned by Hazard, they said they had received copies of the questionnaire and did not consider its contents demoralizing. Such topics they said, were expected to be discussed openly in the student body.

No Student Demonstration.
Few students except those waiting to be called as witnesses were seen in the corridors of Jesse Hall, where the hearing was in progress. The lack of interest appeared in striking contrast to the keen anxiety exhibited by the student body on the occasion of the executive board's meeting on March 20, when Meyer, De Graff and Mowrer were suspended.

Disseminated from staging a walk-out following that action, the students resigned themselves to accept whatever came when the full Board of Curators should review the smaller group's findings. The suspended men themselves were instrumental in discouraging student demonstrations when sentiment was at its highest pitch.

Since their suspension, both Meyer and De Graff have remained in their offices as unofficial advisers to the curators. Students enrolled in Dr. Meyer's psychology courses suffered particularly as a result of the suspension, if elimination of their courses without loss of credit to themselves constitutes suffering to undergraduates. Five of Dr. Meyer's six psychology courses had to be dropped entirely because no one could be found in the faculty qualified to take them.

Only the most elementary teaching assistant in 29 years' service with the University of Missouri. Until that time, he had conducted the entire psychology department alone except for laboratory assistants. Studying himself as a young Ph. D. from the University of Berlin in 1900, Meyer virtually built up his own school of psychology, taking rank beside the world leaders in the science. Besides writing virtually all of the text books used in his courses, he invented numerous pieces of psychological laboratory equipment for testing muscular, emotional and nervous reactions.

A bewildering array of this formidable electrical equipment now stands idle in his laboratories, gathering dust for want of a master who knows how to operate it. Dr. Meyer also is the inventor of a quarter-tone organ, built in 1917 for use in connection with research auditions, a phase of psychology in which he is a world-renowned authority.

Dr. Meyer is 57 years old, married, and is the father of five children. Two of them are graduates of the university, two are now students in the university and one attends the University High School.

His wife, now a teacher of Romance languages at Christian College here, was, before her marriage, Miss Stella Sexton of Kansas City. She was married in her freshman year at the university, having met her husband as a member of one of his classes. She attended the university intermittently after her marriage, but was finally graduated with honors, having been admitted to Phi Beta Kappa. She was the mother of five children when at last she got her degree.

Dr. De Graff, who is about 40 years old, joined the faculty in 1925, coming from the University of Iowa. He is said to have wider personal acquaintance among students than any other faculty member. Unmarried, he has devoted most of his spare time to assisting students—and not exclusively his own students—with their personal problems. Indeed, he is a sort of campus confidant and adviser. He has said several times, regardless of the board's action, he would remain in the school for the remainder of the school year to complete the writing of a new work on urban sociology.

squeeze into the 710,000 feet of trench. Making allowance for liberal width of paving all the way it was found that Ryckoff had paved 1,582,000 square feet of brick paving that was not placed, assuming he laid all the concrete for which he was paid.

The Fitzman survey is embracing roadway paving, where the trench crosses street intersections, to determine whether Ryckoff was overpaid on this, a separate item at a higher unit price than sidewalk paving. The length of trench is also being measured, and the light standards are being counted. Post-Dispatch surveyors found 113 standards short of the number specified.

A. C. Meyers, engineer for Comptroller Nolte, was present at the start today and followed the surveyors for the first mile. It will be recalled that Meyers challenged the cable figure certified to the Comptroller's Department as accurate by the Department of Public Utilities. After Meyers made a check Comptroller Nolte recovered about $19,000 from the contractor. This survey is not likely to account for length of cable, as that is underground.

MISSING INDIANA NEWS GIRL FOUND SLAIN IN WOODS

School Principal Discovers Body of Edith Mae Dierdorf, 10; Terre Haute, Kidnaped 10 Weeks Ago.

By the Associated Press.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., April 8.—The body of Edith Mae Dierdorf, her feet and hands wired together, was found yesterday lodged against a log in Buseron Creek, west of Baxton.

The 10-year-old news girl disappeared 10 weeks ago today. Hundreds of citizens joined in a search for her.

Her body was found by Nimrod Slaven, principal of the county school at Pleasantville, who was in the woods with his wife and four children looking for flowers.

Identification was made last night by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dierdorf, parents of the slain girl, from a signet ring, the shoes, and the girl's coat.

Coroner McGrew, of Sullivan County, where the body was found, said he thought death had been caused from a wound on the top of the head, apparently made by a blunt instrument.

Officers think the girl had been murdered and tossed from the bridge into the creek which was flooded swollen at the time of her disappearance.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS FIXING OF COAL PRICE IN WAR

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The Supreme Court today upheld President Wilson's order during the World War fixing the price of coal.

V. L. Highland of Harrison County, West Virginia, sought to compel the Russell Car & Snow Plow Co. of Clearfield, Pa., to pay a higher coal price fixed by contract.

The Pennsylvania State court refused to enforce the contract price of $3.50 a ton, holding that the price fixed by the President under the Lever Act of $2.50 a ton for a part of the time and of $2.45 for the remainder was binding. Highland challenged the validity of the Lever Act and of the authority of the President, under it, to fix the price of coal, insisting that he was entitled to a settlement at contract price.

Sinclair Must Serve Three Months in Jail

charges that there had been fraud and bad faith in the making of the leases, ordered an investigation by one of its standing committees and how this committee called Sinclair as a witness.

Sinclair, a member of the committee and its chief inquirer, asked Sinclair to tell about a contract he had made with Fred Bonilla, owner of the Denver Post, in connection with Teapot Dome.

Justice Butler quoted the question, told the circumstances which led to its being asked, and ruled that it was pertinent to the Senate's inquiry.

Sinclair's Argument.
Before doing this, however, the Justice stated the grounds on which Sinclair sought to have the sentence against him reversed.

"Appellant contends," says the opinion, "that his demerit to the several counts of the indictment should have been sustained and that a verdict of not guilty should have been directed. To support that contention he argues that the questions related to his private affairs and to matters cognizable only in the courts, whereas they were pending, and that the committee avowedly had departed from any inquiry in aid of legislation."

"He maintains that there was no proof of any authorized inquiry by the committee or that he was legally summoned or sworn or that the questions propounded were pertinent to any inquiry it was authorized to make, and that because of such failure he was entitled to have a verdict directed in his favor."

"He insists that the Court erred in holding that the question of pertinency was one of law for the Court and in not submitting it to the jury and also erred in excluding evidence offered to sustain his refusal to answer."

The opinion of the Court then proceeds to knock down the Sinclair arguments.

Cites Mal Doherty Case.
It cites the opinion in the Mal Doherty case as having definitely laid down the view of the court that the two Houses of Congress not only have the powers expressly granted to them by the Constitution, but also "such auxiliary powers as are necessary and appropriate to make the express powers effective."

The Butler opinion is careful to state that the powers of Congress "must be exercised with due regard for the rights of witnesses, and that a witness rightfully may refuse to answer where the bounds of the power are exceeded or where questions asked are not pertinent to the matter under inquiry."

"It has always been recognized in this country," the opinion proceeds, "and it is well to remember, that few if any of the rights of the people are of greater importance to their happiness and safety than the right to be exempt from all unauthorized, arbitrary or unreasonable inquiries and disclosures in respect of their personal and private affairs."

"Various opinions are cited to show the Court's attitude on this subject."

"But," the opinion goes on, "it is clear that neither the investigation authorized by the Senate nor the question under consideration related merely to appellant's private or personal affairs. Under the Constitution Congress has plenary power to dispose of and to make all needful rules and regulations respecting the naval oil reserves, other public lands and property of the United States. And undoubtedly the Senate had power to delegate to its committee to investigate and report what had been and was being done by executive departments under the leasing act, the naval oil reserves act, and the President's order in respect of the reserves, and to make any necessary inquiry concerning the public domain.

Not a Personal Affair.
"While appellant (Sinclair) caused the Mammoth Oil Co. to be organized and owned all its shares, the transaction purporting to lease to it the lands within the reserve cannot be said to be merely or principally the private or personal affair of appellant. It was a matter of concern to the United States. The title to valuable Government lands was in issue. The validity of the lease and the means by which it had been obtained under existing law were subjects that properly might be investigated in order to determine what, if any, legislation was necessary or desirable in order to recover the leased lands or to safeguard other parts of the public domain."

"Neither Senate joint resolution 54 nor the action taken under it operated to divest the Senate of the committee's power further to investigate the actual administration of the land laws. It may be conceded that Congress is without authority to compel disclosures for the purpose of aiding prosecution of pending suits, but the authority of that body directly or through its committees, to require pertinent disclosures in aid of its own constitutional power is not brought into question by the information sought to be elicited may also be of use in such suits."

"The record does not sustain appellant's contention that the investigation was avowedly not in aid of legislation. He relies on the refusal of the committee to pass the motion directing that the inquiry should not relate to controversies pending in court and the statement of one of the members that there was nothing else to examine the appellant about. But these are not enough to show that the committee intended to depart from the purpose to ascertain whether additional legislation might be advisable. It is plain that investigation of the matters involved in suits brought or to be commenced under the leasing act, and the inquiry into the facts tending to warrant its inquiries and the institution of holds inquiry pertinent. Taking up another point in the Sinclair argument, the opinion says that before the committee hearings at which he refused to answer, the committee had discovered facts tending to warrant its inquiries and the institution of suits for the cancellation of naval oil leases.

"Undoubtedly," the opinion continued, "it had authority to investigate concerning the validity of such leases, and to determine whether persons, other than those who had been made defendants in the suits against the Mammoth Oil Co. had or might assert a claim in respect of the lands covered by the lease to that company."

"The contract and release were given by Bonilla and the (John Leo Stack), related to the title of the lands covered by the lease which had been reported by the committee as authorized and fraudulent. The committee's investigation touching the rights and equities of the United States as owner."

The decision further holds that Justice Hitz, of the court below, was within his rights in deciding the question of pertinency, instead of referring the question to the jury.

"Upon reasons so well known that their repetition is unnecessary," says Justice Butler in the connection, "it is uniformly held that relevancy is a question of law."

Advice of Counsel No Defense.
Answering another argument, Sinclair's attorneys the opinion says: "There is no merit in appellant's contention that he is entitled to a new trial because the point of evidence that in refusing to answer, he acted in good faith, the advice of competent counsel. The gist of the offense is not to answer pertinent questions. It is a moral turpitude in having a 'tentative' violation is sufficient to constitute guilt. There was no apprehension as to what was at stake. The refusal to answer was deliberate. The facts sought to be proved were not in dispute. Section 102 made it appellant's duty to answer. He was rightly to construe the statute. It is mistaken view of the law is his defense."

The decision of the Supreme Court was on the first of the four counts on which Sinclair was convicted.

"As the sentence," says the court, "does not exceed the maximum authorized as punishment for the offense charged in the indictment, we need not consider any other count."

Heavy rains last night caused the River des Peres to overflow, flooding streets and stalled automobiles. The total rainfall was 3.01 inches.

In the southwestern part of St. Louis the river went on a sudden rampage, rising near the roadway at the Gravois road bridge. Half a dozen families living on McKlenburg and Fairfield avenues near the river banks moved out hurriedly as the waters swirled about their first floor.

NEW YORK CITY WINS

York from interfering with the 7-cent fare. Last spring the Supreme Court temporarily set aside the injunction and New York has had a 5-cent fare during the litigation.

Simpler Briefs Called For.
Voluminous briefs and exhibits were filed by the transit companies during the October term of the Supreme Court. These were so complicated that the court threw them out and called for new and simpler briefs. Charles Evans Hughes appeared for the Interborough.

The effect of the decision, it is expected, will be to stop further proceedings in the case now pending in Statutory Court at New York.

Justices Van Devanter, Sutherland and Butler dissented from the majority opinion.

Justice McReynolds read a lengthy statement on the controversy, going into great detail concerning the contract under which the Interborough operated the subway and the elevated which are the property of the Manhattan Railway Co.

None of the three contracts under which the subways are operated authorized an increase in fare, the opinion said, and continued:

"The Transit Commission has long held the view that it lacks power to change the 5-cent fare established by contract and it intended to test this point of law by its immediate orderly appeal to the courts of the State. This purpose should not be thwarted by an injunction.

"Upon the record before us we cannot accept the theory that the subways and elevated roads constitute a unified system for rate-making purposes. Considering the probable fair value of the subway and the current receipts therefrom, no adequate basis is shown for claiming that the 5-cent rate is now confiscatory in respect of them. The action below was based upon supposed values and requirements of all lines operated by the Interborough company treated as a unit, and the effort to support it here proceeds upon a like assumption."

"Considering the entire record," the majority opinion said, "we think the challenged order (of the Federal District Court) was improvident and beyond the proper discretion of the court."

"The record is voluminous; the contracts between the parties are complex; the relevant statutes intricate. No decision of this court or of any court of New York authoritatively determines the questions at issue. The basic one calls for construction of complicated State legislation."

Criticism of Lower Court.
A Justice McReynolds stated that the act of the New York Legislature of 1907 provided that the subway should be allowed to fix reasonable rates and he censured the Federal Court for entertaining the case, declaring that the Interborough should not have gone into the Federal Courts in February, 1928, following the refusal of the Transit Commission to grant an increase.

"The claim for an 8 per cent return upon the values of subways which are the property of the city and distinctly declared by statute to be public streets, is unprecedented and ought not to be accepted without more cogent support than the present record discloses," Justice McReynolds added.

"The operating equipment supplied under contract Nos. 1 and 2, which originally cost not over $60,000,000; real estate valued at $200,000 and office sundries of small value, is the only property connected with the subways to which the Interborough holds title, but it seeks remuneration based upon total values of all these ways and their equipment said to represent investments amounting to $360,000,000 and present value exceeding $600,000,000. At the current rate of return after paying operating expenses, taxes and rentals to the city, the Interborough will realize annually from the subways more than $17,000,000.

"The annual income of the elevated lines, after deducting operating expenses, maintenance, taxes, etc., probably will not hereafter exceed $4,000,000, and as the Interborough must pay rentals therefor amounting to $4,900,000, also interest on bonds, notes, etc. (issued for third tracks, extensions, etc.), in excess of $3,000,000, its loss by reason of this lease is heavy and apparently will increase."

"During 1927, passengers carried on the subway lines numbered 814,600,000; on the elevated, 359,000,000; total, 1,173,600,000. An increase of 2 cents upon each fare would have added to the subway $16,232,000; to the elevated, $7,180,000."

The voluminous majority opinion comprised 18 pages of which almost all was devoted to the history of the case.

Emphasizing that the effect of the contracts, "long the subject of serious dispute," depended upon the proper construction of State statutes," the opinion termed this a matter primarily for determination by the local courts.

ONE MAN HOLDS UP 20 IN DRUG STORE AND TAKES $1000

Robber With Two Revolvers Raids Harry Knapp Pharmacy, 6693 Delmar, at Midnight.

A robber with two automatic pistols held up 14 customers, the proprietor, and five clerks in Knapp's drug store, 6693 Delmar boulevard, last midnight, and escaped with the day's receipts, amounting to approximately $1000.

Harry Knapp, proprietor, today declined to state the amount taken, explaining that he is fearful other robbers may visit his store. University City police say they were told by employees that the various cash registers in the store contained about $1000. The loss is insured.

The robber, who was not masked and who was described as being about 30 years old and wearing a gray suit and a black derby hat, walked into the store a few minutes before midnight and said, "This is a stickup." A second man, who did not display a weapon, stood on the outside of the store, which is half a block from the University City police station, as lookout. Two other men, who later joined the man with the pistols and his companion in escaping, were seen standing in the doorway of a grocery adjoining the drug store on the east.

The robber with the pistols ordered the customers and clerks, including seven women, to congregate near the soda fountain with their hands raised. He then directed Knapp to get the cash. Knapp started toward the rear of the store, where the safe is located, but was halted by the robber, who commanded him to empty the cash registers. He quickly "I'll kill the women," the gunman said.

Knapp gathered the day's receipts from the cash registers, putting the currency and silver in a cloth sack handed him by the robber, who tucked the loot under his coat and backed out of the store. The robber's three companions joined him in a blue Chevrolet coupe parked in Delmar boulevard and the car was driven rapidly westward.

Police Stop for Raincoats, Find Two Burglars.
Patrolmen Reinwald and Becker dropped into the office of the Schroeder Coal Co., 2540 Lemay avenue, last night, to get their raincoats, stored there for rainy nights. They got the coats and two burglars as well.

One man who said he was Daniel Sullivan, 40 years old, was found under a desk with a tin box containing 76 cents, stamps and lead pencils. He threw away a revolver. A second man, who said he was Arthur Baw, 37, was hiding under a chair beside the desk. They had entered the office after forcing open a gate and a door.

Two men in an automobile drove up to the filling station at 4226 Gravois avenue last night and robbed the attendant, Peter Melgunkamp, of $25.

A burglar used a clothes pole to "fish" through an open window at 4447 Delmar boulevard and hooked the trousers of John Clubin. The trousers contained $12 and keys.

Four Negroes Confess $400 Holdup of Grocery.
The $400 holdup of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Muelken in their grocery at 5700 North Broadway Friday has been solved with the arrest of four Negroes, Raymond Wyatt, Edward Madison, Frank Smith and Lawrence Green, and $175 of the loot has been recovered. A 14-year-old boy who was playing ball in the street reported the license number of a Packard touring car in which the robbers escaped. Police found the Packard parked in front of a poolroom and arrested the driver, Wyatt, who implicated the other Negroes, all confessing.

Melvin Sims and Henry Brown, Negroes, are under arrest and have confessed breaking into the grocery of Nathan Comensky, 1306 O'Fallon street and hauling away 11 cases of malt and 500 pounds of sugar which they sold for $15 to Samuel Ingrassio, 2217 Carr street. Ingrassio told police he did not know he was buying stolen goods.

Still Seized in Vacant House.
Police raided a vacant residence at 712 Bowman street, East St. Louis, last night, and confiscated a 50-gallon still, 200 gallons of mash and three gallons of whisky. They arrested a man who described himself as Stanley Hudski. He said he was employed as a watchman.

STUDENT IS HELD FOR $487 HOLDUP OF TRUCK DRIVER

Employee of Cleaning Concern Says William E. Jackson of Brown U. Is One of Robbers.

A warrant charging first-degree robbery was issued today against William Edward Jackson, 19-year-old Brown University student, who is visiting his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stull, 601 East Polo drive, Clayton.

Jackson was arrested and gave $5000 bond Saturday night after being identified as a holdup man by a delivery truck driver. He denied the charge, declared it was a case of mistaken identity, and offered an alibi.

Jackson was identified by Irvin Gooman, 223 Hoffmeister place, a driver for the Lungstrass Dyeing and Cleaning Co., as one of two youths who robbed him of $487 at Wydown boulevard and Brentmoor drive, Clayton, the afternoon of March 4.

Last week Jackson called at a branch of the cleaning company and inquired about a suit he had left. Gooman, who chanced to be at the store, says he recognized him as one of the men who had robbed him. He learned the address of the company's customer and notified Clayton authorities.

The truck driver called on Chief of Police Frazer at Clayton and repeated the charge. The Chief summoned Jackson, and Gooman positively identified him.

However, Jackson did not remain in custody, his mother signing a $5000 bond for him so he might keep an engagement to a dance at the Glen Echo Country Club. The bond is returnable before Justice of the Peace Stecker, who issued the robbery warrant.

"I'm no robber," young Jackson told police. "I can prove I was at home at the time that man was held up. March 4 I spent the afternoon and evening at home listening to the broadcasting of the inaugural ceremonies from Washington, and other programs afterward."

"It's a case of mistaken identity," Jackson's statements were corroborated by his mother and stepfather.

Jackson was a student at Brown University, Providence, R. I., his mother said, until illness caused him to return home for a visit.

New York Pastor Rakes 'The Calvinism of Coolidge'

The Rev. Charles F. Potter Challenges Notion That God Took Boy's Life as Price of Presidency.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Calvin Coolidge's articles appearing in a current magazine were declared to be unethical, illogical and in poor taste by the Rev. Charles F. Potter in his sermon yesterday, "The Calvinism of Coolidge," at the Church of the Divine Paternity, Central Park West and Seventy-sixth street.

Dr. Potter said that the liberal church today could not ignore Mr. Coolidge's expressed theological views, which he likened to those of John Calvin, of letting the blame fall on someone else and belief in a jealous God. Dr. Potter characterized the views as "superstitions."

Analyses 'Heartaches.'
The minister assailed Mr. Coolidge's article on the "Heartaches" of being a President, and said: "The heartaches are due to two deaths, those of his son and father. Just what the presidency had to do with either of these deaths it is hard to discern, but evidently Mr. Coolidge thinks his position as President was in part responsible. He interprets the boy's death as a sort of sacrifice, a price exacted by Providence for the occupancy of the White House, and he blames his position as President for the fact he could not be with his father in Vermont during his illness."

Other men lose members of their family without blaming their jobs for it and the former President should have been thankful his position enabled him to obtain the best medical care, the clergyman declared.

knocked out of the ground by the impact.

J. E. Lackey, 70 years old, Medaryville, Ind., was the most seriously injured, his head being pierced. Powell Roberts, Chicago, driver of the bus, was unhurt. Among the injured were: Harriet Mahaney, Los Angeles, back injured; Lloyd Winters, 28, Detroit, cut on back and legs; William Murray, 26, Iron Mountain, Mich., back hurt; C. T. Courtney, 38, Knoxville, Tenn., cut, and Antonio Garcia, Pendero Moreno, Angel Lora and Santiago Soto, Mexicans.

There is in the marketing of these expressions of a former President a singular blindness to the high ethics and even to the canons of good taste," he continued. "We were informed that Mr. Coolidge would not consent to set up a law office in New York because that would be unethical; such a practice would be worth $100,000 and would be capitalizing his presidential privilege."

Says Value Is Not Literary.
The minister asserted the value of the articles was not in the literary quality but in the prominence of the author's former position.

Dr. Potter asserted that from Mr. Coolidge's arguments it was plain he believed his elevation to the presidency was paid for by the death of his son.

"Does Mr. Coolidge really believe in such a God as his words indicate?" the minister asked. "How can he worship a God who would permit such a price for his occupancy of the White House? If he should be renominated and elected in 1932, does he think God will take his other son?"

"These questions would be cruel if Mr. Coolidge were simply a heartbroken father. But since he received good money for this 'intimate story,' which has value because of his recent exalted position, and since he has expressed theological views which may soon confirm thousands of others in their superstitions, the liberal church cannot allow him to escape the consequences of his recent statements."

The investigation of Ike Skelton, Lafayette County prosecutor, is said to be centered about whether Seitz was a regularly appointed Deputy Constable, as asserted by himself and Potts. Seitz is said to be only 19 years old, and there has been some discussion as to whether Potts could deputize a citizen under legal age.

Potts' younger brother, Jack Potts, about 21, has been a deputy constable for some time.

It has not been learned whether the raiders had search warrants for the two raids. Sheriff Carl Hammer was in St. Joseph at the time of the raids. He said today he had not authorized the raids and that they were made on Potts' initiative.

Seitz has not been arrested, and no charges have been filed against him.

KILLED IN DRY RAID BY MISSOURI DEPUTY

Farmer Near Dover Said to Have Attacked and Disarmed Constable.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEXINGTON, Mo., April 8.—Lafayette County officers are investigating the fatal shooting Saturday night of Fred Harrington, 40 years old, in a liquor raid at his home near Dover, Mo. Harrington is said to have been shot by Eugene Seitz, who accompanied Constable Clarence Potts, in charge of the raid. The shooting is said to have followed an attack by Harrington on Potts, in which the former seized Potts' revolver and fired several shots at the Constable.

A pint of liquor was reported seized in the Harrington home.

According to the story told by Potts, Seitz and Jack Potts, a younger brother of the Constable, the three went to Harrington's home on a search for liquor after they had raided the home of Frank Guenther, also near Dover, and seized five gallons. Harrington, they said, struck the Constable with his fists when he entered the house, Potts stumbling over a stick of fire wood on the floor near his feet. After the Constable fell, the three men said, Harrington jumped upon him, took the officer's revolver from him and fired several shots, all of which went wild. Harrington then began beating Potts, according to the story, and Seitz fired the shot that killed Harrington.

Seitz has not been arrested, and no charges have been filed against him.

ORGANIZED LABOR GIVES HOOVER ITS VIEWS ON TARIFF

A. F. L. Delegation Suggests That American, Not Foreign Cost of Commodity, Be Basis of Tax.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 8.—Organized labor's views on revision and administration of the tariff were presented to President Hoover today by a delegation representing the American Federation of Labor. Adoption of the American valuation principle in determining tariff schedules was urged as a more effective means of fixing duties and one which is fairer to the wage earner than that now followed. Under this principle the price of imported commodities in American markets, rather than the cost of production abroad, is the basic factor.

The President's attention was called to the provisions of existing laws prohibiting the importation of articles manufactured by convict labor, and the delegation urged that this principle be extended to bar products of foreign child labor. It was pointed out that America had placed restrictions upon child labor while the foreign manufacturer was left free to make use of it.

Changes also were urged in the administrative provisions of the tariff laws, which would enable organized labor to present its views in cases of valuations of imports, a privilege which the delegation said was not now accorded. In this connection, the delegation asked that the personnel of the Tariff Commission be arranged to include a representative of organized labor.

The group was led by Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, and included Michael J. Flynn, executive secretary of America's Wage Earners' Protective Conference; James Maloney, president of the Glass Bottle Blowers' Association; Charles L. Balbo, secretary of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, and I. M. Ornburn, president of the Cigar Makers' International Union.

Graduate of Sorbonne in Paris Takes Poison on Northwestern U. Campus.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, April 8.—A man who wrote of unrequited love for a Northwestern University woman student and then ended his life on the university campus by drinking poison was identified last night as Timon de Coston, a graduate of the University of Paris and the son of a French embassy attaché at Constantinople.

The identification was made by Miss Margaret Walker, a sophomore, with whom De Coston had been acquainted three years. Miss Walker told police De Coston was about 27 years old and had come to America to establish an exporting and importing business. A partner in Paris who absconded with the limited funds of their joint business left him nearly penniless, the girl said.

EXPLOSION, PROBABLY OF GAS, WRECKED HOUSE AT 2613 ECOFF

Firemen Think Accumulation of Fumes in Closed Residence to Blame; No One Hurt.

Police are investigating an explosion which destroyed the one-story frame residence of Claude Perkins at 2613 Ecoff avenue at 10:35 o'clock Saturday night. City firemen expressed an opinion that accumulation of gas in the closed house was responsible.

The front and rear walls of the house were blown out. No one was injured. Perkins and his wife left home at noon Saturday and returned at midnight. The house is owned by Vincent La Duca, 7315 Commonwealth avenue.

URNS IN FIRE ALARM TO GET A POLICEMAN

Frank Dickens Says He Was Robbed and Couldn't Find an Officer.

A false fire alarm was turned in from a box at Tenth and Morrison streets early yesterday. Police arrested Frank Dickens, 24 years old, 1112 South Eighth street, who was standing near the box.

"Sure, I turned in the alarm," admitted Dickens. "I was passing the corner when a man hit me on the head and robbed me of $11. There was no cop handy, so I pulled the hook to get one."

Dickens said he had earned the money by working four days at the Pacific (Mo.) waterworks. His wife said he had worked one day and earned $2.15. "That's right," conceded Dickens. "I won the rest of the money in a crap game."

Police said they would apply for a warrant against Dickens. Two other false fire alarms were turned in last night, the first from a box at Shaw avenue and Hereford street at 6:25 o'clock, and the second from Vandeventer avenue and Lucky street at 10 o'clock.

Investigating a false alarm turned in from a box at Nineteenth and Olive streets Saturday night, police found a witness who told of seeing two men in a blue roadster at the scene. The witness said one of the men got out of the car, smashed the glass window in the box and pulled the hook. The witness inquired as to the location of the fire, and the man answered that it was in a nearby garage. The man was described as between 25 and 30 years old, about 5 feet 2 inches tall and 200 pounds in weight and wearing a light suit.

1700 CANDIDATES FOR BRITISH COMMONS MAKING CAMPAIGN

General Elections May 30; Liberals Promise to Conquer Unemployment.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, April 8.—Campaigning for the British parliamentary general elections on May 30 was begun in earnest today by all three of the major political parties.

For the next seven weeks, Great Britain will be flooded with campaign literature and will ring with political oratory. Every means of human communication, from the radio to the penny pamphlet, is to carry the messages of Conservatives, Liberals and Laborites to the British electorate. Nearly 1700 candidates for the House of Commons are making campaigns.

The Liberals, whose party is as yet the only one to announce its full platform, redoubled their efforts by opening a vote-getting campaign "from Land's End to John O'Groats," raising the Liberal battle cry, "we can conquer unemployment."

From the Liberal headquarters in London, Lloyd George cheered his chief lieutenant with a characteristic message emphasizing the social reform aspect of the Liberal program and declaring that the party had united its efforts in a determination to "remove those evils of unemployment, homelessness, agricultural depression and overcrowded poverty of towns from which the nation is suffering."

The Conservatives and Laborites are not yet as active vocally as the Liberals but are just as busy behind the scenes.

GRADE CROSSING GATES 'HORSE AND BUGGY AFFAIR'

Mo.-Pac. Employee Testifies at Hearing to Substitute Lights for Watchmen in St. Louis.

The practice of protecting grade crossings by watchmen and gates is "a horse and buggy proposition," Paul M. Gault, signal engineer of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, argued before Commissioner Almon of the State Public Service Commission at the City Hall today in behalf of the railroad's application for permission to substitute automatic light and bell signals at various crossings, mostly in South and Southwest St. Louis.

Gault explained that the proposed signals would be set on seven-foot standards and would flash red and sound a gong intermittently on the approach of a train. Crossing gates are sufficient to stop horse-drawn vehicles, he said, but of little use against automobiles.

He declared that two of the signals had been tried for more than a year, one at Pennsylvania avenue in St. Louis County, and the other at Minnesota avenue, in South St. Louis, and neither had failed to operate at any time when a train was approaching.

Prefers Signals to Watchmen.
Six railroads were named by Gault as having installed similar signals at various points in the country. The Baltimore & Ohio, he said, had several of them in use in Cincinnati, the Rock Island lines had installed six in Chicago and the Northern Pacific 21 in Tacoma.

Asked if the change would be of any advantage to the public, Gault declared the signals would be "a great advantage to the public" because of the lack of the human element, and remarked that "watchmen have been known to fall asleep."

Gault was cross-examined at length by City Counselor Muench and an assistant, Forrest G. Ferris. He explained that the bells would be silenced at crossings where residents in the neighborhood objected. He expressed the opinion that children were more likely than adults to pay attention to a signal. An automobile driver who would pass a signal, he ventured, would crash through a crossing gate. He said he had never heard of a case where a watchman flagged a train for an automobile stalled on the tracks. The fact that the railroad expects to have $16,000 by the change, he said, was "a secondary consideration."

Questioned about the danger of the signals failing to operate, Gault declared they would be inspected several times a day and that employees would be instructed to report promptly when they were out of order. At all the crossings involved, he said, the view of the flashing lights would be clear for from 1500 to 2000 feet. He admitted, however, that a large truck might obstruct the view of the signal.

"What would do most in your opinion, to prevent accidents in cities?" Muench asked.

"The most effective thing would be for the city to make every railroad crossing a boulevard stop."

"Isn't it true that the automatic signal transfers responsibility from the railroad to the automobile driver?"

"The main responsibility rests on the railroad's maintenance department, which keeps the signals operating efficiently."

Thomas J. Cole appeared at the hearing as attorney for the railroad. Others who were there included City Traffic Engineer Hoffman, who had prepared tables on the volume of traffic at the various crossings involved; Coroner Dever; Girard C. Varum, secretary-manager of the St. Louis Safety Council; several members of the Holly Hills Improvement Association, and F. Y. Verson, city engineer of Kirkwood, where one of the signals is contemplated for the Taylor avenue crossing.

City crossings involved in the application are at the following streets: Koeln avenue, Marmont street, Chippewa street and Kingshighway on the Oak Hill branch; Southwest, Ecoff, Knox, Sulphur, Macklind and Courtis avenues on the main line, and Courtis avenue, Stein street and Kraus street on the Iron Mountain division.

SYMPHONY JUBILEE PROMOTED BY WOMEN

Many to Sell Season Tickets for Fiftieth Anniversary of Orchestra.

Committees of women have been organized to assure success for next year's golden jubilee season of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra by selling season tickets for the concert.

To encourage the interest of the many volunteer workers, a tea was arranged for this afternoon at the Woman's Club. On the program was a brief recital by Max Steindel, solo cellist of the Symphony Orchestra, a talk by J. Edgar Davis in review of the history and achievements of the orchestra in its 49 years of life, and provision for discussion of the campaign methods to be followed. The women will be prepared to take up their ticket-selling efforts actively, following the tea. They have been encouraged by the attitude of the public towards the orchestra in the season just closed, and they hope to have all seats sold for the Friday afternoon and season. Most St. Louis clubs are represented among the volunteers, and business and professional women are included.

Mrs. Benedict Farrar and Mrs. Thomas Francis are co-chairmen of the organization. Aiding them is an Executive Committee comprising Mrs. Louis La Beaume, Mrs. Thomas G. DENIES CONGRESSMAN HAD LIQUOR IN TRUNK Lawyer Says Michaelson Gave His Frank to Another Member of His Party.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, April 8.—Congressman M. A. Michaelson of Chicago, Jones bill supporter, indicted in Federal Court at Jacksonville, Fla., on a charge of smuggling liquor, yesterday issued his first public statement since his arrest over a week ago.

His general denial that he had committed any offense against the United States Government was supplemented by Benedict Short, his attorney, who said: "There was one man of the party that visited Cuba with Michaelson who was not a member of Congress. Michaelson kindly gave him his Congressional frank. It was this man's trunk that held the liquor."

The liquor, part of which is alleged to have trickled out of the Congressman's trunk at Jacksonville and caught the attention of a policeman, consisted of six quarts of whisky, five quarts of assorted liquors, and a small keg of plum brandy.

The indictment, made public two weeks ago, was returned last December. The importation of the liquor was alleged to have been made in January, 1928, through the freedom of the port of Key West.

FOUND STRANGLED TO DEATH IN AUTO PARKED IN STREET

Mrs. Linda Beggins, Mother of Three, Slain in New York — Steering Wheel Fingerprints Clew.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Fingerprints on the steering wheel of a stolen automobile were clues police had today in a search for the slayer of a woman whose body was found in the car.

The victim was identified as Mrs. Linda Beggins, 35 years old, mother of three children.

The crime was discovered yesterday after a group of women informed Lieut. Arthur Coy of the fire department that they thought a woman in a car parked in West Thirty-sixth street was dead. Coy investigated and notified police.

The body bore marks of violence and indications that the victim had been strangled.

Detectives ascertained that the automobile was owned by Miss Ernestine Durr of the Bronx and had been stolen from her brother, Godfrey Durr, Saturday night.

CONGRESSMAN TO DEMAND FEDERAL RESERVE INQUIRY

Reid of Illinois to Submit Resolution During Special Session Next Week.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, April 8.—A resolution demanding an investigation of the Federal Reserve Board's policy tending to curb stock market speculation will be presented by Congressman Frank R. Reid of Illinois at the special session of Congress next week.

"The present action of the Federal Reserve Board may be as unwise as was the drastic deflation policies charged to it in 1920," Reid said. "The country has not yet fully recovered from the paralysis inflicted upon agriculture by its policy then."

He charged that the board had exceeded its powers in forcing call money to 20 per cent, and that the action was reflected in usurious rates of interest on commercial loans.

The resolution will call for the appointment of a committee of nine members of Congress, and the committee would be required to report to Congress the answers to eight specific questions of a technical nature. Reid wants the committee to determine whether the board is unduly influenced by conditions abroad and asserts that the Federal Reserve policy has improved British credit conditions to the detriment of the United States.

TOOMBS TRIAL PUT OFF UNTIL WEDNESDAY AT HIS REQUEST

Former Life Insurance Head Charged With Larceny and Procuring False Certificates.

The trial of Roy C. Toombs, former president of the International Insurance Co., for the manipulations by which he removed $3,500,000 from the company's assets and threw it into bankruptcy, was deferred today in Circuit Judge Hartmann's court for two days. It is set to begin at 10 a. m. Wednesday.

Of the indictments pending against Toombs in the State courts, two charge him with grand larceny and three with procuring false certificates of stock, used by him for raising money. It has not been announced which charge the State will elect to try first.

Roy C. Woods of Chicago, a member of the Illinois State Senate, appeared today as Toombs' counsel. After the State had announced itself ready for trial, Woods said he wished to ask, not for continuance, but for time to complete arrangements for getting local counsel. The two days' delay was then granted.

Thomas C. Hennings Jr., one of Circuit Attorney Miller's staff, appeared for the State.

WOULD DELAY CLOSING J. P. NEWELL ESTATE

Bonding Company Makes Motion Solely as Precautionary Measure.

The Massachusetts Bonding & Insurance Co. has filed a motion in Probate Court objecting to the closing of the estate of James P. Newell, former Public Administrator.

Newell died before he could make final settlement in all of the estates which were being administered by him in his official capacity and consequently the Massachusetts Co., as surety on his bond, does not want his individual estate settled.

Harold F. Hecker, attorney for the surety company explained that the motion was a precautionary measure. The company, he said, would have recourse against Newell's estate, if it were not closed, in the event it should become liable under his bond, on account of estates handled by his office which have not yet been closed. According to the motion 15 small estates totaling $9762 which were under Newell's charge are still unsettled.

Probate Judge Holtcamp ordered argument on the motion Friday but laid it over on the assurance by Attorney W. W. Henderson for Mrs. Newell, the administratrix, that before long all of Newell's affairs as Public Administrator would be settled. He said that the money for this purpose was in bank and as soon as certain receipts and other documents could be found proper adjustment would be made.

Commenting off the bench in regard to the motion Judge Holtcamp said there was nothing in the case reflecting unfavorably on Newell, whose administration of the office was never open to question.

CANADA TO MAKE A TREATY TEST OF 'I'M ALONE' AFFAIR

Most of the Moot Points in 1924 Liquor Smuggling Pact With U. S. Included in This Case.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Formal representations on the sinking of the liquor runner "I'm Alone" by a coast guard patrol boat in the Gulf of Mexico have been received from Ottawa by the Canadian legation for presentation to the State Department.

Except for the brief announcement by the Canadian Prime Minister, Mackenzie King, that the sinking of the vessel, which was of Canadian registry, would be the subject of formal discussion between the United States and Canadian Governments, officials in Ottawa and at the Canadian legation here have been reticent regarding the contents of the note.

Unofficial views, however, are that the Canadians are interested in the points at issue between the two governments over the anti-liquor smuggling treaty of 1924 which binds Canada as a dominion, than they are over the actual sinking.

Against U. S. Interpretations.
On two previous occasions when Canadian ships were seized by coast guard vessels for liquor-running, the Canadian Government informally made known that it was not in sympathy with certain interpretations placed by the United States on provisions of the 1924 treaty under which the ships were seized.

It has been said in reliable quarters here that Great Britain and Canada are particularly interested in having these divergent viewpoints reconciled before a case more serious even than that of the "I'm Alone" arises. The "I'm Alone" case is regarded as embracing most of the contested points and enables the governments to bring the matter up for discussion.

The usual procedure in such cases is to have the diplomatic representative on the spot to study the information available, draft a note and submit it to his government for approval or correction. The interested government then returns the note to the legation, with instructions to present it or to drop the case.

Since it has been thought that the Canadians were desirous of discussing the treaty, the points on which they have been unofficially expected to predicate their case are these:

Whether the right under the treaty to search and seize suspected liquor runners within "one hour's sailing from shore" is interpreted by the Americans to imply the right to pursue a vessel outside that limit for search and seizure.

Whether a pursuit lasting more than a few hours and carrying the vessels far out on the high seas is considered by the Americans to be "hot and continuous."

Whether another vessel other than the one which began the chase can take up the pursuit and subsequently sink the vessel, as was done with the "I'm Alone."

Whether the sinking of a vessel, involving loss of life and property, as was the case with the "I'm Alone," is not considered a violent means of enforcing the provisions of the treaty.

Senator Johnson's View.
Submission to the World Court of the questions that have grown out of the sinking of the "I'm Alone" in the opinion of Senator Johnson (Rep.), California, would mean permitting "foreign judges bitterly opposed to our policy" to sit as arbiters.

Johnson, an irreconcilable in his opposition to American adherence to the Court, is making a campaign against the revised formula for adherence of this country recently worked out at Geneva by Elihu Root with other jurists, which probably will be placed before the Senate for ratification at the December session.

If the United States, after joining the World Court, would not submit the "I'm Alone" dispute to that tribunal, Johnson said, "we would then be in the position, immediately after joining the Court, of at once repudiating it, a role, of course, which no self-respecting nation would desire."

"If on the other hand," he continued, "we submitted ourselves and the case to the Court, Great Britain, France, Canada and foreign judges bitterly opposed to our policy would pass upon it."

"The United States would be before a foreign court with 14 judges, all of them doubtlessly opposing what we have made a national policy. So, in a case involving prohibition, especially, if of serious import like the sinking of the 'I'm Alone,' the atmosphere of this foreign court would be so freezing as to chill even the American representative. Moreover, the case might be brought into court, were the United States a member, by either Great Britain or France or Canada."

Delinquent Taxes Increase.
Failure of the Troy State Bank a month ago is reflected in the report on tax collections in Jarvis Township made yesterday to the County Treasurer at Edwardsville. The delinquent taxes reported this year total $4922, as compared with $2182 in 1926 and $1848 in 1924.

WET ASKS HOOVER TO TAKE ACTION ON NEGRO SUFFRAGE

Congressman Tinkham Demands Inquiry Into "Nullification" of 14th and 15th Amendments.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—In an open letter to President Hoover, Representative George Holden Tinkham, wet Republican from Boston, has demanded that the President's Law Enforcement Commission investigate the circumstances surrounding the enforcement and non-enforcement of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments as well as the eighteenth amendment, or the President recommend passage of laws to enforce the earlier amendments.

Tinkham quoted the President's own utterances regarding the necessity of enforcement of the Constitution in its entirety and declared that the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments were now "wholly and grossly nullified" in many states.

"Negroes," he said, "are counted in the population for purposes of representation in the lower House of Congress and then disfranchised, giving those states disproportionate representation, unfair to the other states of the Union, and thereby making elections to the House of Representatives and a President illegal and unconstitutional."

Text of Letter.

My dear Mr. President: Permit me respectfully to draw your attention to the fourteenth amendment and the fifteenth amendment of the Constitution. The former amendment makes Negroes citizens of the United States and provides that the basis of representation shall be reduced in proportion to existing disfranchisement in any state, and the latter amendment prohibits any state from giving preference in the exercise of suffrage to one citizen over another on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude, and the duty of enforcing these amendments rests with the Congress and the President.

"No laws have been passed to enforce these amendments. They are now wholly and grossly nullified in many states. Negroes are counted in the population for purposes of representation in the lower House of Congress and then disfranchised, giving those states disproportionate representation, unfair to the other states of the Union, and thereby making elections to the House of Representatives and of a President illegal and unconstitutional."

Cites G. O. P. Platform.

"The Republican platform upon which you were elected states: 'We reaffirm the American constitutional doctrine as announced by George Washington in his Farewell Address, to wit: "The Constitution, which at any time exists until changed by the explicit and authentic act of the whole people, is sacredly obligatory upon all."

"We also reaffirm the attitude of the American people toward the Federal Constitution as declared by Abraham Lincoln: "We are by both duty and inclination bound to stick by that Constitution in all its letter and spirit from beginning to end. I am for the honest enforcement of the Constitution. Our safety, our liberty, depends upon preserving the Constitution of the United States, as our forefathers made it inviolate."

"In your speech of acceptance as the Republican candidate for President in August last, you stated: "Whoever is elected President takes an oath not only to faithfully execute the office of the President, but that oath provides still further that he will, to the best of his ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

Quotes From Inaugural Speech.
"In your inaugural address, you stated: "Our whole system of self-government will crumble either if officials elect what laws they will enforce or citizens elect what laws they will support."

"The Constitution of the United States is the supreme law of the land."

"In your inaugural address, you also stated: "It appears to me that the more important further mandates from the recent election were the maintenance of the integrity of the Constitution; . . ."

"In your speech of acceptance last August, in your inaugural address, and in a recent public statement you proposed a national investigation of the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment of the Constitution."

"Permit me respectfully to state that of you are to obey your oath of office and to the best of your ability 'preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States,' if our whole system of self-government will crumble, 'if officials elect what laws they will enforce,' and if one of 'the more important further mandates from the recent election' was 'the maintenance of the integrity of the Constitution,' you must either recommend to the Congress the passage of laws to enforce these amendments or refer the enforcement of them to your national investigating committee."

"Justice and constitutional rights should not be denied to citizens because they are not politically organized nor in possession of great wealth."

"Permit me also to draw to your attention the great distinction in the adoption of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments and the eighteenth amendment."

"It has well been said by great statesmen that law should be crystallized public opinion."

"The fourteenth and the fifteenth amendments were placed in the Constitution as the result of a great Civil War, were in conformity with the principles of the Constitution and its proper functions, and added a greater total of freedom and liberty than existed before their adoption."

"The eighteenth amendment was placed in the Constitution under a subterfuge as a war measure and by the expenditure of a vast amount of money. It is not in conformity with the principles of the Constitution and its proper functions, and instead of adding to the total of freedom and liberty it has established a bureaucratic tyranny—yes, a despotism of the most offensive character, and has taken away from citizens one of their most cherished rights, the right of governing individually their private conduct, and given this right to a political system which daily becomes more corrupt and brutal."

The Original George Steck "Parsifal" Piano

RICHARD WAGNER loved no piano as he did his George Steck, and upon it he composed "Parsifal" the epochal music-drama, his last and greatest work. In commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the completion of "Parsifal" this celebrated Piano is en tour in America. Its engagement for St. Louis is sponsored by the Piano Teachers Educational Association.

An Event Unparalleled in Music

A great composer's Piano from overseas—that all who know of his works may see and hear the Piano that, because of his love for it, quickened genius. "Parsifal" was composed in its entirety on this George Steck Piano. And now, after fifty years this same Piano with all of its pristine vigor and every musical quality that so endeared it to Wagner, is here through the activity of the Piano Teachers Educational Association. A large attendance is anticipated, as no composer is more admired and esteemed than he who gave the world Tannhauser, Lohengrin, and Parsifal. Complimentary tickets may be obtained from the members of the Association.

Through the courtesy of the Piano Teachers Educational Association this famous George Steck Parsifal Piano will be on exhibit from nine to nine Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at the Aeolian Company, 1004 Olive

SABOTAGE IN U. S. BY GERMAN SPIES DENIED AT HEARING

Agent Asserts Such Charges in Black Tom Explosion Constitute "Background of Phantasy."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Germany's response to specific charges of responsibility for the Black Tom terminal and Kingsland (N.
J.) munitions explosions and fires in the World War was begun today before the German-American Mixed Claims Commission by Dr.
Wilhelm Tannenberg, counsel to the German agent.

Karl von Lewinski, the German agent, gave the central place in the discussion on the United States sabotage claims for $24,000,000, to his associate, after completing what he termed "clearing the stage of an artificial background of mere phantasy" of the United States agent.

This background, he asserted, was the entire argument made by the United States agent to show that Germany was engaged in a sabotage program in America, that an army of destruction existed, and that the Black Tom and Kingsland disasters were "to be expected."

Von Lewinski accused the United States agent of building this background to obscure the main issue, the question of Germany's responsibility in the disasters. He declared his argument had shown that the famous Zimmerman cable to the German Embassy in Washington in 1916 was "disregarded"; that this was the only evidence produced to show that Germany authorized destruction of American property; and that the only persons who actually attempted such a program were the notorious Faye and Rintelen, both of whom, he contended, were "free agents" acting for Germany but not legally its agents.

20 BUSINESS MEN ACCUSED OF KIDNAPING UNION LEADERS

Labor Body Trying to Get Evidence Against Group at Elizabethton, Tenn.

By the Associated Press.

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn., April
8.—Labor leaders today were trying to obtain evidence against 20 business men here that they took part in the kidnaping of two American Federation of Labor representatives, with a view to starting criminal and civil prosecution against them, promised in an address here yesterday by William Green, president of the federation.

Six other business men are under bond on charges of felonious assault on John B. Penix, a county organizer for the federation, who was awakened last Thursday night and ordered to leave town. An aged sister of Penix came to her brother's aid with a pistol and drove his assailants away.

Two other representatives of the labor body, Edward McGrady and Alford Hoffman, are said to have been forced to leave Elizabethton the same night, however, and it is in connection with their kidnaping that the present investigation is un-

TWO ROBBERS GET FIVE YEARS EACH ON PLEAS OF GUILTY.

Edward Boland Admits Two Hold-ups, Netting $13.26; Other Man Took $4.

Two robbers were sentenced to five years in prison by Circuit Judge Rutledge, before whom they entered pleas of guilty today.

Edward Boland, 32 years old, of 2014 Morgan street, pleaded guilty of robbing Jack Powell, 2932 Clark avenue, of $15, and President
Craig, 1527 North Newstead avenue, of 25 cents, on Feb. 2. Boland was sentenced to five years on each charge, the sentences to run concurrently.

Otto Sacks, 4468 Vista avenue, received a five-year sentence for a $4 holdup at a Kroger store at 1903 North Nineteenth street on Jan. 19.

DIVORCE TO MRS. DORIS CURRY

Actress Says Los Angeles Real Es-

Mrs. Doris Curry, 34 years old, an actress, of Hotel Chase, today obtained a divorce from Raymond J. Curry, Los Angeles real estate operator. She was awarded custody of their 11-year-old daughter, Margaretta.

She alleged general indignities and testified she was married in St. Louis in 1914 and that Curry deserted her in 1915, forcing her to act in the Hollywood movies and on the stage in New York, with the Duncan sister, to support herself and child.

EINSTEIN THEORY CLOAKS ATHEISM, SAYS CARDINAL

O'Connell of Boston, in Address, Asserts Enthusiasm About Scientist Is "All Worked Up."

HYPOTHESIS CREATES DOUBT ABOUT GOD

Declares American Public Has Tendency to Run After Novelties That Have Nothing but Newness.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, April 8.—Cardinal O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston, believes that behind the Einstein theory of space and time there lurks the "ghastly apparition of atheism."

The Cardinal so expressed himself yesterday in a communion breakfast address before the New England province of Catholic clubs of America in which he stressed the necessity of religious faith and assailed the "pseudo-intellectualism."

After condemning "petty, begotten professors" who have set up a new standard "to attract attention to themselves," the Cardinal turned directly to the Einstein theory.

Worked-Up Enthusiasm. "Why do men and women who pretend to be intellectual forget the very rudiments of life?" he asked. "What does all this worked-up enthusiasm about Einstein mean?"

It is evidently worked up, said the Cardinal, because I have never yet met a man who understood in the least what Einstein is driving at, and I have been so much impressed by this fact that I very seriously doubt that Einstein himself knows really what he is driving at.

"Truth is always very clear when seen with a clear eye. The fact that any theory cannot be elucidated and only succeeds in befogging the mind is patent proof that it is not really truth."

"Now, I have my own ideas about the so-called theories of Einstein, with his relativity and utterly befogged notions about space and time. It seems nothing short of an attempt at muddying the waters without perceiving the drift. Innocent students are led away into a realm of speculative thought, the sole basis of which, so far as I can see, is to produce a universal doubt about God and His creation."

"Befogged Speculation." "I mean that while I do not wish to accuse Einstein at present of deliberately wishing to destroy the Christian faith and the Christian basis of life, I half suspect that if we wait a little longer he unquestionably will reveal himself in this attitude. In a word, the outcome of this doubt and befogged speculation about time and space is a cloak beneath which lies the ghastly apparition of atheism."

"Europe has an odd civilization and is used to the sudden appearance of fantastic philosophers. They gain very little credit among European minds unless they have something really solid and probable to reveal, but we all know that one of the weaknesses of the American public is to run after novelties which have nothing in them but their newness."

"The American student body is very often misled into the chase of knowledge by the sudden appearance of these glittering meteor who from time to time shoot across the horizon. And then it seems that there is some sort of an organized clique that boasts of these sudden apparitions and as quickly disallows them and forgets them."

Intellectual World Puzzled. "Now for the moment it is Einstein. Nobody knows what he is trying to reveal, but in a certain sense that adds mystery to his name; and the intellectual mind, while puzzled, is almost ready to applaud, but in a short time it will be perfectly clear that Einstein's theory has come and gone and then, no doubt, there will be someone else who for the moment will gain the applause of the clique and he will be hailed as the greatest philosopher of modern times."

"All this pseudo-careful student youth must be in following this fabulous applause which oftentimes is merely the outpouring of a sort of hero worship, but even as such can do endless harm to the impressionable mind of youth."

The Cardinal closed with an appeal that his hearers not be misled by "false prophets" but like Newman and Pasteur and Koch, let all things be held fast to your Catholic faith."

Einstein Uninterested in Criticism. BERLIN, April 8.—Prof. Albert Einstein today said Cardinal O'Connell's assertion that his theory of space and time had behind it the "ghastly apparition of atheism," left him uninterested.

FATE OF GERMANY IN HANDS OF EXPERTS IN PARIS, WITH FUTURE OF OTHER NATIONS

Dr. William Marx Says Payments Imposed by London Treaty Are Excessive—Asserts Country Is Stabilized.

By WILHELM MARX, Thirce Chancellor of Germany. (Copyright, 1929.)

BERLIN, April 8.—Nobody can deny that on the decision of the Experts' Commission in Paris there depends in a great measure not merely the fate of Germany, but also the economic development of other states. The indications are that a final agreement concerning the total amount of reparations to be paid by Germany and the period during which these payments are to be made, can be expected in the very near future. It is but proper that the attention of the whole civilized world is centered in Paris and on the report of the Experts' Commission.

The experts have succeeded in a manner deserving commendation in carrying on their deliberations with the greatest privacy. Reports that have heretofore appeared in the press regarding the results of these deliberations must, in our opinion, be regarded with the greatest caution. A great part of such reports appears to us to be based on conjectures or empty talk.

It is, however, generally believed that the experts are near to agreement upon the yearly payment of 1,750,000,000 marks ($47,500,000) to be paid by Germany for a period of 57 years.

Doubts Ability to Pay. That Germany cannot, without permanently ruining her economy and finances in the long run, continue the yearly payments of 2,500,000,000 marks imposed on her under the London treaty will probably be denied by no intelligent economist. And it can be asserted with equal certainty that an objective consideration will show she is quite unable to pay 1,750,000,000 marks yearly for so long a period as 57 years.

It cannot and will not be denied that Germany's economy, and especially since 1924, has been gaining ground, although slowly and hesitatingly. Nor can it seriously be denied that Germany's currency has been stable since that time. Its stabilization was grounded on the trenchant and openly forcible measures of the Government then in power. Its stability, now maintained well into the fifth year, shows that the steps taken by that Government were absolutely right. For only through that action was the confidence in Germany's uprightness will to fulfill her obligations to the very limit that was possible, finally restored abroad.

But the fact must not be overlooked that the strengthening of German economy has been brought about not through Germany's own power, but that it rests to a regrettable degree on the external aid of large loans which public and private enterprises alike, under the compulsion of hard times, were forced to secure. These loans, too, will have to be repaid in the not-too-distant future. Their total is absolutely catastrophic.

Huge Total of Loans. The burden imposed by loans alone on German economy is estimated at more than 10,000,000,000 marks. How these repayments, especially in view of the high interest rate of at least 10 per cent, and in addition thereto the yearly payments of 1,750,000,000 marks, can be borne by German economy is incomprehensible to every intelligent observer.

If Germany must pay out such sums it can only be done by improving her balance of trade. But how can any such increase and improvement in the balance of trade be regarded as possible when one considers the fact that in 1928 our surplus imports over exports amounted to 2,500,000,000 marks?

We are convinced that our view of the situation is entirely in accord with the view of the German representatives at the Paris Commission. For every one who knows the conditions of Germany thoroughly no other view is possible. It can, to be sure, be objected that it has not yet been finally decided whether payments must actually be made by Germany every year for 57 years. Many things could happen in such a period, such as new agreements with the states in question or similar happenings which might result in a reduction of the amount of payments or even in canceling entirely all Germany's obligations.

But intelligent politics may not count on such possibilities. The enormous obligation to pay such a sum for such a period would amount to a crushing millstone around the neck of German economy in its present situation.

And the question is not merely an economic, but also a political one. It is a source of greatest satisfaction to know that the chief of the German delegates, Dr. Schacht and Dr. Voelger, enjoy the complete confidence of the whole German nation. Even the political opposition has carefully refrained from any criticism. In particular, Schacht's expert knowledge and his so often demonstrated ability as a negotiator are acknowledged by everybody. And in any event the overwhelming majority of the German people and their parliamentary representatives are irremovably committed to the policy and understanding that have been carried on since 1924.

There are two factors which so far as our observation goes have inspired in certain influential circles in America the fear that one cannot entirely depend on the genuineness of the German people's determination to fulfill their reparations obligations to the extreme limit of their ability. Some of these circles see danger in the strong representation of the Socialists in the German Reichstag and in the endeavors of the other parties, particularly the Center, to form a government together with the Socialists. Certain American circles appear to cherish the feeling that the Socialists are closely allied with the Communists and that their gain in numbers and their participation in government justify the fear that Germany is headed for bolshevism.

Socialists Support State. These fears are utterly unfounded. In its attitude toward state, society and economy, the Socialist party is diametrically opposed to the fantasies of the Communists, whose dogmas are just at the present time facing a menacing crisis, even in Russia. German Socialists are the most decided supporters of the existing state. Their whole political attitude is not only violently opposed by the Communists, but also by the members of the existing state at present engaged in a political struggle of a violence such as we can note between no other German parties.

But the fact that the Socialist party, as has been said, stands firmly in the principle of state as it is today, does not imply that the Weimar constitution is in accord with the fundamental principles of Socialism. On the contrary, it contains, as does also the legislation of Germany in the last few years, very much that cannot be reconciled with Marxist principles. It is precisely this fact that makes it possible for the bourgeois parties to stabilize their position in the Cabinet and in legislating, and that is a guaranty for the continuing peaceful development of the German Republic, provided no unwise interference comes from without.

One Party Awakens Uneasiness. On the other hand, it is the unwise and also unnational attitude of certain German national circles that awakens uneasiness in America. A symptom of this is the policy of German national circles, which is a letter written by Herr Hugenberg, chairman of the National party, to a great number of influential people in America. It quite wrongly results in protests from many authoritative sources in America as well as in the press of the majority parties in Germany. Most significant is the also sharp disavowal by the German press itself, which obviously is painfully impressed by Hugenberg's action.

The importance of the letter must by no means be overestimated. It must not be forgotten that as long ago as 1924 the German Nationalists, who were the fiercest attacks on the Government because of the London treaty, split up when a vote was taken and helped to create the majority for the acceptance of that treaty. The German National party is at present in the midst of a crisis which appears likely to disrupt it.

The less noisy and politically more intelligent portion of the party, to which many members of the laboring class and trade unionists belong, has long been in disagreement with the radical policies of Hugenberg and other party leaders. They realize that these policies whose supporters have learned nothing from what has gone before must bring Germany into ruinous conflicts with foreign countries, and in certain circumstances can lead to internal disturbances.

Expects a Coalition. But Germany's welfare and salvation depend above all on the quiet, steady development of the policies supported by the Government parties and on avoiding every internal crisis. This is coming more and more to be realized by a large part of the German National party. It can be confidently expected that soon the so-called "great coalition" will be formed, made up of the German People's party, the Center party, the Bavarian People's party, the Democratic and Socialist parties, and this coalition will assure continuance of the proved policies of the last few years, since it will be supported by the great majority of the Reichstag.

One can agree with Hugenberg when he writes in his letter: "If Germany be driven to desperation by senseless policies and intolerable burdens, she will also be driven into the arms of bolshevism." There can be no denying the fact that the decisions of the experts in Paris, as already remarked, will decide Germany's fate for a long time to come.

If such tremendous reparations obligations are imposed upon her

Among the injured was Sir George Schuster, finance member of the Governor General's executive Council. He and the others injured were taken to a hospital.

Sir John Simon, head of the Crown Committee for Constitutional Reform in India, was standing with the President of the Assembly when the explosion occurred, but was not hurt.

Others injured were Sir D. Raghavendra Rao, Speaker; Rao Doo; Mr. Dalal, seriously; I. N. Roy, Deputy Secretary of the Indian Central Committee, who was sitting in the officers' gallery. Roy held profusely.

Government Benches Wrecked. Three Government benches were torn to bits by the bombs. Two men were arrested and were reported to have confessed after other bombs and pistols were found on their persons. They gave their names as Butukwar Dutt, from Bengal, domiciled at Calcutta, and Bagat Singh from Punjab.

Thrown into the crowded assembly room with the two bombs was a red pamphlet entitled "Hindustan Socialist Republican Army," and signed by "Bairaj, Honorary Chief." Police, who locked the doors to prevent the escape of the perpetrators, are at present in restraining the assemblymen and the crowd in the galleries.

Safety Bill Under Discussion. V. G. Patel, President of the Assembly, had just risen to give a ruling when the first of the bombs was thrown, the second coming a moment later. The ruling had to do with whether discussion should be allowed on the public safety bill.

The President ruled it should not be considered. The ruling was thrown, the second coming a moment later. The ruling had to do with whether discussion should be allowed on the public safety bill.

HOOPER DISCUSSES MEANS OF BALANCING EMPLOYMENT. President Takes Up Issue in Conference With R. O. Brewster, Representative of Governors.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Means of counteracting periods of unemployment were discussed with President Hoover today by former Gov. Ralph O. Brewster of Maine, who declared American methods of keeping employment statistics are 10 years behind those of other nations.

Brewster called on behalf of the Conference of Governors which met at New Orleans in December and took up the question of balancing periods of unemployment with periods of construction of Government works, as advocated by Mr. Hoover in his campaign speeches.

The principal question at this time, Brewster said, is in keeping an adequate check on the extent of unemployment. He declared the states are better agencies for the development of such data than would be a centralized Federal bureau. This, he declared, was proved a year ago by the unemployment report of the Department of Labor in response to a Senate resolution asking for statistics on unemployment.

HINDENBURG HAS ATTACK OF FLU; ILLNESS KEPT SECRET German President, Seriously Ill Last Week, Reported to Be Recovered.

By the Associated Press.

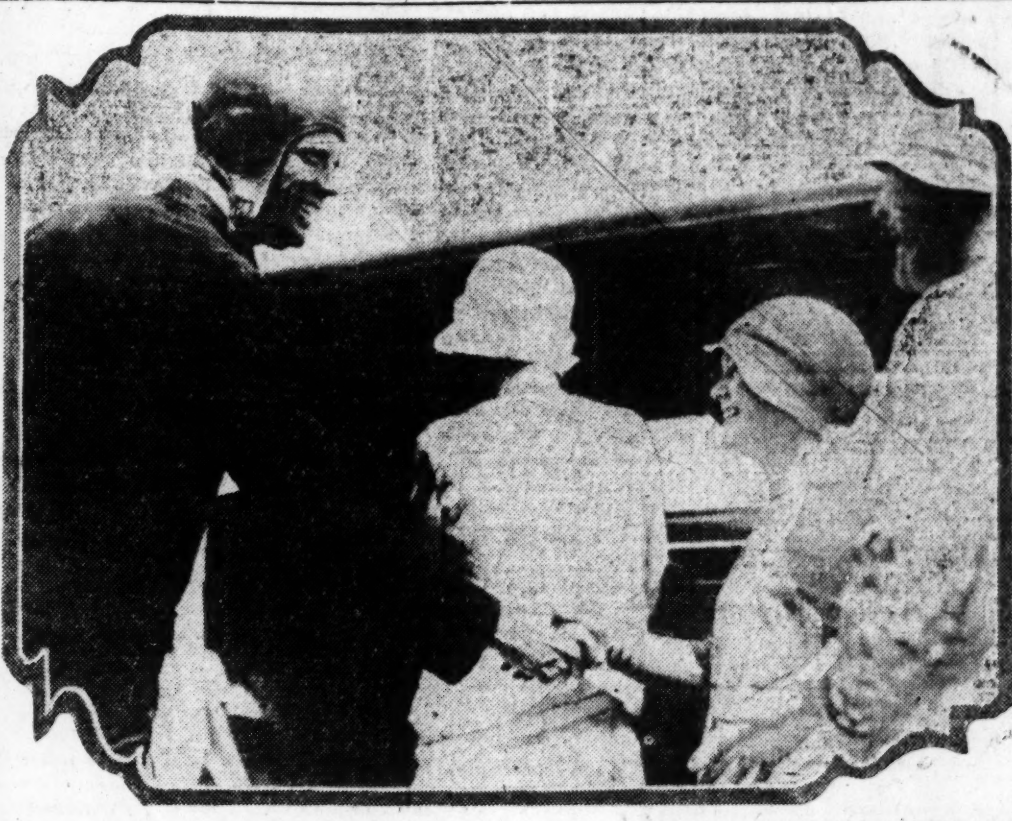

BERLIN, April 8.—It was disclosed yesterday that President Paul von Hindenburg was seriously ill last week with influenza and gastric complications. Apprehension was caused because of his advanced age, but today he was said to be out of danger. Von Hindenburg is 82 years old.

The President has not yet been allowed to go out of doors. It was considered advisable to withhold the news from the public to prevent general anxiety and it was possible to do so since the President state affairs from his sick bed.

LINDBERGH SPENDS QUIET WEEK-END WITH MORROWS

Time and Place of Wedding Likely to Be Announced on Next Visit to Mexico.

By the Associated Press.

CUERNAVACA, Mexico, April 8.—On Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's next trip to Mexico City—probably the last before his wedding in June—announcement probably will be made to just when and where he and Miss Anne Morrow will be married.

Col. Lindbergh, his fiancée, Ambassador Morrow, Mrs. Morrow and Elizabeth Morrow, attended by members of the embassy staff, spent a quiet week-end here. Although there was no telephone at the Morrow country home, the Ambassador had arranged to keep in constant touch with the Mexican revolutionary situation. Little happened, however, to disturb the peace of his holiday.

The party was accompanied from Mexico City by four truck loads of soldiers, reminding of the Mexican revolution which exists in other parts of Mexico, and which might, conceivably, endanger the Ambassador and his family.

50,000 WITNESS POPE'S BLESSING OF 25,000 GUARDS

Pius XI Bestows Benediction on Veterans of Famous Alpine Regiment in St. Peter's Square.

By the Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, April 8.—From a window in his private apartment in the Vatican, Pope Pius yesterday morning bestowed a pontifical blessing upon 25,000 veterans of Italy's famous Alpine guards, who assembled in St. Peter's Square with at least 50,000 other persons.

After the mountaineer visitors attended mass in St. Peter's, they assembled by companies in the great open space and waited patiently for the sun to break through the low-hanging clouds and dispel the slight drizzle. Almost at the moment the first rays of sunshine came, the window was thrown open and the white-clad figure stood revealed with his right arm raised in a gesture of benediction. A tremendous ovation greeted him, and his holiness, who was himself an Alpine climber in youth, seemed greatly moved.

Five times he blessed the assembled multitude with the sign of the cross, and as the vivas and hat and banner waving continued, his stern features relaxed with a smile. Finally, as if caught by the enthusiasm, the pontiff took up his broad-brimmed red hat with its golden tassels and waved it vigorously. He remained at the window 10 minutes.

Crowd Cheers Him. The crowd was a veritable sea of color. Intermingled with the Alpine veterans in their jaunty uniforms, were men in civilian dress, some in dark blue uniforms, some in gray-green uniforms were detachments of Roman police, afoot and mounted, dressed in shiny black helmets, dark blue uniforms, gold fourrageres, buttons and ornaments.

There were representatives of all arms in the Italian service, many clergymen and students from the various colleges. The throng gathered long before 7 o'clock despite a cutting wind and cold white mists played and the Alpine bands sang. Above the heads of the crowds fluttered flags of Piedmont, homeland of Italy's King—flags of Milan, home province of the Pope, and many more.

This is the second time Pope Pius has shown himself to a crowd in St. Peter's square since the signing of the Lateran treaty between the Holy See and Italy on Feb. 11, and the third time since 1879 that a Pope has appeared at the great square to bestow benediction. The first time was the very day on which Pope Pius was elected.

Second Public Appearance. The second time was after high mass in St. Peter's, Feb. 12, last, which commemorated the seventh anniversary of his coronation when he appeared on the balcony surrounded by Cardinals and members of his ecclesiastical household. Yesterday, however, was the first time a pontiff has given his blessing from his private apartments in the Vatican since the fall of his temporal power in 1870.

Leaving the Vatican City the Alpine guards marched to the Colosseum.

DEFENDS FIRING ON NORWEGIAN SHIP BY COAST GUARD Lowman Declares Law Made Action of Patrol Force Mandatory—Considers Case Closed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman said today that the Norwegian, steamship Juan, halted by shots from a coast guard patrol boat in Chesapeake Bay, Friday night, was stopped because the coast guard had information that steamships from the West Indies were landing liquor in the bay before docking in Baltimore. He added that the law made it mandatory for the coast guard to take such action.

Lowman, after a full report of the incident had been received by coast guard headquarters, said that it would be regarded as a closed case unless complaint was received.

He drew attention to statutes which gave the coast guard full power to stop and board vessels within 12 miles of the coast, using force if necessary.

Chief Boatwain Mikelson, who commanded the patrol boat, reported to coast guard headquarters today that he had ordered the Juan of Oslo, Norway, to halt by running up a code flag. When she paid no attention to the flag he fired a blank shot and when she did not comply he fired a "sharp shot." As she still failed to heave to he fired three more shots, the last one landing about 1200 feet from the vessel after which she heaved to. Two of his crew, he said, boarded the Juan and searched her. They found no contraband, he said, or any violation of the law.

Norwegian Minister Baekke today requested the Norwegian Consul-General in New York to forward full details of the incident. It is expected that the legislation, like the Canadian legislation in the case of the sinking of the I'm Alone, will ask the State Department for the American Government reports on the incident.

Patrol Boat Commander Says He Fired Only as a Signal. By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, April 8.—Chief Boatwain Michael Mikelson, in command of the coast guard patrol boat GC 189, which Friday halted the Norwegian steamship Juan in Chesapeake Bay to search it for liquor, declared yesterday he had fired his guns only "as a signal" and that none of the shells landed nearer than 1200 feet of the Baltimore-bound steamer.

His statement was made to Capt. Philip H. Scott, commander of the Norfolk division of the coast guard, and disagrees with the story of the shelling as told by Capt. Karl Anderson, master of the Juan, and Pilot Paul E. Kesterson, who boarded the boat to bring it up the bay.

Kesterson said the last shot fired would have struck the Juan had he not swung the ship off its course after hearing the first shot. He said one shell passed over the stern of the ship and that another fell about three lengths astern.

Mikelson also said that he fired five times, and not six, as reported by the master and pilot of the Juan. The coast guardman

U. S. FLYERS TO ATTACK MEXICAN PLANES AT BORDER Mobilized Near Naco, Ariz., With Orders to Shoot Down Any Ship Flying North of Line.

By the Associated Press.

NACO, Ariz., April 8.—United States Army flyers, with 18 fighting planes, are at Fort Huachuca, Ariz., near here, today, under orders to patrol the border and shoot down any Mexican plane flying north of the international line.

The planes were sent yesterday from Fort Crockett, Tex., following the continued dropping of bombs on Arizona soil after the Mexicans had been warned repeatedly against endangering the lives of American citizens.

Seven more officers and 44 men of the third attack group will reinforce the American flyers.

A sudden end to the rebel airplane bombing attacks which have harassed the loyal garrison at Naco, Sonora, across the line from here, was expected to result. Gen. Gonzalez, commander of the Federal garrison, was advised to keep his planes on the ground because the American flyers might not be able to distinguish them from rebel planes.

Gen. Fausto Topete announced his aviators would use only machine guns in the event they could fly over the Sonora town again.

Awaits Another Attack on Naco. The loyal garrison at Naco, Sonora, today remained on the alert for a possible renewal of the assault which Gen. Topete began Saturday in a vain attempt to capture the border town.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles: that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Mr. Dubois and Blue Sundays.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

NOTICE was introduced a Blue Sunday bill for Missouri, prohibiting amusements on Sundays. One would suppose that Mr. Dubois, being a clergyman, would be a little more charitable towards working men and women, Mr. Dubois, who slave from early morning until night, who, when they come home in the evening tired out after their day's toil due to circumstances must attend to their household duties after their daily labors; when, Mr. Dubois, are these poor souls to get a little amusement? And how, unless they attend some picture show and get a little relaxation besides? There are thousands of persons who are not as fortunate as you, Mr. Dubois, who probably get all the amusement you can stand during the week. I hope if there are other clergymen members of the House of Representatives, that they will display some broadmindedness as is expected of them. If this was the age of the New England witchery we would not be in the least surprised. Can Mr. Dubois possibly be one of the spirits of 1776?

Favors Gowns for Judges.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
It is regrettable that the Judges of the St. Louis Circuit Court have rescinded their own decision to wear robes when their courts are established in the new Courthouse, one of the reasons given being that the Judges of the Missouri Supreme Court do not wear robes. Much might be said against the bad judgment of following a poor example, but we will refrain and only beg their honors to reconsider their latest action from a far higher motive.

If our courts are to be held in the honor and respect that is their own, the Judges should do everything in their power to promote the dignity of the bench. The robe is the only outward and visible badge of their office, and in failing to wear it they lose sight of an important psychological value, which any student of the subject would tell them was a serious error. In these days of widespread disregard of law, any medium that will impress on the man in the street what the court and the Judge stand for cannot be too highly regarded.

More About Pennsylvania Oil.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

MR. DYER, in answer to Mr. Miller's letter of recent date in your paper, does not, to my mind, answer fully. One hundred per cent pure Pennsylvania oil is sold by the Pennsylvania Crude Oil Association, which requires the dealer to give bond not to substitute, mix or compound their oil with any other oil. When that is done, then they issue said dealer a permit to sell their oil. In event he is caught violating this agreement his permit is revoked.

Pennsylvania oil is in a class by itself, and one has only to test for gravity, flash, fire and viscosity to be sure he is getting Pennsylvania oil.

The difference in the different Pennsylvania oils is whether the paraffin is left in it or taken out. If the paraffin is left in, it will thicken in the motor in cold weather and cause trouble in starting the motor; otherwise the essential qualities are always the same. Of course, the gravity, flash, fire and viscosity vary as to grade, light, medium, heavy and extra heavy. Viscosity is controlled by the paraffin, by adding neutral oil to the bright stock, but the mixer has no control over gravity, flash or fire, as they are the characters that denote quality.

As to where the oil comes from I am not informed, but it must be from wells that produce crude that we conform to this standard, which are not found in the Mid-Continent fields.

The Way Out.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

LOOKING about for a way out of the present prohibition muddle, it becomes evident that the Federal Government at Washington, even though realizing the tragic failure of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act, is entirely helpless to do anything about relieving the situation. In view of the fact that the repeal of a constitutional amendment must first get the approval of 36 State Legislatures, and keeping in mind the present political power of the Anti-Saloon League, it becomes entirely unlikely that the prohibition question can be settled through repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The burden of solving the problem, therefore, falls upon the shoulders of the individual states. This country can exist half wet and half dry. It should be the immediate objective of those states not in sympathy with the eighteenth amendment to express their attitude by repealing their own enforcement acts. The Federal Government will not dare to impose the will of the Anti-Saloon League on such states. Thus local autonomy will automatically assert itself.

I urge the Post-Dispatch to accept the leadership in this fight locally. I am sure that the people and Legislature of Missouri will not fail in their duty if you show the way. You must not shrink this responsibility!

J. WALL.

GOVERNOR CAULFIELD'S SURRENDER.

It is by this time plain that Gov. Caulfield is in the hands of the Legislature. The expectation that he would be, as Alfred E. Smith and Woodrow Wilson were in New York and New Jersey, master of his Legislature, has been disappointed. There is convincing proof of this in his surrender to Secretary of State Becker and the capitol politicians in the matter of the budget, centralized purchasing, and reorganization of the State departments. The Governor, according to news reports, has agreed to a compromise bill excepting Mr. Becker's department and making other concessions the sum of which amounts to defeat of the whole movement to place the State government of Missouri upon an efficiency basis.

This was one of the Governor's major causes. It was one to which he pledged himself during his campaign. A Gov. Smith, or a Gov. Wilson, would never have surrendered to the Legislature. Their practice was to take such fights to the people, and that is where Gov. Caulfield should have taken his fight. He should have told the people of the state that the capitol politicians do not want the State government placed upon an efficiency basis; that they do not want to save money for the State by having centralized purchasing; and that they do not want to abandon the wasteful practices now in vogue. They want the present haphazard system because it suits their political fortunes better. Had the Governor told the people that they would have understood it. They would have taken their legislators in hand, and the Governor could have got precisely the bill he wanted. There is no other way to do it.

The whole record of the Legislature emphasizes the disappointment in Gov. Caulfield's leadership. It has been in session more than three months, and has actually passed only four bills. That is not necessarily a fault in any legislative body, but the Missouri Legislature has before it bills which the State very much needs to have passed. It has, to be sure, made headway with the appropriation bills, which always come to a vote at the end of the session. It has also reached a tentative agreement with the Governor upon a survey of education and the needs of State institutions. Under that agreement the Governor will appoint a nonpartisan commission and after six months call a special session of the Legislature to act upon its recommendations. It is likely, if this program is followed, that the school districts of the State, many of which are too large and undernourished, will be reorganized, and that a bond issue will be initiated for public buildings.

Meanwhile, the Legislature is unresponsive to any of the major demands made upon it for the improvement of government in Missouri. It has wrecked the legislative program of the Missouri Association for Criminal Justice. The program resulted from exhaustive study of a serious problem, and one to which the Legislature itself had certainly given little thought. Nevertheless, led by country lawyers, who do not seem to appreciate what a terrific struggle the cities are having with crime, the Legislature has rejected up to this time all of the major proposals of the association. It may improve this record before the session ends, but unless it does so Missouri will continue one of the backward states in the grave matter of making modern justice fit modern crime.

If the Legislature hopes to make a better name for itself than it has made up to this time it will have to move faster than it has been moving. We might call its attention again to the constitutional obligation which rests upon it to reappoint the State.

WORMS.

After a warm rain in spring the birds are jubilant. The woods ring with song, the fields are melodious. Why?

Worms. The patter of rain on the ground is known to be the worm-raiser par excellence. The birds themselves imitate it to get food. But how feeble their efforts, the soft-patting of the woodcock and the resounding thrush of the flicker, beside a hard-pelting spring rain! We have all seen worms crawling on top of the ground after an April shower. So have the birds.

Very well. What the birds are saying then, what they try to express in their rhapsodic fashions, is "Worms!" It is to us a low, perhaps ugly, word. Not so to the birds. When the thrasher sings "Worms!" that mean monosyllable loses the dull quality of commonness and assumes the bright livery of celestial music. If we once hear the thrasher after a spring rain, and observe how wretchedly we express almost anything beside that deluge of silvery song, it is unlikely that we will ever mention worms again. Why should we? Worms mean nothing to us, and they perform belongs to a language we do not understand. They mean something to the birds. Hence, let the rain patter in April, and then let the sun come out. The world suddenly and ecstatically rings with what?

"Worms!"

KEEPING WARM ON A DIRIGIBLE.

Passengers on the Graf Zeppelin's Atlantic and Mediterranean cruises enjoyed the wondrous scenery and the novel experiences of consulting their Baedekers while hundreds of feet above the earth, but they suffered from cold. The only time they were comfortable on the recent tour to the Holy Land, said Lady Drummond Hay, was when the craft dipped below sea level and skimmed the surface of the Dead Sea. The air tourist has an advantage in his perspective over those who travel by steamships and railroads, but those who set forth from Friedrichshafen have missed part of their pleasure because they had to buy themselves with hot-water bottles, robes and overcoats, in the absence of heating apparatus on the dirigible. The problem of warming the passenger cabins in the proximity of highly inflammable gases is a difficult one. The dirigible's engineers tried one heating system in a trial flight over the North Sea and it worked successfully—until it froze up.

Now the designers of the new British dirigibles being built for Atlantic passenger service think they have solved the problem, by an ingenious yet simple device. Electric fans on the R-100 and R-101 will draw the warm air from the engine radiators and pass it to the cabins and lounge through heat pipes terminating in gratings. The 100 passengers to be taken on each ship will thus be able to watch the kaleidoscope of earth and sea below them without being chilled to the bone.

The disillusioned gentleman who got off the Zeppelin in New York last fall, telling everyone he had a perfectly rotten voyage because he was cold all the way over and wasn't allowed to smoke seems to have been borne in mind by the British designers. He will find a fireproof smoking room with a steel floor, on which he may throw his matches and cigar stubs in the best Pullman-car fashion.

The day is fast approaching when one need not be a pioneer, facing the dangers and discomforts of an endurance flight, to tour by dirigible. Meals, prepared on electric cookers, are palatable and have a wide range of menu. Now one may sit in a wicker chair in a warm saloon of the air liner and watch the world go by, and smoking will be permitted.

THE QUESTIONNAIRE VERDICT AFFIRMED.

The Board of Curators of the University of Missouri has approved and affirmed the report of the Executive Board with regard to the condemnation of Prof. Max F. Meyer and Harmon O. deGraff, for their connection with the sex questionnaire, but has commuted the sentence of Dr. Meyer from life to one year. The decision with regard to Dr. Meyer is not made on account of any mitigation of judgment on his share of the responsibility for issuing the questionnaire, but "on account of his long service with the university, and our conviction that the offense for which he is suspended will not be repeated." Dr. Meyer can return to the faculty after suspension without pay for one year, but he must not do it again.

The lynching of the two professors, therefore, stands approved, but Dr. Meyer is given the benefit of long service. Whatever effect the action of the Executive Board may have had upon the reputation of the State University with regard to free scientific research is not mitigated under the curators' decision. The university is recorded as opposed to scientific research whenever it touches established conventions and popular prejudices.

We believe it would have been wise on the part of the Board of Curators to have softened this judgment against the university by condemning particular indiscretions in the questionnaire and rebuking the professors for them. This would have been ample penalty, because the motive of the questionnaire has not been attacked. The motive was scientific, and if the methods were indiscreet that does not call for unmitigated condemnation and severe punishment. That the offense charged against Drs. Meyer and deGraff will not be repeated is assured by the order of the curators that future questionnaires in the course of scientific research in sociology and psychology shall be carefully scrutinized. Surely motives ought to be taken into consideration in a case of this kind, and indiscretions punished in accord with their measure. We do not believe in this case that they called for suspension and expulsion.

The manner of treating this case proves indiscretion and lack of judgment on the part of the university authorities. Their action has caused more harm to the university and to students, if harm there be to them, than the questionnaire itself.

The incident was unfortunate. Whatever the consequences, the episode is over. Like the Scopes trial in Tennessee, the ultimate result may be beneficial both to the public and to the future conduct of the university. Public discussion of taboos is usually wholesome.

STATE REPEAL.

A bill to repeal the State bone-dry law has sent shivers up and down the spines of the rural Legislators at Jefferson City. They complain that it is unfair to put them on record on this bill. They want it killed in committee. Thanks to the intervention of Speaker Jones Parker it has been temporarily stifled. But this bill will sooner or later get to the floor of the House and rural Legislators will have to go on record either for or against it. Or it will get to the people.

State repeal is in the air. Reference has already been made to the big majority by which Wisconsin voted to repeal the enforcement act, thereby taking her place with New York, Maryland, Montana and Nevada. The Post-Dispatch has also discussed the reaction to the Jones law, which already has the outlines of a national uprising. The bill to repeal our bone-dry law is a part of this movement.

The professional drays may tell us that the people of Missouri have passed on this question of repealing the State's enforcement act—referring to the initiative proposal in the 1926 general election which was defeated by 275,543 votes. The dry leaders have unscrupulously overcapitalized that result by ignoring factors which any sincere analysis would have taken account of. For example, former Senator Reed, then at the peak of his influence, opposed repeal, on the ground of public policy. So, too, did the Post-Dispatch.

But the situation has changed vitally since 1926. Rational public opinion is applied at the excesses of prohibition frenzy. Outrages and murders are no new thing in the violence of prohibition enforcement, but the cumulative effect of such tyranny has awakened the people to a sense of their personal peril. What happened in Aurora, Ill., could just as well have happened in Aurora, Mo., or in any town in any State. That enforcement officers should construe the Jones law as a license to go forth and kill is a pathological sequence and would be diagnosed by the alienist. It is a signal for a prohibition man hunt. The people in self-preservation have rebelled.

This rebellion is practically manifesting itself in the repeal of State enforcement acts. The prohibitionists took their cause to the Federal Government. They insisted the States were impotent to deal with the liquor traffic, though they did bespeak the co-operation of the States in their great experiment. Their great experiment, "nobles in motive," in Mr. Hoover's phrase, is more than tragic failure. It is a popular sentiment back of the President at this time as an aid to his coming struggle with Congress. It greatly adds to his weight—if it is his purpose to bring it to bear, and I am credibly informed it is. All of this may be true, but it seems a little early to organize the cheering section for Mr. Hoover's presidential achievements. For one thing, he has not had time as yet to achieve very much. He has hardly had time to do more than reveal exactly what he wants to achieve. For another, anything that rests in the way of achievement depends upon the success in dealing with the extra session of Congress now to convene. As to that, it is impossible to predict.

Far be it from me to detract from credit due Mr. Hoover for what he has done in the three short weeks he has been President. The oil conservation order, the burial of the White House Spokesman and his refusal to let the politicians gun up his ideas and absorb his time with their petty patronage problems ought to commend themselves to any fair-minded man. Also the calm, clarity and completeness with which he

There has been some speculation as to why Comptroller Nolte left the city right after the election. Our guess is that he read about the Art Museum paying $47,000 for a painting and went out of town for more money.

THE LAW THAT BROKE THE CAMEL'S BACK.

Mr. Hoover's First Month

Accustomed as we are to inaction in the White House, the spectacle of a fast-thinking, energetic and ceaselessly industrious President is difficult to adjust oneself to; however, ebullient word-painters of Mr. Hoover as a superman might exercise reasonable restraint, until we have a full-length view of the President in connection with big problems.

T. R. B. in THE NEW REPUBLIC

THE transition from a negative to a positive administration, from solemn stagnation and camouflaged feebleness in the White House to constant activity and real force, has not been accomplished without considerable bewilderment in political and journalistic circles here in Washington. It has been so long since anything like initiative or originality has been associated with the "great constructive force" that the daily spectacle of a fast-thinking, energetic and ceaselessly industrious Chief Executive is not an easy thing for everybody around here to adjust himself to.

Nearly all of them lag behind. The new President is anywhere from one to three and a half jumps ahead of the procession. The net result is that we have a renewed outburst of the Hoover superman publicity in various parts of the country. Sunday magazine stories redescending him as incredibly efficient have been fairly numerous, and the more nimble of the hit-and-run writers, active in the Hoover behalf before and after the Kansas City convention, are making contracts right and left with the monthly and weekly magazines for articles dealing with the "great constructive force" now at the head of the Government. In addition, somewhat mysterious full-page advertisements highly eulogistic of the Hoover accomplishments have been prepared by a large Chicago advertising firm and sent to newspaper publishers with the modest request that they be used gratis as a contribution toward "building up business confidence."

I do not wish to carp or cavil without reason, and certainly mine is not a destructive nature. None the less, it does seem to me that this relaunching of the superman stuff is a bit premature. No doubt it will have the desired effect with the morose masses, who in the past five years have greedily gulped presidential propaganda with far less real substance than this. Also, it is probably good strategy to build up a popular sentiment back of the President at this time as an aid to his coming struggle with Congress. It greatly adds to his weight—if it is his purpose to bring it to bear, and I am credibly informed it is. All of this may be true, but it seems a little early to organize the cheering section for Mr. Hoover's presidential achievements. For one thing, he has not had time as yet to achieve very much. He has hardly had time to do more than reveal exactly what he wants to achieve. For another, anything that rests in the way of achievement depends upon the success in dealing with the extra session of Congress now to convene. As to that, it is impossible to predict.

Far be it from me to detract from credit due Mr. Hoover for what he has done in the three short weeks he has been President. The oil conservation order, the burial of the White House Spokesman and his refusal to let the politicians gun up his ideas and absorb his time with their petty patronage problems ought to commend themselves to any fair-minded man. Also the calm, clarity and completeness with which he reversed the Mellon-Coolidge policy of no publicity for the gigantic refunds on income-tax payments of corporations was striking and significant. This reversal not only recognized the justice of the recentment in Congress and out, over the consistent withholding of information on these refunds by the Treasury, but it was highly interesting as indicating that in this administration, Mr. Mellon, so long as he remains Secretary of the Treasury in broader matters of policy, will be told what to do by the President and not by his comparatively bright and relatively young assistants.

It does appear, however, that the reason for enthusiasm around Washington over the Hoover action in these last few weeks is more because of the unobtrusive contrast with the Coolidge inaction than because of any display of Hoover genius. These are the clearly indicated steps of an executive capable of intelligent analysis, equipped with the power of decision and accustomed to the better, which naturally makes news, but we ought to wait a while before proclaiming the new "sales manager," as the advertisements now call him, a presidential genius. We ought to wait, for example, until we see how far, if anywhere, he gets in making prohibition palatable, what sort of farm-relief bill he wangles through Congress, how successful he is in curbing the insatiable and heretofore irresistible tariff lobby, already in the front-line trenches awaiting the Grundy word to go over the top.

The apprehensions of the "corps of correspondents" concerning the Hoover attitude toward them have been demonstrated to be unfounded and their grievances proved fanciful. Since then, an apparently uncontrollable impulse has developed among the more conspicuous members of the "corps" to talk and write about themselves—as if they were a matter of public interest. Scarcely one of the bigger "by-line boys" has failed to pen, within the past three weeks, a long piece telling "in detail" of the new "press relations" with the President and how surprisingly satisfactory they are to the press—as though the public generally cared about that. The chief idea of these articles is to show that getting his relations satisfactory to the correspondents was an exceedingly vital thing to Mr. Hoover and that it is a good thing for him that he succeeded. Perhaps they are right, but I do not believe he took that view of it. In fact, I have reason to believe the Hoover notion was that unless the relations could be arranged in a way satisfactory to him, it would be better not to have relations at all.

However, the pieces written on this subject were harmless enough. The only point worth making is that they are indicative of a slight loss of perspective upon the part of the writers and are based on the erroneous conception that the small details of when and how the correspondents see the President are news in which readers generally are interested.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, April 8

THE copy of George Washington's "Well Orders to the Armies of the United States," dated Nov. 2, 1783, made at the time by the Assistant Adjutant General of the Continental Army, has come to light in a curio shop in Washington.

The original orders of Washington do not survive. They are believed to have been destroyed as soon as they were officially received by the Adjutant General.

The copy in the curio shop here, described by the shopkeeper as "a very fine copy," can be claimed to be the official, surviving orders.

THE manuscript was owned by Bishop B. M. Bristol of Washington, but passed out of his hands some time ago. It is believed upon as one of the most valuable and interesting of early American documents.

The manuscript is eight pages, full in size, and is entirely in the handwriting of John Singer Dexter, Assistant Adjutant General of the Continental Army with the troops at Newburgh, N. Y. It is believed to be a copy of the original orders of Washington's famous orders to the Army in 1783.

A second indorsement, in an ink which is not the same as the first, reads: "From the papers of Gen. Jas. Clinton and the copy from which the orders were read."

PARADE. Caricatures by Eva Sherman. Edited by Erich Post (Howard McCann.)

PARADE is intended primarily to be a book of caricatures of our most widely known authors. It is only that, the volume would be too slender to contain a good piece. Accordingly, the caricatures are given in a separate volume, which is invited to state, with what authority he could command, just what he thought about human life in general and how he regarded the great portion of the nation.

Forty-two of the most prominent writers responded, and their responses accompanied the caricatures. Also, complete bibliographies are given.

Considering that these forty-two writers are widely accepted and produce the greater portion of the really influential literature, such as it is, may it not be assumed that their views of life in general and their attitudes toward literature are a pretty fair notation.

In a general way, as to what the national consciousness is like? There are representative statements:

Maxwell Anderson says that there are no dramatists of significance. "Our work is so much journalism. It is written, it is acted, it goes to the dam, and there's an end of it."

Shirley Anderson, coming next, poses as usual, and it is naturally impossible to know what the statement means, if anything.

Thomas Beer remarks: "My program for being able to keep abreast of contemporary America is extreme interest in the minute signatures of an intellectual revolution."

Heywood Brown confesses that his interests are largely confined to the thing that has happened within the last half hour.

"I think," observes John Dos Passos, "that any novelist that is writing his salt is a sort of trifle digressing up raw material that a scientist, an anthropologist or an historian can later use to permanent advantage."

Theodore Dreiser is very brief, concise, putting into a single paragraph all that he has said in voluminous works: "I can make no comment on my work or the life that holds either interest or import for me."

In short, catch no meaning from all I have seen."

Waldo Frank wishes he had known the truth about writing in general before it was too late. "I do not look on writing as a real life profession," says he.

"Sidney Howard announces, as a complacent member of a single generation."

Harry Kemp thinks of going to an island somewhere to write a best book of a new religion for the future.

Washington, April 8. George Washington's "Fare, the Armies of the United States, 1783, made at that time, has come to light in Washington. Orders of Washington have been believed to have been as they were officially signed by General.

modern humanity." (Bravo, Harry, old kid.)

Mencken loves his country "as a small boy loves a circus." Edwin Arlington Robinson sees this world not as a "prisonhouse," but rather as "a kind of kindergarten, where millions of bewildered infants are trying to spell God with the wrong blocks." (No doubt this is a wise saying.)

Sandburg regards himself as "an earthworm" and, at the same time, "a rider to the moon."

Donald Ogden Stewart is convinced that "the proper function of mankind is to laugh."

Thornton Wilder's response is delicious, and happily it is brief enough to quote in full: "I think of my work as being French in form and manners (Saint-Beuve and La Bruyere) German in feeling (Bach and Beethoven); and American in eagerness."

On the whole, these boys make life and literature look like a complete washout, don't they? Where shall we look for "shepherds of men" if not to our leading writers?

The next, aside from Robinson's statement, which was not made for this collection, has been left for the last. It is by Fannie Hurst: "I care passionately about people."

"I think they are tainted with enough of the sublime to make living in the hurting world which they have cluttered with intolerance, vulgarity, cruelty, hate, lust and disloyalty, not only bearable, but an exciting and even sublime affair."

So long as there are a few writers left who feel like that about men and women, perhaps the battle is not quite lost.

The largest literary prize of the year, announced by the Woman's Home Companion, will go to the novelist—professional or amateur—who can best depict and interpret the life of the modern American city. The prize consists of a cash award of $25,000, for which manuscripts will be received up to March 21, 1930.

Any author, regardless of nationality, will be eligible to compete, but all manuscripts must be submitted in English. The judges are: Will Irwin, president of the P. E. N. Club; Arthur Train, president of the Authors' League of America; Gertrude B. Lane, editor of the Woman's Home Companion; and D. L. Chambers, vice president of the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

Beautiful but Dumb. IN "The Red Dance" at the Fox is provided an example of how magnificently a motion picture may be made even though the story is dull and tiresome most of the way. The colorful and beautiful, and sometimes tremendous scenes, are built around the familiar plot of a poor Russian farm girl who is loved by a Grand Duke. That sort of thing wasn't looked upon as much fun in our set in the days of czar, but in order to bring the event to a happy conclusion the World War was arranged and the Russian Reds kindly turned things topsy turvy back home so that by the end of the eighth reel a Grand Duke was no better than the man who had blacked his boots when he was Grand Duke. That being true, Dorcas Del Rio, the merry little peasant maid, and Charley Farrell, out of a job when the nobility got the blue envelope, were able to marry and depart from Red Russia in an airplane. "The Red Dance," with some great mob scenes, is most picturesquely made but otherwise it is not overly pleasing.

The Reward of Virtue. RICHARD DIX, one of our leading exponents of he-man roles, takes a dive into farce comedy at the Majestic this week with "Nothing but the Truth," an all talkie with plenty of bright lines and some funny situations. Richard makes a bet that he will tell nothing but the truth for a stretch of 24 hours. Try it yourself some time and see what a task he set. It is a funny and enjoyable little play with a lot of good laughs throughout.

Still Praising Main Street. THE tuneful and entertaining "Broadway Melody" is in its second week down at Loew's with no sign in waning interest in this best of all talking and singing films to date.

3159 Visit Shaw's Garden. Yesterday's rainy weather cut Sunday attendance at Shaw's Garden to 2159, by turnstile count, despite the attraction of blooming Oriental shrubs and magnolias. An exhibition of seasonal flowers continues in the Floral Display House.

COLUMBIAU. TO MARK JOSEPH PULITZER DAY

John L. Heaton to Speak Tomorrow at School of Journalism Celebration.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 8.—The traditional Founders' day celebration at the Pulitzer School of Journalism, Columbia University, will be observed tomorrow by the biggest registration in the school's history, at the journalism building on the campus at Eleventh street and Broadway. It was announced today by Dr. John W. Cunliffe, director.

Each year during the week in April, in which falls the birthday of Joseph Pulitzer, founder of the school, journalism students at Columbia gather with their associates to pay tribute to his memory. On that day each year the youthful newspaper men and women listen to an experienced craftsman expound the ideals of journalism as expressed by the school's founder.

John Langdon Heaton, editorial writer on the World since 1899 and member of the advisory board, will deliver the memorial address in the junior city room at 4 p. m. This year's registration at the school was reported today at more than 150, the largest since the corner stone of the structure was laid, July 2, 1912, by Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer. Every state in the Union except Oklahoma is represented, together with Canadian students and those born in foreign lands.

The ceremonies are to be attended by school alumni, representatives of the metropolitan press, special delegations of visitors to the university, as well as the immediate junior, senior and graduate students in journalism.

After Heaton's speech, the gathering will adjourn to the large vestibule overlooking the statue of Thomas Jefferson at the front of the building. Pausing before the memorial to Pulitzer, the group will place a laurel wreath, the gift of individual students upon his bust, which is opposite that of Talcott Williams, late director emeritus, and is surrounded by medallions of famous journalists.

Dr. Charles P. Cooper, professor of journalism at the school, former managing editor of the New York Sun and past president of the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism, is chairman of the Committee on Arrangements for this year's ceremony and is being assisted by Prof. Frank Fessenden Bond, senior students in charge of the program include Will Cramer, Weng of Terre Haute, Ind., and Helen R. Fairbanks of Great Neck, L. I.

Some of the vaudeville at the St. Louis Theater this week is above average and some of it is not. The act most enthusiastically received yesterday afternoon was that of the Watson Sisters, singing comedies, with the Happiness Girls, a novelty jazz band (if indeed a jazz band can be a novelty), running a close second. With the orchestra appears Rose Kessner as slapstick mistress of ceremonies. Lockett and Page introduce fast dancing. Frank Hamilton sings a little, and Hooper and Gatchett offer a musical comedy bit entitled "The Roadie."

The R. C. A. Photophone, another kind of sound movie, is making its debut at the St. Louis, the picture being "The Leatherneck," with William Boyd, Robert Armstrong, Allan Hale and Fred Kohler—strange and melodramatic dealings in Vladivostok, Tientsin and points east involving the United States Marine Corps.

Church Corner Stone Laid. Messiah Lutheran Services at Grand and Pestalozzi. The corner stone of the new Messiah Lutheran Church, Grand boulevard and Pestalozzi street, was laid yesterday.

The Rev. Richard Kretschmar, president of the Western District of the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran Church, gave the main address. A talk also was made by the Rev. W. F. Wilk, pastor.

Closing Time for Foreign Mail. Parcel post for Great Britain and all European mail must be at the main postoffice by 4 p. m. today. Closing time for air mail for the same destinations is 3 p. m. tomorrow.

"THE DESERT SONG" BACK FOR WEEK AT THE SHUBERT. Tuneful Music Drama Returns With "The Royal Family" to Follow for Last Show of Season.

"The Desert Song," the pleasing musical drama, which opened the Shubert Theater for the season last September, returned to that house last night as the last show but one, until next fall. Next Sunday night "The Royal Family" comes into the Shubert for a week's stay as the closing attraction.

The cast is practically the same in "The Desert Song" as when it was seen here before. Pretty little Bernice Claire is again the charming Margot Bonnet and Alexander Gray is the Red Shadow who sings his way into her heart.

The chorus, one of the best singing aggregations in any musical show which has appeared here in some time, makes the best of Romberg's stirring music and the costumes and scenery are as fresh and colorful as though they had just arrived from New York.

London Pastor to Hold Meetings. Two weeks of evangelistic services to be conducted by the Rev. J. Wardle Stafford of London, president of the Wesleyan Methodist Conference of Great Britain, will begin tomorrow night at Union Methodist Church, 2618 Delmar boulevard.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 8.

DAILY of a modern Pepsy: Up and came letters from Blum, the clown, in London and from an irritated gentleman who dubbed me a square head, a good one on him, for it is the precise shape of an egg. And Major Bowes telephoned an offer to become a movie-tone monologist.

To walk and put in at a hotel where I once lived for years and no one about I knew save an elevator boy who addressed me as "Mr. McGonigle," so back home and worked awhile. Later with my wife to a tea party where came many, including H. T. Webster, Rae Irwin, Herb Roth and Dr. George Dorsey.

In the evening to Marion Gillespie's for a turkey dinner and just Hall there and later came Capt. Edward Potter and his mother, whom I had not seen in years, and we sat talking until late of other days. To bed.

WHAT professional gentleman call "pedestrian psychology" is an interesting study in crowded centers. There is a la-dah-shah shop on the avenue with a heavy patronage for years but its backer decided to switch the dividends. It moved directly across the street and business doubled. A certain type of store will not prosper on certain sides of the street and prosper on the other. There are stores that fail on corner sites and others—like the cigar store—that rarely prosper in any other location.

NOTHING is so indicative of the Bowery's decay than the scrofulous fronted old Chinese theater. At night an orange splash of light from feeble gas jets may be seen from the sidewalk but otherwise it has the abandoned dreariness of a brewery. Inside the depths of gloom and dirt, however, the Chinese drama carries on. To all the plays seem acted in a slipshod fashion. Sometimes an actor quits the stage to hop out into the audience to chat with a friend. Patrons talk out loud during tense scenes and nobody appears interested. It is more a meeting place for the lonely, longing for their own people.

A distinguished novelist declares his most embarrassing moment was when he complimented a young fellow on the rare beauty of his mother, only to be told she was his wife.

Wait until he tries to sit down in what he thinks is a moderate chair and finds out it is a bookcase. I pulled that one the other evening. (Copyright, 1929.)

Recent letters from Miss Elizabeth Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Vernon Clark, 5234 Westminster place, who is spending several months in Europe with Mrs. Clifford W. Gaylord of Hanley road, and her daughters, Miss Jane and Miss Peggy Pirring, give interesting details of their trip. The party has just completed a 15-day cruise on the Nile. They left the Mediterranean at Cairo and took a small Nile steamer, visiting the famous gardens along the route, and parts of the Sahara Desert. The letters were written from Luxor. Miss Clark has met a number of former classmates at Miss Porter's School at Farmington, Conn., and friends from St. Louis.

This morning the party started on a four-week motor tour through the hill towns and lake regions of Italy, and later will go to Switzerland and the Riviera.

They will travel until August, returning on the Statendam to New York. Mr. and Mrs. Clark will meet the boat and will take their daughter to Charlevoix, Mich., where they have a cottage, to spend the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. F. W. A. Vesper, 6481 Glenwood avenue, is expected home tomorrow from a visit in the East. She was accompanied as far as St. Louis by her son, Mr. Vesper.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES AT AGE OF 100

James Medlock Fought Three Years and Four Months Without Injury.

James Medlock, who fought through three years and four months of the Civil War uninjured, and who later quarreled with his four children and ceased communicating with them, died in an East St. Louis boarding house yesterday, 23 days after his 100th birthday.

His funeral, conducted by the Elizabeth McDowell post, daughters of G. A. R. Veterans, will be held at 10 a. m., tomorrow at 2525 State street, East St. Louis.

Mr. Medlock came to St. Louis 25 years ago, 10 years after the death of his wife. For a time he had a truck garden, but after it has been washed away by the spring floods one year, he failed to replant it and depended for his living upon the $30-a-month pension received for his war service.

In recent years, until last September, he had lived with Ray Caskey, a Canadian World War veteran, in East St. Louis. Then Caskey's wife died and Caskey committed suicide. Medlock found lodging at the home of Mrs. A. C. Rayburn, 507 North Twenty-second street.

He was reluctant to discuss his war service, Mrs. Rayburn told a reporter. "All he ever told me about it," she said, "was that he fought three years and four months and was in the battle of Bull Run. While he was engaged in a hand-to-hand encounter in that battle his brother was killed fighting beside him. He told me he was 100 years old on his last birthday, March 15."

Pension papers in the old man's room showed that he had served in the Union army as a private in Company C of the Fifth Kentucky Infantry.

He told Mrs. Rayburn he had a sister living in Louisville, Ky., and said that he did not know where his four children were. He told her he had been estranged from them for many years, she said.

Or use it as a gargle for sore throat or tonsillitis. Then you'll realize why millions of users depend on it. These tablets are utterly harmless, as any doctor will tell you. No More Week-End Holidays to Be Taken by Paris Conference Until Task Is Finished.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 8.—The experts trying to solve the reparations problem have become tired of the long-drawn-out pourparlers. It is now proposed that hereafter the committee go ahead at full steam, taking no more week-end holidays until a decision is reached on which a report can be drawn. The whole committee agrees that the work must lag no longer. The experts are beginning the ninth week of their session.

Reports that the Germans alone were responsible for previous delays are being rejected by the committee. There are good reasons to suppose that the German experts became eager to talk business 10 days ago after Owen D. Young, the chairman, laid down the principles calling for action.

The Germans, it is said, in sparing for position, found the time coming when they would have been faced with the alternative of having to go on indefinitely under the present Dawes plan unless a compromise settlement could be reached.

Young, having taken the matter in hand, made known in his memorandum what was expected in the way of further efforts by the experts and has since remained the guiding hand in the private talks as well as in full sessions of the committee.

Many conversations between the creditor experts and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, the chief German delegate, have taken place in his presence, both parties seeking his advice.

Some of the experts now hope for a decision before the end of the week. After that several weeks will be required to draw up a report.

German Press Pessimistic on Outlook for Agreement.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, April 8.—Although the local newspapers do not mention the figures proposed at the Paris conference of experts on reparations revision, all feature reports from their Paris correspondents of "the exorbitant and excessive demands of the creditor nations."

Berliner Lokal Anzeiger (organ of the National People's party and ultra-conservative), under the caption: "Impossible Annuity Demands by the Allied Shylocks," reports that the German experts withdrew from the meetings of the last few days because they considered discussion of the demands of the creditors to be impossible.

Tagblatt (Independent Democratic), under the headline "Unacceptable Figures Result in Disagreement Among Creditors," reports that recurring lack of unity among the creditors has placed Chairman Owen D. Young in a difficult position as the representative of the United States, on one hand, and on the other as an impartial mediator between France, England, Belgium and Italy.

Compared with these pessimistic reports it was significant that at the Wurttemberg convention of the Stresemann People's party, in Stuttgart, Dr. Cremer of the Reichstag, speaking apparently with authority, said that before the week-end means would be found at the Paris conference to fix German reparations, at least for several years, at a figure materially lower than that of the Dawes plan.

A statement yesterday by S. Parker Gilbert Jr., agent-general for reparations, shows the total available funds for the fifth annuity year were 1,498,500,000 marks. The total transfers were 1,269,000,000.

France received 642,500,000, Great Britain 285,300,000, Italy 93,200,000 and Belgium 64,700,000. The cash balance in the hands of the agent-general at the end of March was 229,600,000 marks.

SHANTUNG GENERAL LOSES 1500 MEN ATTACKING NATIONALISTS

Hospitals at Chefoo Filled With Soldiers Wounded in the Battle for Ninghaichow.

By the Associated Press.

CHEFOO, China, April 8.—Bitter fighting is going on in Shantung where the troops of Marshal Chang Tsung-chang, former Northern War Lord, are besieging the loyal Nationalist forces in Ninghaichow under Gen. Liu Chen-nien.

Chang's troops have made repeated onslaughts but this far have suffered heavy losses without capturing the city. Hospitals in Chefoo are overflowing and additional wounded are arriving daily. It is conservatively estimated that Chang has lost 1500 men since the siege of Ninghaichow began, April 5, but the Marshal has announced his determination to continue his attacks until the city falls.

The opposing commanders have been resorting to various ruses. The latest was yesterday morning when Liu secreted a large force in evacuated houses outside the city walls and met Chang's attack with machine gun fire, causing heavy losses. Chang retaliated by razing every house adjacent to the city wall.

SHARPSHOOTERS' CLUB RAIDED AND BARTENDER ARRESTED

Sheriff Lill Seizes Quantity of Whisky and Wine and 796 Quarts of Beer.

The frequently raided Sharpshooters' Club at 1101 Lemay Ferry road, St. Louis County, was visited again last night by Sheriff Lill and Constable Fassler. Quantities of whisky and wine and 796 quarts of beer were confiscated.

A man who said he was John Buhlinger, bartender, was arrested charged with possession of liquor and released on $1000 bond. Sheriff Lill announced that he would take steps to have the resort padlocked as a public nuisance.

Shortly after midnight, Constable Fassler, on a telephone tip that a robbery had taken place at the Dixie Club in South Afton, visited the resort and raided it, confiscating 224 quarts and 144 pints of home brew and a quantity of whisky. Fassler destroyed the furnishings and arrested William Suker, charging him with possession of liquor. Suker gave $1000 bond. Another man, arrested and released, said that the place had been robbed about midnight and a small amount of money taken.

Aid for Flood Sufferers.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 8.—At least 6000 families will be registered by the Red Cross for rehabilitation aid in the southeastern flood area, H. B. Williamson, Red Cross relief director, said last night. The area embraces portions of the states of Alabama, Georgia and Florida. Most of the registrations will be in Alabama, he said. Registrations to date in the three states total 4899. Contributions from all sources for southeastern flood relief totaled approximately $385,000, the director said.

WANTS MISSOURI U. FREE TO SEEK TRUTH

Dr. J. T. Stocking Says Legislature Should Not Interfere in Sex Survey.

A pulpit comment on the Missouri University sex questionnaire was made by the Rev. Dr. J. T. Stocking in his sermon at Pilgrim Congregational Church yesterday. It formed a part of his sermon on "Freedom of the Truth."

In this portion of his discourse, Dr. Stocking said:

"We have recently had considerable discussion of the now famous questionnaire at the State University, and of the treatment of those from whose departments it issued. Fools have a reputation for rushing in where angels fear to tread. I am not sufficiently acquainted with all the angles of this matter to make detailed pronouncement upon it."

"The questionnaire offends my taste at certain points. It sounds to me rather crude and raw. The use of more delicate English would have rendered it less objectionable."

"The implications of one question I resent deeply. I do not believe that all girls are ready to be victims of desire and indulgence unless prevented by religious or physical fears."

"But I must recognize that standards of speech change. Old taboos give way to new taboos. People are talking about sex matters as people used not to do. I cannot impose my standards upon anybody else, least of all can I insist that a university should accept them."

"What should be done in such a situation is for the university alone to say. And it should have time to think its way through to its own conclusions without the threat of a legislative club. Mobs frequently lynch a man when just judicial procedure would impose a much lesser penalty."

"The cause of truth cannot be

three hours after eating, when the food is passing from the stomach into the intestine, your gall-bladder should begin its peristaltic contractions, thus pumping the bile into the small intestine where it is mixed with your food. (Bile is also a very important digestive fluid, aiding in the digestion and absorption of fats and oils. But that is too long a story to relate here.)

Nature's Danger Signals

When your car gets out of order you can tell it. It is the same way with your bile. Nature gives you warning—not by words, but by signals or symptoms. Your doctor recognizes these danger signals and you should also know them and instantly heed them. It may save you much pain, serious illness and perhaps big repair bills.

When the bile becomes stagnant in your gall-bladder and is dammed back into your liver instead of flowing freely into your bowels you, sooner or later, begin to feel some of the following symptoms:—Your breath may become unpleasant, your tongue coated, a bad taste in your mouth, your food (and tobacco) lose their natural flavor, your food does not agree with you; you may have heartburn, gas, or fluttering around the heart, dizziness or blind spell; you may be troubled with belching or frequent passages of gas from the bowels: the gas "balloons" your bowels and presses so hard on the kidneys that it gives you pain, soreness, stiffness in the small of your back over your kidneys making you think you have kidney trouble; at night the gas in your bowels presses upon your bladder making you get up frequently, thus breaking into your sleep. In the morning you are tired instead of refreshed. Gradually your health is injured: Your complexion becomes sallow, muddy or yellow—your skin may be disfigured with liver spots or pimples; dark rings may appear under your eyes, you may become sleepless, restless and irritable or blue and melancholic. You may have frequent colds or dull headache; your bowels stop their free, full and natural action; you have constipation, gas, putrefaction and self-poisoning or "intestinal toxemia," as the doctors call it. High blood pressure, with headache and swooning spells, may result from continued neglect.

How to Make the Bile Flow

But when the bile stops flowing freely, how can we start it up again? The answer is: Take Calotabs at bedtime and drink water freely the next day. This formula represents the best thought and experience of the best physicians. No other purgative will do. If you take oils, salts, cascara, or the many other simple-laxative syrups, powders and candy laxatives you are merely wasting valuable time. They only make you feel better for a day or two. They do not remove the cause, for they do not promote the expulsion of the bile which is Nature's purgative and intestinal antiseptic. When you take Calotabs you know that you have taken a real doctor's medicine. It cleans you out thoroughly. Every inch of your twenty-five foot canal, including your stomach, small intestine and large intestine, is thoroughly cleared and washed clean and pure and your bile is flowing freely. Next morning your system feels purified and refreshed and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please and go about your work;—there is no danger, for Calotabs are perfectly safe and create no habit, except the habit of healthy bowel actions.

What Are Calotabs—How Do They Act?

Calotabs are sugar coated tablets, containing the minimum effective dose of a thoroughly purified and refined calomel combined with assistants and correctives. The calomel facilitates the expulsion of the bile from the gall-bladder into the intestines and also serves as a mild intestinal antiseptic. Every physician knows that no other medicine can take its place; there is no such thing as a substitute for calomel. The assistants act like salts, washing the calomel out of the system and preventing its accumulation and any possibility of danger. The correctives settle the stomach and bowels, preventing nausea, sickening and gripping effects. Calotabs (and water), therefore, give you the combined effects of calomel and salts in a perfectly safe and delightful form.

The medicine chest of every home should be supplied with Calotabs, one of the most important of all family medicines. It is needed in many cases of sickness, and, if used occasionally as needed, may assist Nature to correct conditions which, if neglected, may lead to serious illness.

Avoid disappointment by refusing imitations. Your druggist can supply you with genuine Calotabs or will order them for you. For your protection, Calotabs are marketed in original packages only, bearing the copyrighted trademark. Family package, containing full directions, only 35 cents.

POLICEMAN KILLED HELPING MOTORIST PUSH CAR IN RAIN

Joseph Meier One of Two Victims of Auto Accidents During Storm — 21 Others Injured.

A policeman and another man were killed and 21 persons were injured in automobile accidents which occurred during the rain-storm late yesterday afternoon and last night. The driver of the machine in one fatality fled from the scene and is being sought by city police and county officers. Another man, struck by an automobile Saturday night, died yesterday.

Patrolman Joseph Meier, 45 years old, North Market Street District, was injured fatally at 11:45 p. m. when struck by an automobile while assisting a Negro, whose car became stalled at Ninth and Chambers streets due to the heavy rain.

Patrolman Meier, who resided at 2519 Dodder street with his wife, was on his way home and stopped to assist Edward Woodson, 3237A Maeder street, to start his car. Meier was pushing the stalled machine on the right side when he was struck by a car driven by Joseph Schewe, 2915 Ohio avenue, Granite City, who was driving north in Ninth street and who approached the other machine from the rear. Meier died en route to City Hospital of a skull fracture and other injuries. Schewe, who is held for the Coroner, said the stalled car was without lights and that his vision was obscured by rain. Police later found a parking light burning on Woodson's machine.

Driver Flees From Scene. Amadeo Rigali, 50 years old, a packer, 7000 Page boulevard, St. Louis County, was killed at 11:10 p. m. when struck at Page boulevard and Kingsland avenue by an automobile, the driver of which fled from the scene.

Elmer Mertz of Clayton told police he was driving east in Page accompanied by Miss Clara Baumert, 6411 Dwyer avenue, Wellston, when at Lackland avenue the driver of a Buick machine shouted that there was a man lying in the street. Mertz said he stopped and discovered the unconscious form of Rigali. The driver of the other car sped away. Rigali was placed in Mertz's car with the assistance of Earl Gorman, 1324 Kingsland avenue, University City, who arrived on the scene, and was taken to the Page Boulevard Station. He died en route to City Hospital in a patrol wagon. Rigali was identified through papers in his pockets and later by relatives.

Harry Fish, 67 years old, of 721 Eastgate avenue, University City, died at Jewish Hospital at noon yesterday of a fractured skull and other injuries suffered at 7:15 p. m. Saturday, when he was struck by an automobile driven by William F. Storck, 4309 Cates avenue, while crossing Eastgate avenue at Clemens avenue, a verdict of accident was returned following an inquest today.

Storck told University City police that Fish stepped from behind a parked car into the path of his machine. An inquest will be held.

HE SUFFERED FOR TEN YEARS

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Relief in 2 Months — Doctor Recommended It

Constipation is dreaded not only for its own insidious self, but because of the many serious conditions and diseases it causes. Mr. Lind was a sufferer—but read how he found relief.

"For the past 10 years I have suffered from piles. At times I have been unable to work. I have tried suppositories, ointments, etc., but to no avail. Two months ago my grocer called my attention to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I began taking it regularly. Immediately the pain and annoyance from the piles was relieved. I found that it requires very little ALL-BRAN to give nature a fair chance to effect a cure."—W. J. Lind, R. 2, Box 137, Appleton, Wis.

Don't neglect constipation. At any time its poisons may take terrible toll from your health and well-being. Protect yourself. Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly—two tablespoons daily, or in chronic cases, with every meal. ALL-BRAN brings sure, natural relief. It is what doctors call a bulk food. It sweeps the intestine clean and stimulates normal action.

COMMANDER THANKS HOOVER FOR MESSAGE

Head of Expedition Praises Co-workers for Their Indomitable Spirit and Great Courage.

By RUSSELL OWEN.
Copyright, 1929, by the Post-Dispatch and New York Times. World Rights Reserved.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, April 6 (By Wireless) (Delayed).—No program was ever more gladly received than that broadcast to the Byrd expedition from the New York Times through WGY tonight. It was the best program we have ever had.

Even the static and fading which have made communication almost impossible during the heavy aurora the last few days became less today and we were able to hear nearly every word. The talks of Ralph Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, who read a message from President Hoover, and the others, came in perfectly with all their good cheer and humor. And the singers, Bori, Hayden and the man who sang "Pagliacci," as well as the Times Glee Club, were easily heard.

Although it was only a little after 5 o'clock here when the special program ended it had been dark outside for some time, the stars were shining and there was a faint aurora.

Thanks Hoover for Message.
Commander Byrd sent the following message to President Hoover:

"President Hoover.—We were all very happy to get your message, especially as we recall your interest and encouragement when we were struggling to organize our first two polar expeditions. I wish I could let you know the feeling I have about the conduct of the red-blooded fellows with me. Unfortunately I cannot seem to be able to put it properly into words. They have shown great courage and made superhuman effort which has resulted in Little America, constructed of hundreds of tons of material, transported over miles of treacherous ice. We found the ice of the bay seven miles farther seaward than formerly and it might have lickered us but for the indomitable spirit of the men. Recently they have toiled cheerfully building tunnels and snow houses for scientific purposes, exposed to temperatures as low as 75 degrees below freezing. They feel a pride in putting on a show down here that will be worthy of Uncle Sam. All join me in well wishes and respectful greetings.

Work Suspended for Program.
These Saturday afternoons when voices come from home are looked forward to eagerly. Work is ended for the day. Men drop their shovels or leave their dog teams and piles of supplies and gather in the mess hall at 4 o'clock when the broadcasting begins.

Down the center of the room is a long table flanked by benches, on one end of which is a little square box.

There are a few clicks in the box, a warning buzz and an instant silence in the room. From that box comes not merely sounds but a whole lost life, tantalizing one with memories.

Voices from home, voices that have come 11,000 miles over land and sea. Music that represents all the familiar things of a far off civilization.

Every program, no matter what it is, is heard down here with great enjoyment and the Times program was particularly welcome because it is through the Times office that messages go to the families of members of the expedition and from there that word from home is received.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Speeches of good luck and godspeed and a program of musical entertainment were flashed by radio Saturday night from the comfortable club-room in the Times Annex, New York, to the members of the Byrd Antarctic expedition at Little America, their desolate Antarctic foothold on the great ice barrier at the Ross Sea, 11,000 miles away.

Among those who participated in the program were Mayor James J. Walker, Miss Lucretia Bori, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company; S. L. Rothafel (Roxy), Ochs, Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associate Press, and Dr. Isaiah Bowman, president of the American Geographic Society; Rolfe Ogden, editor-in-chief of the

WOMEN TO DEMAND VOTE ON JURY BILL

Delegation to Call on Missouri Senate Committee to Urge That Measure Be Reported.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 8.—More than 100 women from all parts of Missouri will visit the capital tomorrow to ask the Senate Judiciary Committee to report the women's jury service measure so that it may be put to a vote. The bill is one of the only two measures asked of the Legislature by women's organizations in Missouri. It has been in the Senate Judiciary Committee for more than a month after being passed by the House.

The women will be led by Mrs. George Gehorn of St. Louis, president of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs.

"The bill has been passed by the House and now seems to be at the mercy of the Senate Judiciary Committee," Mrs. Gehorn said. "We are not sure what the fate of the bill will be on the floor of the Senate, but the women have sportsmanship to want the measure to have a fighting chance and not die in committee."

"It appears that the opponents of jury service for women would be pleased to see the bill die in committee, and recognizing this, we have decided to ask the committee to report the bill out so that the members of the Senate may have an opportunity to vote on it."

Judges' Salary Bill Defeated.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 8.—A bill by Representative Elmer of Dent County to increase the compensation of Circuit Judges in Missouri outside the large cities by giving them $2000 each a year for serving as Jury Commissioners was killed by the Missouri House Friday when it came up for engrossment. After considerable debate the House adopted an amendment by Representative Dubois of Texas County striking out all of the bill but the routine enacting clause and then adopted a motion to postpone the measure indefinitely.

New York Times; F. T. Birchall, acting managing editor, and F. E. Meinholz, manager of the Times radio department.

"White House, April 6, 1929.

"Commander Byrd:

"I am sorry that the Antarctic night is about to interrupt the most interesting side of your work, but with the radio you will not become lonesome. My best wishes to you and your comrades.

Stations have been authorized by the Boeing company at the following cities: Lincoln, Omaha and North Platte, Neb.; Des Moines and Iowa City, Ia.; Oakland and Sacramento, Cal.; Reno and Elko, Nev.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Rock Springs and Cheyenne, Wyo., and the Chicago terminal airport.

Pilots will be able to talk to and hear from ground stations on the entire flight of 2000 miles between the Golden Gate and Lake Michigan, Boeing said.

Warm Weather in New York.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 8.—The unseasonable warm wave which struck the metropolis yesterday continued today. At mid-forenoon the mercury was nearly the 48-degree mark. The Weather Bureau said there would be a gradual rise in temperature until late today, when showers would cause a drop. The mercury touched 85 degrees, the hottest April 7 on record here.

CHICKEN CLUB SANDWICHES

Everyone Relishes Them for a Light Evening Meal.

For Sunday night supper, club sandwiches made from chicken, sliced tomatoes, lettuce and a few slices of crisp, broiled or fried bacon make this meal a simple one. The toast may be made at the table and the various ingredients combined there, or each one may make his own; or as a matter of expediency, if four or five people are to be served, the toast may be made all at once on the broiler pan of the gas oven.

Something New Again.

Use leftover chilled boiled Easter plant, cut into strips and marinated in French dressing, arranged on toast and garnished with aspic jelly.

LUNCHEON TIDBITS

EASILY PREPARED

Serve Balanced Meals at Luncheon as Well as at Other Times.

A cold sandwich, glass of cold milk and some left-over cold dessert is not the type of lunch that will help a child to be a good student or grow to strong, healthy manhood or womanhood.

A hot dish, tasty and satisfying, high in protein, the body-building material, minerals and starch for energy, will help to make boys and girls good students.

Here are a few luncheon dishes prepared especially for the mother who must care for the house, mend, prepare meals and yet keep her family well entertained—in other words, a real homemaker.

A slab or carton of bacon in the refrigerator makes the planning and preparation of lunch a joy.

Bacon Omelet.

Dice four slices of bacon and fry slowly. Beat four eggs until light, add five tablespoons of milk, season with salt and a dash of paprika. Mix with bacon and cook until a light brown. Fold and serve on a hot platter.

Bacon and Tomatoes.

Wipe three large, firm tomatoes and cut in halves crosswise. Sprinkle with a little salt, pepper and sugar and place in a pan. Arrange two or three slices of bacon on each piece of tomato and place in a hot oven or under a broiler until bacon is crisp. Remove to a hot platter.

Squaw Corn.

Cook one-half cup diced bacon until crisp, and pour contents of a can of corn into skillet. Cook for a few minutes, season to taste. Serve immediately.

Bacon and Fried Apples.

Broil bacon (or fry in a skillet), saving the drippings. To the drippings add apples, cored and cut into eighths. Cover and cook until apples are nearly done. Remove cover and let apples fry until brown. Serve with bacon.

Stuffed Bacon Slices.

Make a moist bread dressing. Place one heaping teaspoonful on one end of a slice of bacon. Roll the bacon slice around the dressing and fasten with a toothpick or small skewer. Broil, turning frequently to brown on all sides, or fry in pan turning to cook evenly on all sides, basting with the drippings.

Savory Luncheon Dish.

To two cups of diced, cold roast beef add one chopped sweet pepper and three-fourths cupful of gravy. Heat thoroughly and serve on hot buttered toast garnished with tiny curls of bacon.

CLAM COOKERY ADDS

VARIETY TO MENUS

Dishes of This Seafood Are as Appetizing as Ocean Breezes.

To housewives who find themselves frequently wondering how to add variety and appetite appeal into three meals a day, this article will come as a welcome aid.

For it will tell how canned sea clams, one of the most appetizing and healthful of sea foods, may be used in dishes appropriate to any meal of the day.

Housewives in inland cities know little about clam cookery unless they originally came from those sections of the country where clams flourish in the deep nearby sea.

Besides being an appetizing food, clams supply mineral salts and iodine which is needed in the diet.

Clams may be served in a variety of ways and here are directions for preparing several of them.

Clam Bouillon.

Take three tablespoons of juice from a can of clams for each person served.

After heating the bouillon cup, by dipping in hot water, put in the clam juice, then add enough boiling water to fill cup. Season with salt and pepper and serve hot with salted crackers. If desired, two teaspoons of whipped cream placed on top the bouillon adds very much to the flavor.

Clam Chowder.

Take two cans clams, one tablespoon of salt pork or bacon, minced, one cup raw potatoes sliced thin, one tablespoon minced onion, one tablespoon butter, two cups milk, six rolled crackers, one teaspoon salt and one-eighth teaspoon pepper.

Fry the pork until brown. Add the potatoes and onion, and just enough water to cover. When potatoes are tender add the milk, crackers, butter, salt and pepper, and when this is hot, add clams and cook five minutes longer.

Deviled Clams.

Take two cans clams, one level teaspoon butter, one level teaspoon flour, one egg, well beaten, one teaspoon chopped parsley, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one teaspoon prepared mustard, one-half cup juice over crumbs and two tablespoons melted butter.

Melt butter, add onion, cook one minute, then add flour and stir until smooth; add clams and stir until thoroughly heated; pour over beaten egg, add seasonings, then pour in a baking dish. Mix crumbs and melted butter and spread over the top. Bake about 15 minutes in a moderate oven to brown crumbs.

Macaroni and Clams.

Boil the macaroni in slightly salted water until soft. Pour off all the water, then proceed to fill a well-buttered baking dish with alternate layers of clam meat (previously drained from the juice) and macaroni, sprinkling small pieces of butter on each layer and have the first and last layer of the macaroni with small pieces of butter on top. Four cups clam juice over and bake in the oven until nicely browned.

THIS ANGEL CAKE PRIMER

ANSWERS YOUR QUESTIONS
Directions Given Concerning the Method of Making This Delicacy.

"Is it true that an angel food should never be baked in a pan which has been used for a butter cake?"
Yes, it is true, because for the butter cake the pan has to be greased, and even repeated washings do not remove the effect of that grease. When taken from the oven an angel food pan should be turned upside down upon the funnel. This allows the delicate cell walls of the beaten egg whites to become firm and the whole cake to retain its lightness. If baked in a greased pan angel food does not stick to the sides of the pan as it should but falls out before cooled, which of course makes it flat.

"What causes an angel food to crack open on the top?"
Too much flour or too high an oven temperature. If you follow the directions for the angel cake just as given, you will have no such difficulty.

BACON AND MUSHROOMS

A Regular Treat for the Family
Sunday Breakfast.

Select large mushrooms, cut off the stems and peel the caps. Scrape the stems, chop fine and spread over the inside of the caps. Broil or pan-broil the bacon, remove to a platter and keep warm. Dip the mushrooms in the bacon fat and broil for eight to 10 minutes. These, too, may be pan-broiled if preferred.

Allow two large mushrooms for each serving; place them on buttered toast, cover with strips of crisp bacon, garnish with parsley and serve very hot.

Cutted From an Old Book.

EASY VEGETABLES ARE VALUABLE FOOD

Satisfactory Diet Must Include Two Vegetables Every Day.

Because of their many valuable properties, vegetables should form part of every day's diet and should be supplemented by milk and green vegetables, meats, fish, and cereals.

Leafy vegetables are essential to a satisfactory diet because:

1. They are sources of bone and tooth building material.
2. They contain vitamins essential to growth and health.
3. They supply the body with bulky material and water necessary for normal elimination.

4. They help to balance a diet which contains meat, fish, eggs, cheese, peas, beans, and cereals.
5. They contain valuable minerals.

Other vegetables (roots, tubers, seeds) are valuable in the diet because:

1. They supply the body with bulky material necessary to good elimination.
2. When they contain starch or sugar, they are good sources of fuel.
3. They help to balance a diet which contains meat, fish, eggs, cheese, and cereals.
4. Yellow vegetables (carrots, sweet potatoes) contain the substance Vitamin A essential to growth and well-being.
5. Peas, beans, lentils are fair source of muscle-building material.
6. They contain Vitamin B, essential to health.

HOW TO MAKE OLD FASHIONED STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

The Dough Part Is of the Biscuit Type Baked in Layers.

A good standard rule for the shortcake part is as follows: Three cups flour, one teaspoon salt, six teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth cup shortening, one cup milk and water combined.

Sift the dry materials. Rub in the shortening with the tips of the fingers. Moisten with the milk and water mixture until the dough is as soft as can be handled and divide the dough into two sections and spread one section in a buttered layer cake tin. Brush with melted butter.

Prepare the other part of the dough and place on top of the first. Bake the shortcake about one-half hour in a hot oven. After baking, the layers may be pulled apart and the filling arranged.

For the filling allow a cup of sugar to one quart of strawberries.

After mixing, let the sugared fruit stand at least two hours until it is thoroughly blended.

While whipped cream is universally popular as a final addition to shortcake, many prefer plain cream or an extra portion of the crushed fruit and juice. Those who prefer the latter are of the opinion that cream, either plain or whipped, detracts somewhat from the flavor of the berries.

HAKOAH AGAIN DEFEATS MADISONS, 3-0; WINS NATIONAL SOCCER TITLE

ST. LOUIS CHAMPIONS FINISH WITH NINE MEN; FIVE EJECTED FOR FIGHTING WITH WORTMANN

By Dent McKimming

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

NEW YORK, April 8.—New York's great All-Jewish soccer team, the Hakoah All-Stars, are the national champions for the season 1928-29. Outplaying and outscoring the Madisons of St. Louis at Dexter Park, Brooklyn, yesterday, Hakoah repeated its triumph of a week ago at St. Louis, and having won two games, took the series and the championship of the United States Football Association. The score yesterday was 3 to 0, and at St. Louis, 2 to 0.

A crowd estimated by newspaper men at 20,000 witnessed the series final. The paid attendance, according to U. S. F. A. officials, was only 12,500, not so large a paid gate as watched the game at St. Louis, where 13,937 contributed.

Although they failed to get the ball past Fischer, the Madisons were not completely outclassed. The Hakoah goalkeeper is marvelously active and there is no limit to his courage when the situation demands a test of nerve. He risked broken bones on several occasions to stop St. Louis shots and his faultless exhibition was climaxed when he stopped a penalty shot by Eddie Hanson. It is extremely seldom that a goalkeeper stops so hard-driven and well-placed a shot as was Hanson's. Fischer not only stopped the drive but cleared the ball before he could be charged. He was carried off the field on the shoulders of admiring Jewish spectators at the conclusion of the match.

Crowd Beyond Control. Several impressions survive after the noise of the game has ceased. One is the co-ordinating passing and apparent understanding of Hakoah's forwards. Another is the fierce last-ditch defense maintained by Gockel, Hand and La Barge of the Madisons, and a third is the confusion which attended the playing of the game. A crowd which filled all available stands and overflowed onto the field got beyond control of the handful of police even before the starting whistle was sounded by Referee MacFarlane.

Before six minutes of play the referee halted the game to plead for order and to ask the crowd to step back from the chalk lines. His effort, however, was unavailing and from that point on until the conclusion of the game when the ball reached the sidelines or the goal lines it was stopped by the crowd. This condition was in sharp contrast with the manner in which a big crowd was handled at Sportsman's Park the previous week. Manager Jim Burke and the owners of the Madison Club, Bill and Frank Clark, declined to protest the game although they expressed keen disappointment with the playing conditions.

The proximity of the crowd seemed to encourage rough play and shortly after the start of the second half several of the players engaged in a fist fight. Police and spectators rushed into the milling crowd and after considerable delay, Referee MacFarlane sent Ollie Fink of the Madisons and Wortmann of Hakoah off the field. At the time this happened the St. Louis team was trailing by 2 to 0 during the past several minutes. By Fink's absence it was an obvious certainty that Hakoah would add another goal.

All-Jewish Team Stronger Than One Which Played in Game at St. Louis

As compared with its game at St. Louis, Hakoah seemed stronger yesterday in every respect except shooting at goal. In view of the numerous openers, the total of three goals is no compliment to the eleven's scoring ability. Guttman at center halfback and Gruenwald excelled Gruenwald. These were the only changes in the New York lineup. On the St. Louis side, Emmett McDonnell, substituting at outside right for Bud Gronow, never quite free to display his talent for Left Halfback Maher and Fullback Sternberg kept in close touch with him.

The weather was overwarm for soccer, the thermometer going over 80 degrees. The playing field, laid out on a baseball grounds was level and well-sodded, but the pitcher's mound, just inside the penalty area, proved an obnoxious obstruction at one end of the field. There was almost no wind and the sun, though bright, was in such position it did not affect the vision of the players.

The Madisons won the toss and Hakoah kicked off. Following their plan of battle, the St. Louis side put every effort into trying for the first goal. They had the ball in the Hakoah penalty area within three seconds of the kickoff and Flavin missed a shot after taking a pass from Moore. Hakoah had its first try through Eisenhoffer and Wortmann, but failed, and then the game was fought on an even basis for almost 15 minutes.

Gruenwald Misses Shot. At this moment, Gruenwald tossed away the finest open shot of the game when he missed Eddie Hanson by three feet when shooting from not more than four feet out.

Hakoah seemed content with a defensive game during this period of the game. Wortmann, the inside left, playing far back of the other forwards and sending long forward passes to Gruenwald, Eisenhoffer and Schwarz. The game seemed to be to wear down the Madison halfbacks, at the same time giving their own goal plenty of rest. The success of this style depended upon whether they should score the first goal and their pass was rewarded when, after 12 minutes of play, Schwarz taking a pass from Gruenwald, took a running shot at the near corner of the goal and just did the ball past LaBarge.

Then, having the lead, Hakoah played even more conservative, playing a strong defensive game. Nevertheless, the Madisons kept pressing and on one of Flavin's passes to McDonnell, Fullback charging, on the resulting penalty kick, Fischer, outguessing Hanson, dived the right way and blocked the shot.

Two corners earned by the Madisons gained nothing for both were driven too low and were cleared by the backs. The half ended with the score 1-0.

So serious did the crowd prob-

Three Champions Are Down To Show Wares in Non-Title Boxing Matches This Week

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 8.—The nation's boxing calendar for this week finds three champions willing enough to fight but, at the same time, careful enough to leave their titles in cold storage before they enter the ring.

Joe Dundee, who holds the welterweight title chiefly because he can't be persuaded to defend it, Sammy Mandell, the Rockford (Ill.) sheik who rules the lightweight, and Izzy Schwartz of New York, recognized by his home State Boxing Commission as flyweight title holder, all are down for dangerous of a more or less dangerous contest.

Mandell Opposes Duke. Mandell should have little trouble with Benny Duke of Grand Rapids when they meet in Grand Rapids on Friday night, nor should Schwartz be unduly extended by Roy Walley of Manila at San Francisco the same night. Both bouts will be at catchweights.

On the other hand, Dundee possibly will be in for an unpleasant evening at Boston on Friday when he meets Al Mello of Lowell, Mass., in a return match. Mello gave the welterweight champion something of a trouncing in a recent match at Boston. As usual, Dundee has seen to it that his title is not at stake. In the New York sector, the 15-round battle between Kid Chocolate and Euseby Graham, opening Jess McMahon's New York Coliseum, is the high spot of the week. This show also is set for Friday night. McMahon, former matchmaker at Madison Square Garden, had hoped to get the New York Boxing Commission to recognize the Graham-Chocolate fust as a bantamweight championship affair.

The boxing fans turn thumbs down on the proposal, Graham, who hails from Utica, N. Y., has informed McMahon that, since the bout is not for the championship, he will make no effort to get down to the class limit of 118 pounds. Chocolate, a growing youngster, probably will scale about the same.

McLain, Iowa Fullback, Seeks Baseball Honors. By the Associated Press. IOWA CITY, Ia., April 8.—Mayer McLain, the "Cherokee charger" of Iowa's 1928 football laurels, now aspires to baseball honors.

He is working under Coach Otto H. Vogel in an attempt to master the knack of pitching. Vogel hopes to develop the 210-pound fullback-tackle into a powerful right-hander.

Although ruled ineligible for further Big Ten football competition, McLain hopes to win another Iowa letter in baseball.

By Davison Obeor. A total of 15 matches are scheduled to be played tonight in the third annual St. Louis district indoor tennis championship being held this week at the Washington University Field House. Thirteen second round matches in the men's singles are on the program while two first round doubles contests will also be played.

Among the singles encounters likely to produce some close play is that between Karl Hodge, Triple A star, and Charles Sigloff, Forest Park fighter. Hodge, who was seeded No. 2 in the singles draw, has shown good form in outdoor play recently while Sigloff is returning to tournament competition after an absence of one year.

Junior Boehmer, St. Louis district junior champion, and Vernon Tietjen, holder of the public parks junior title, will battle in a second round match which is expected to go the limit of three sets. Tietjen is a member of the Washington University tennis team and as a result of his showing in the opening round Saturday is favored to win from Boehmer.

Another match attracting attention is that between Fred Boehmer, Principia Junior College champion, and William Bierman, former Washington University net captain. Boehmer has been working out in the Principia indoor court during the past several weeks and will most likely give Bierman plenty of competition when they meet tonight.

The District Women's Committee will meet tonight to draw the double tournament. Twelve bouts entered. Several matches will probably be played tomorrow night.

Hakoah to Play Exhibition Games In Home Country

NEW YORK, April 8.

The all-imported Hakoah eleven which booted the Madisons under an avalanche of five goals while whitewashing them in three full hours of play in two national soccer championship games, is to tour Europe this summer and to display their achievement in the faces of football followers on the Continent whence they came so shortly ago.

The management now is striving to line up five of the stars of the New York Giants, whom they overthrew in the Eastern final to move into the intersection series, to reinforce them for an invasion of France, Germany, Belgium, their native Austria and perhaps another Continental country or two.

The pulling power of the Vienna Jewish team which gained the United States title in its first quest thereof, is not lost sight of by its canny managers and the tentative sanction of National Secretary Tom Cahill and Arthur U. S. F. officials already has been procured for the invasion of Continental Europe.

Lee Will Meet Volmer in Return Bout, Thursday

welterweight titleholder, has been matched with Louis Volmer of the Business Men's A. C. for a return bout on the Missouri Pacific A. C. amateur card at the Missouri Pacific Arena, 3001 Chouteau avenue, Thursday night. Volmer took the decision in a bout that went an extra round in their first bout.

With Lee the card fans will have an opportunity to see two of the boys in action who will represent the Western A. A. U. in the national tournament at Chicago, April 22-25, for Nathan Crystal, district lightweight champion, will appear against Bobby Kerns of the Missouri Pacific A. C. This also is a return bout. Crystal having given Kerns a sound thumping last week in East St. Louis.

Clifford Deetz, former Western A. A. U. flyweight king, and always a crowd pleaser, will go against Jack Emmerich of the East St. Louis K. of C. in a third round bout. The bout will be the third meeting between the pair. Each holds a decision in the previous bouts.

Twenty-two entries are registered as candidates for preliminary bouts, including two heavyweights, Leslie Schulte of the Business Men's A. C., and Andy McCool of the Missouri Pacific A. C.

BEARS TO MEET TIGER TEAMS IN TRIO OF SPORTS

By Jerry Bernoudy.

Washington University athletes and students will be honored at Missouri University next Monday when the state school sponsor its annual Washington Day program. A track meet, ball game and tennis match between the two schools are scheduled.

For the first time in a series of years it appears as though Bears will be capable of giving Tigers a real battle in the track and field events. The Columbia athletes have usually managed to outscore the locals on the path, but Coach Johnny Davis at last developed a fairly new team. He believes that his athletes will be able to give their rivals keen competition.

The excellent weather of the past week has put the Princeton Field track in first class condition and a number of the runners have been turning in unusually fine time trials. Among the athletes who have been doing well are Tom Freund, Ray Falson and William Lorenz, the latter a member of the squad.

Gilmore Stars in 440. In the 440 yard dash John Gilmore, William Timberlake and more, have been coming along nicely. Gilmore, a former Western Groves star, had a hard time during the indoor season, but during the outdoor season, he has been doing better. He is expected to get under 50 seconds in the close of the season.

Thies Lobhring has been doing the way to all rivals in the half mile and mile events, though Paul Hageman, who joined the squad recently, has been doing well in the longer races and will be paired with Lobhring in the mile.

In the two mile run, Ed Blades and William Ohls, seniors, have been running excellently. Carl Weber, who set a record at the recent Coleman annual in the high jump, has been going over the bar regularly at the six foot mark since taking to the outdoor pit, and is conceded a excellent chance to capture the event at Columbia. Weber will also be in the two hurdle races, along with Herbert Kullie.

Washington's chances in the broad jump and pole vault are being greatly enhanced if the athletes in these events can continue to show the form they have been displaying in practice. Bert Foss, a member of last year's team, has been clearing 23 feet in the former event, while Timberlake and Brodghave have been far behind. In the pole vault, Paul Miller, another veteran, has been doing better than 15 feet.

Days will rely on Paul Foss and "Tiny" Glazer, a pair of football players, to handle the weight tossing events. Glazer was the shot put at the Missouri Valley indoor meet.

ROCKFORD, Ill., April 8.—Harold Bloomquist was elected captain of the 1929 basketball team of Rockford High School at the annual banquet this week in honor of the athletes. BRUNDAGE WOULD HAVE COMMITTEE DECIDE ALL ELIGIBILITY CASES

A. A. U. HEADS WOULD WORK HARMONY WITH COLLEGE BODY

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 8.—A movement which may change the complexion of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States and its policies toward amateur and professional sports, has been started by Avery Brundage of Chicago, president.

Brundage has addressed a lengthy questionnaire, including every possible phase of amateur and professional sports, to the 157 governors of the A. A. U. and when their answers are in he expects to see a change in the constitution, which hasn't been altered materially since it was adopted in 1888.

At least five results are expected from the questionnaire, Brundage said. They are:

Consummation of close harmony between the A. A. U. and the National Collegiate Association.

Formation of a high judiciary commission of five or more men to be supreme in all matters of amateur eligibility, the commission to function for amateur athletics as Commissioner K. M. Landis does in baseball.

Creation of a better understanding and keener appreciation of the A. A. U. by the public.

Recognition of the A. A. U. by kindred organizations as the governing body in all amateur athletics, excepting that which is strictly collegiate.

Revamping of the A. A. U. constitution and rules to fit present day needs and to accomplish fulfillment of the foregoing objectives.

After issuing the questionnaire, Brundage departed for New York, where he, with a committee of A. A. U. officials, will confer Tuesday with Maj. John L. Griffith, executive vice president of the National Amateur Athletic Federation and an executive member of the N. C. A. A., both rival organizations of the union, in an attempt to patch up differences and effect a working agreement with American colleges.

"There has been considerable complaint about the A. A. U. and its policies lately," Brundage explained. "We want to show everyone we are open to constructive criticism and are willing to correct any defects, if there are any."

Brundage further explained the A. A. U. was formed when most amateur sports were competed in by non-college men. Today, college sports have grown to be the leaders in the amateur field, he said.

ZACH WHEAT QUITS BASEBALL IN FAVOR OF MISSOURI FARM

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, April 8.—After being in organized baseball since 1908, Zach Wheat, formerly a Brooklyn and Philadelphia outfielder, yesterday definitely announced that he was out of the game. He will retire to his 160-acre farm near Polo, Mo.

Wheat, whose future plans had been a mystery, began his baseball career on the sandlots of Kansas City, Kan., and made his professional debut with the Shreveport club in 1908. A bruised head which developed complications last summer, forced him to quit the Minneapolis club of the American Association before the season was completed, but despite this handicap his batting average was .329. The year before he was with the Athletics and was in the .300 class.

Yanks' Game Is Stopped in 8th as Fans Crowd Field

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., April 8.

THESE baseball fans will kill Babe Ruth with kindness yet. Sixteen thousand persons packed the local ball park yesterday to see the Yankees down Oklahoma City, 13 to 5, in a game called at the end of the eighth inning. In this frame the crowd, eager to get as close to Ruth as possible, swarmed out on the field and nearly mobbed the big fellow. The game was called, but it took Ruth some minutes to get out of the field. As Ruth sought to force his way through the mob, somebody started a cushion-throwing barrage. Finally with the aid of police and a taxicab driver, the Babe got back to his hotel with no more damage than a torn baseball suit.

Jimmy Hudgens, who had a trial with the Cincinnati Reds, and who played first base for Memphis of the Southern League last season, has been released to Knoxville in the South Atlantic League.

COACH STAGG TO PROMOTE BASKET MEET NEXT YEAR

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 8.—A team of young giants from Athens, Tex., with a distinctly futuristic style of play, today held the most cherished prize of high school basketball, the national interscholastic championship.

The title fell to the sturdy Texans Saturday night as they capped a spectacular week's campaign in the University of Chicago's eleventh annual tournament by a 25 to 21 decision over Classen, a fast, scrappy team from Oklahoma City.

Coaches and critics of basketball, who watched Athens' march to the crown, were interested in its style of play, which they termed futuristic in pattern. Averaging approximately six feet two inches each, the Texans played a peculiar overhead game, which none of their opponents could solve.

40 Teams Competed.

This "high" game with its high passes aimed at leading marks is difficult and the percentage of errors is high. For that reason, the champions were superior throughout offensively. Too, they covered rebounds off their opponents' basket with hawklike tenacity, tipping many of them back for field goals. On defense, too, they excelled. Their height gave them several more chances at being fouled and consequently more free throws, while they employed three or four men for defensive purposes around their own goal.

Third place in the tournament, which attracted 40 teams from 33 states, went to the most picturesque team in the competition, Joes, Colo. This team from a mountain village of 99 persons was shoved out of the championship running by Classen high in the semi-finals, but came back to win third place by defeating Jackson, Mich., 21 to 17, after making a brilliant rally in the last period.

Brockton, Mass., won the consolation title by defeating Morton High of Cicero, Ill., 17 to 10.

Will Continue Meet.

Amos Alonzo Stagg, athletic director of the University of Chicago and father of the tournament, announced last night that, despite opposition from some state interscholastic athletic associations, the tournament would continue to be an annual event.

Stagg said the tournament meant nothing to the University of Chicago financially or from the standpoint of obtaining playing talent, but that it was one of the greatest boons to basketball and athletics in general.

Reigh Count to Start Saturday In Newbury Cup

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, April 8.—Despite his poor showing in the Lingfield Handicap, most of the newspaper experts on horse flesh here believe that Reigh Count, famous American horse, will do much better than come in eighth in his future starts.

Reigh Count has been entered for the Newbury Cup at Ascot next Saturday, together with Caballero and Yoho, who placed in the Lingfield Handicap last Saturday.

"Reigh Count's stock has not been seriously discounted by his showing Saturday," the Daily Express experts said today.

"The Daily Star observer thinks 'Reigh Count will prove a good proposition when he is better acclimated to English weather.'"

"Reigh Count is not lacking in character and may prove better at Ascot," was the Evening Standard's expert's opinion.

HAGEN LIKELY TO RULE FAVORITE IN BRITISH OPEN

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 8.—Regardless of his sensational performances at home, the odds will be all against Horton Smith in the British open golf championship at Muirfield early in May. The Joplin ghost of the links, even should he overcome the handicap of altered playing conditions, will be up against the jinx that has thwarted American contenders for repeated losses in their first attempts to gain British honors.

Smith will have a full battalion of compatriots to help make him feel at home. At the same time they can give him the full details on how difficult it is to get a foothold on British links the first time out.

Walter Hagen barely qualified the first time he entered the British open in 1920 and finally wound up in 55th position. But he worked his way up to a tie for sixth in 1921 and from there he went on to win the classic three times, in 1922, 1924 and 1928, besides finishing second and third on two other occasions. Sir Walter, on the strength of this record alone, likely will be the favorite when the field sets out at Muirfield.

Jones Tore Up First Card.
Bobby Jones got into so many difficulties in his first crack at the British crown in 1921 that he tore up his card, an episode that impelled him to return to win the title in 1926 and repeat the trick in 1927 with the lowest championship score on record—286.

Gene Sarazen failed to qualify in his first bid for British honors but he was runner-up to Hagen last year. Jim Barnes could do no better than sixth in 1920 before breaking through to win in 1925. Bill Mehlhorn was eighth in his first venture in 1926 but the hard luck champion of all the contenders from the United States is another member of the Smith clan—MacDonald Smith. This Scot stylist after being third in 1923 and 1924 had the British title in his pocket starting the final round in 1925 but lost control as he was beset by a huge and unruly gallery, taking a disastrous 82 and finishing fourth, three strokes behind Barnes.

CHICAGO GIRL WINS
INDOOR SKATING TITLE
IN U. S. INDOOR MEET

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, April 8.—Faith Schoen of Chicago registered the greatest upset ever scored in a North American indoor speed skating championship by adding the senior women's title at Olympia here last night. Victory in the mile race, won when Mrs. Lela Brooks-Potter of Toronto fell on the last lap and tripped Elsie Muller of New York threw the title to the Chicago girl.

Miss Schoen obtained 70 points in the contest Saturday and yesterday decisively outpointing Loretta Neitzel, Detroit's "skating teacher," who was a poor second with 50 points. Mrs. Potter and Miss Muller tied for third with 40 each. Rose Marie Brady of Detroit was fifth with 20 and Mary McBride of Toronto last with 10.

Mrs. Potter was dogged by bad luck throughout the day. She lost the half mile race through a disaster similar to that which cost her the mile. In both events the Toronto speedster led until the last lap.

Percy Johnson of Detroit, national indoor champion, won the men's events, with Alex Hurd of Hamilton, Ont., second and Allan Potte of New York third.

Several Former Minor League
And College Players to Star
In Congressmen's Ball Game

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 8.—The warm weather of Washington's spring and early summer is expected to induce members of the House during the extra session of Congress to add another matter to their farm relief-tariff program—baseball.

The members of the House annually engage in a "political" baseball contest, Republicans versus Democrats, and representatives who are diamond enthusiasts already are discussing plans.

These baseball games are always mighty struggles and in presidential election years have an added zest because of a Capitol Hill saying that "as the baseball game goes so goes the election." The author of that adage was roughly jolted in the last election, for the 1928 game, played just before the national conventions, was won by the Democrats by a 30 to 4 score.

Politics Not at Stake.
Political fortunes, however, will not be at stake in this year's game.

hand, have had more bad luck but have hopes, according to Representative Kelly of Pennsylvania, their captain and a former star of semi-pro and college baseball in Ohio and Pennsylvania. Two former minor league players, Updike of Indiana, and Morin of Pennsylvania, have left Congress. But the party has a nucleus from the 1928 nine in Guyer of Kansas, a former Kansas City, American Association, club player, Bachman of West Virginia, Ketcham of Michigan, Hale of New Hampshire and Crall of California, all former college diamond players.

Kelly hopes to gain some talent from the new Republican Representatives and in Carter of Wyoming, he has a former Catholic University and Fordham player who a few years ago pitched Cheyenne, Wyo., to the Rocky Mountain championship.

A Fan By Accident.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Bill Carey, new head of Madison Square Garden, never saw a boxing match until 1920, when he went to a card in Boyle's Thirty Acres, more to inspect the fight than to watch the fighters. He came away a confirmed fight fan.

Coach Declares

PRINCETON, N. J., April 8.—Track and football supremacy will continue in the far West, in the belief of Keene Fitzpatrick, trainer at Princeton.

For 33 years he has been coaching and training track athletes, doubling now and then to develop punters and drop-kickers.

For 16 years at the University of Michigan—back in the days when Willie Heston was a great football star—four years at Yale and 19 at Princeton, he has watched one cycle after another of youngsters develop under his training from awkward boys into some of the greatest figures in American sport.

East Has Lost Supremacy.

He saw the day when the East—symbolized by the big three of Harvard, Yale and Princeton—dominated every branch of college athletics. He saw the great co-educational institutions of the Midwest and Far West rise in man-

CLINSTOCK WORKS OUT FOR MAT MATCH WITH MONDT ON WEDNESDAY

Training workouts during which he pinned three heavyweight grapplers to the mat at the National Gymnasium yesterday afternoon featured the initial local conditioning activities of Jim Clinstock, the Oklahoma Indian, who meets Joe "Toots" Mondt of Greeley, Colo., in the main event of Wednesday night's wrestling show at the New Coliseum. Clinstock practiced his body scissor hold and other grips and leverages upon Lloyd Carter, Vito Rinaldi and Tommy Marvin. The Indian matman appeared to be in good physical form.

George McDowell, Perryville, Mo., law student, also held a brisk training workout on the gymnasium mat yesterday. The young Billiken athlete is paired with Eddie Kline of Columbus, O., in a light-heavyweight bout billed as the curtain-raiser of the coming mat program.

Heavyweight bouts in which Paul Jones meets Roy Steele and Kola Kwariari engages Francis Lemar make up the balance of the prelim card.

"3 Gas" SERVICE

gives you Superior Engine Performance

HAVE you driven into a Sinclair Station lately? Have you noticed the three different gasolines—giving three different fuel services at Sinclair Dealers and Stations? If not—a new motoring experience is awaiting you!

Why three? Because Sinclair realizes that today one kind of gasoline no longer meets every motoring need or satisfies every motorist's demands. Engines are changing. TIMES are changing!

One kind of engine-performance requires high-test gasoline—another requires high-compression gas. Some drivers like a speedy, peppy, flashy gasoline—some, whose motors knock, want a gas to "stop knocks". Others prefer a gasoline which gives sustained power with long mileage.

Obviously, one gasoline cannot satisfy all these demands! But three gasolines can—and do—at Sinclair Stations and Dealers.

There is Sinclair Aircraft Gasoline for the motorist who wants quick starting, quick getaway, and flashy

1... SINCLAIR AIRCRAFT GASOLINE
The ACE of High-Test Gasolines... for Speedy Take-off... Flashy Acceleration... Brilliant Performance.
It meets the specifications of the Army, Navy, and Bureau of Mines for AVIATION GASOLINE—domestic grade.

2... SINCLAIR H.C. GASOLINE
Gives Higher Compression... Stops Knocks... Better Low-Gear Performance.

3... SINCLAIR GASOLINE (REGULAR)
Economy and Mileage... Full of Engine Power.

"Three Gas" SERVICE

...a gas    for every motoring need!

STATE MAY REGAIN POWER RESOURCES BY WISCONSIN LAW

Adolph Kanneberg of Railroad Commission Calls Attention to Act Relating to Dams.

NEW SOURCE WHEN FUEL SUPPLY IS GONE

Legislature Has Legal Right to Deny Permit to Utility on Solely Esthetic Grounds.

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., April 8.—Oil and running water of Wisconsin are now the only known powers for developing electricity in Wisconsin, and should the fuel supply run out, as some scientists claim it will, Wisconsin's unique resource of water power may stand the State in good stead in a hundred years or so.

This is the opinion of Adolph Kanneberg, member of the State Railroad Commission, expressed in his review of the Wisconsin water power situation for the State's official "Blue Book."

He explained the laws on Wisconsin water resources since the first enactment, many years ago, when water powers were first recognized as valuable to the people of the State.

"It seems to be conceded that our oil will be exhausted in a comparatively few years," he said in a prepared article. "Some of the known powers for developing electricity in Wisconsin, and should the fuel supply run out, as some scientists claim it will, Wisconsin's unique resource of water power may stand the State in good stead in a hundred years or so."

"It seems to be conceded that our oil will be exhausted in a comparatively few years," he said in a prepared article. "Some of the known powers for developing electricity in Wisconsin, and should the fuel supply run out, as some scientists claim it will, Wisconsin's unique resource of water power may stand the State in good stead in a hundred years or so."

Day of Water Power.

The lignites, the amount of which it is difficult to estimate, will last much longer. Unless other sources of power are discovered, it will be readily appreciated that the time may come when our water powers will become immensely valuable and if there is a property right in them, it is a property right that will be of great value to the State.

Kanneberg, showing that most of the water power enactments and orders were based on navigability of the stream, said that courts had found that any stream on which a log could be floated to market in the spring freshets was considered navigable.

"Floating logs to market is the test," he said. "This is not, however, the right of the public to float sawlogs was involved, and that test being the most pertinent, 'navigability in fact' is not used by the courts to a restricted or commercial sense, but rather in a broad sense. It includes the capacity of navigation for recreation, as well as for profit."

State Must Give Permission.

"From the earliest territorial days it has been the policy of the State to require legislative permission before any dam may be legal stream. Up to the enactment of 1911, land held to be unconsolidated, 666 franchises were granted by the territorial and State legislatures. In addition, numerous dams were built across streams under authority of the several mill dam acts."

"The mill dam act applies to non-navigable streams. By the amendment of 1911, there was added to the text of the mill dam act the words 'not navigable' the phrase 'for any purpose whatsoever,' so that any dam on a non-navigable stream is not subject to the non-navigable under the water power law."

The present general water power law, enacted in 1913, vested exclusive jurisdiction to grant permits for the construction of dams across navigable streams in the Railroad Commission. There is, however, an apparent exception to this exclusive jurisdiction in the so-called storage reservoir laws.

The Wisconsin Valley Improvement Co. by the laws of 1917, and the Wisconsin Valley Improvement Co. by the laws of 1917, are authorized under the supervision of the Railroad Commission to build water storage reservoirs at the head water of their respective streams.

"The words 'public rights' in the statutes are not defined. Undoubtedly they include such rights as bathing, the drawing of water for domestic use, etc. The statute does not specifically include such as the right of navigation, which may not be violated by the construction of a dam. It is questionable whether the courts would construe the language of the statute as to the right of navigation."

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY TRUST CO.

SHARP ADVANCE IN WHEAT PRICE ON LOCAL BOARD

The Mississippi Valley Trust Co. has announced the formation of a subsidiary corporation with capital of $1,000,000, to take over the bond and special tax departments of the trust company. The capital stock of the new company is owned entirely by the trust company and will be transferred to the new Mississippi Valley Trust Co. Merchants-Land National Bank and State National Bank.

The organization of a subsidiary to handle investment activities, it was said, is in line with the modern practice of large financial institutions. In the past, the bond and special tax departments of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. have operated as separate units, while the mortgage loan department has been a part of the real estate department.

John R. Longmire, a vice president of the Mississippi Valley Co. and former president of the Merchants-Land National Bank, is president of the new subsidiary. Other officers are Benjamin F. Frick Jr. and Samuel B. Blair, vice presidents; Orville George, John M. Brown and George F. Claves, assistant vice presidents; Edgar L. Brown, treasurer; James F. Quaker, secretary; and William J. Lavery, assistant secretary.

INQUEST CLEARS PATROLMAN WHO KILLED ROBBER

Policeman Elmer N. Wessler Is Only Witness at Hearing on Shooting of James Purcell.

An inquest verdict of justifiable homicide was returned today in the death of James Purcell, 31-year-old laborer, who was shot in the neck and abdomen Saturday night by a policeman who surprised him and a companion in the act of holding up two Negroes in an automobile in Forest Park.

The policeman, Elmer N. Wessler of Mounted District, was the only witness. He related that he had patrolled the park all evening in search of robbers, when, at 11 o'clock, his friend, James Frederick, 7467 Harter avenue, Richmond Heights, called at the station in an automobile to take him home.

"Let's take another look around," Wessler suggested and Frederick was agreeable. They drove slowly over several roads which were under particular surveillance until 11:30, when on Macklin drive, at the Triple A Golf Club, the headlights suddenly revealed two men, Purcell and a companion, pointing revolvers at Dr. William Wright, a Negro of 4253 North Market street, and Miss Ada Fola, 4221 West Belle place, Dr. Wright's secretary, beside a parked machine.

"Frederick stopped with the headlights full on them," Wessler said. "I jumped out and advanced with my revolver drawn. Purcell turned toward me and shouted, 'Stick 'em up.' I fired two shots and he fell. The other robber ran across the golf links and escaped."

Both bullets hit the robber, one passing through his neck and striking Miss Fola in the head. She suffered a scalp wound.

Purcell was taken to city hospital where he requested that his estranged wife, Maude, who resides at 1516 South Vandeventer avenue with their three children, be notified. Mrs. Purcell went to the hospital, where she told police that her husband deserted her last September and that she had received one letter from him since, written in Oklahoma. Purcell died at 5:30 a. m. yesterday. He declined to name his companion in the holdup and police are seeking several of his associates as suspects.

Dr. Wright told police that the robbers stopped his machine at West Belle place and Newstead avenue as he was taking his secretary home from his office. One robber got in the rear, at with Miss Fola and the other took the steering wheel, driving to Forest Park. The robber who escaped took a watch, $7, a bunch of keys and several containers of bacteriological specimens from Dr. Wright.

OFFICER CLEARED IN KILLING OF GROcery Burglar.

Another verdict of justifiable homicide was returned in the death of Ernest McConnell, 18-year-old Negro burglar, who was shot and killed early Saturday by Patrolman James Evans of Laclede Avenue District in a chase after McConnell had been observed in a grocery at Compton avenue and Market street. The inquest was perfunctory, consisting only of the reading of police reports and Evans' statement that they were correct.

RULES NATURALIZED CANADIANS CAN'T CROSS BORDER AT WILL

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The Supreme Court today ruled that naturalized Canadians and other quota immigrants were prohibited from crossing the border to work or search for employment without presenting unexpired consular immigration visas.

Naturalized Canadians were declared not entitled under the Jay treaty of 1794 to cross the border freely regardless of immigration restriction. The controversy did not involve the status of native born Canadians who are exempt from the quota provision.

The court held that naturalized Canadians, as distinguished from native born, were excluded under the immigration laws from freely crossing the borders in search of employment or to work on the presentation of identification cards but were required to present unexpired consular immigration visas.

The case grew out of the fact that Mary Cook and Antonio Danton, naturalized Canadian citizens, residing at Niagara Falls, Ontario, were refused admission to look for work in this country because neither had the required visas.

ACCIDENT VERDICT
IN KILLING OF NEGRO

William Tarlyle Who Shot Employee Not Held by Coroner's Jury.

William Tarlyle, 23-year-old commission merchant, who shot and killed a Negro porter last Friday with a pistol he "didn't know was loaded," told a Coroner's jury today that he did not know how the shooting had occurred. After hearing Tarlyle, his brother Samuel, and a policeman who heard the Negro say the shooting was not intentional, the jury returned a verdict of accident.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Lennon, who conducts the questioning at inquests, said he would present the matter to the grand jury April 16, but in the meantime would not ask that Tarlyle be held under bond.

Tarlyle was sitting in his office, he said, when the Negro, Charles Russum, 22 years old, of 1255 Wash street, entered to ask what time Tarlyle wanted him to come to work the next day.

"I had just opened a drawer," Tarlyle said. "Under some old bills I found the revolver. It never had been kept there before, and it never had been loaded, except about a month ago, when my father was in a holdup. I had it in my hand when I turned to tell Russum to report at 2 a. m. It went off. That's all I know."

"Did you pull the trigger?" Lennon asked.

"I don't know."

"Did your arm hit anything, so that the jar might have discharged the weapon?"

"I don't know."

Just after the shooting, police reported that Tarlyle had shot the Negro. He pointed the revolver at the porter, "as a joke."

Samuel Tarlyle, who lives with his brother at 5144 A Easton avenue said he was standing behind the Negro when the shot was fired and that the shooting was accidental. Russum died Saturday at City Hospital No. 2. The bullet had pierced his abdomen.

DETROIT, Mich., April 8.—James Frederick Smith, 9-year-old adopted son of the late Mrs. Martin B. Smith, became heir to $2,000,000 through a decision handed down today by Judge Arthur Webster of Circuit Court.

Mrs. Smith's will left her estate of $2,000,000 to the adopted boy, but it was contested by relatives, including Mrs. Sarah E. Smith, aged mother of the late James W. Smith, pioneer truck body operator and husband of Hattie B. Smith.

Judge Webster in his decision did not set aside the will but determined specific performance of an agreement between Smith and his wife before Smith's death under which one-third of the estate was to be divided between his mother, his three sisters, two sisters of his wife and a niece. The adopted son, therefore, will receive two-thirds of the estate.

WHEELER BACK FROM NICARAGUA;
VIEWS UNALTERED

Montana Senator Still Convinced U. S. Had "No Business Sending Marines Down There."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana returned today from a visit to the American Marines in Nicaragua, still believes, he declared, that the United States has no business sending them down there.

Accompanied by Mrs. Wheeler and by Ray Hart and B. R. Alvin, two Montana business men, he went there, he said, to visit the Marines and to study the proposed Nicaragua canal.

"I still believe," he said, "that we had no business sending our Marines into Nicaragua. It is the most godforsaken place I have ever visited, and as far as I am concerned, the life of a single American Marine is worth the whole of that country."

"It is costing us $250,000 a month to keep them there, in a country of less than 600,000 people. Naturally the Americans there and the natives want the Marines to stay; their presence actually brings prosperity to the country. If I were an American business man living there or a native I'd be glad to have the American Government to spend so much money."

"But to the Marines themselves it is most unfair. Many of them are in remote stations, exposed to fevers and diseases that are worse than bullets. There is no sense in keeping them there in the jungle."

Below, Patrolman James Evans, who killed a Negro burglar, Ernest McConnell, early Saturday, after chasing him from a Market street grocery.

Brigadier-General Logan Feland, until recently commander of the American Marines in Nicaragua, on his return yesterday said the Central American republic never was as peaceful as it is now.

"There are two small bands of criminals left in Nicaragua operating in isolated sections of the country," he said. "No one ever hears anything of Sandino. He is generally considered to have failed in his false patriotic campaign. I think he's alive, however, and he may reappear later."

He said the Marines would be withdrawn from Nicaragua as soon as it was safe for the country.

Liner Europa Is Again Afloat.

By the Associated Press.

HAMBURG, Germany, April 8.—The North German Lloyd liner Europa, which was burned and partially destroyed with a loss of $3,000,000 on March 26 before she had been completed, was afloat again today after having been pumped out. Three men probably have to be taken out for two-thirds of the length of the ship in order to refit her. The Europa will be docked in the course of the next few days and the extent of the damage will then be ascertained.

THE PARIS MODE TODAY

As Seen in the Spring at Cannes
Special cable by Pierre Le Baux, director of the Paris Fashion Board, and E. Winifred Boulter, associate director.

CANNES, April 7. THERE is no doubt that Cannes is well on the way to having a season all the year round. One enormous hotel springs up beside another. April will see the opening of the new Casino on the point between Cannes and Juan les Pins, and this is one of the most beautiful establishments of its kind on the whole Riviera. It will be open all the summer while the fashionable world is taking sun baths on the place of Cannes, Juan les Pins and Antibes.

A great number of people are leaving Paris to spend week ends at Cannes, and it can definitely be said that the close of the winter season is more brilliant than was the opening.

During the last few days there have been many new hats in an amusing shape very reminiscent of a Dutch bonnet. The Hon. Mrs. Reginald Fellows, over on the first from Monte Carlo, wore the first of these. Here was in a kind of silky white straw with points coming forward over the cheeks at each side. A row of curls appeared under the brim at the back of the head. She wore an original coat in one of the new grayish beige tweeds which cross fox band from the wrist to well above the elbow, placed straight up the back of the neck. The coat had a narrow scarf collar of the tweed and was trimmed with fox at the hem.

Most of the Dutch bonnet hats have been in white felt, shirred into a short perpendicular band at the back to fit them to the head. Cuts short off the forehead in front, and with wide points at the side that were usually turned back.

Evening dress is perhaps more interesting at this moment in Cannes than are the day clothes. There is a sign, which may be corrected or modified later in Paris, that there are two definite types of evening dress for the coming months. These are the new long ones shown by Patou at his February opening, with the long fan shaped flare from the knees at the back, and the fullness in one piece, not in panels. Another type of dress which also shows the length all in one piece at the back is made of a wing piece attached at either side in a slightly diagonal movement sloping towards the back from the hip level. This gives a very pretty silhouette in movement.

Auguste Bernier has made a charming model on these lines for the Baronne James de Rothschild to wear at Cannes in white crepe roman. It was also seen in pale green, which is a color that is often seen on women who find the new yellow shades too daring.

The second type of gown was best demonstrated by a new Paquin model worn by a Parisienne noted for her chic. In pale blue satin it was made straight all around with a tunic skirt, split up the left side and with a narrow band of perpendicular shirring from the waist in front a little toward the right side. This gave just the necessary fullness for a hip yoke divided into two on the left side, the lower portion being finished with a flat knot and the upper knotted also, but continued into two long snail ends that fell to the level of the pale blue satin slippers. This was the only break in the straight hemline.

There are Goupy evening gowns that are made practically with a straight hemline also, and as this house has a very Parisian clientele there is no doubt that women who find the straight hemline a little below the knees more becoming than the new length will continue to wear shorter skirts.

Mme. Charlotte de Premet's arrived recently at Cannes and looked extremely well in a purplish blue tulle gown with a little self-colored embroidery and the wide, one-piece long effect at the back.

Mrs. Cartwright of New York looked well in Patou's model. Mil-mosa with flowers of that nature scattered over a black chiffon ground, made long with a floating pointed shoulder cape. Another Patou model in the lightest shade of capucine yellow also a printed chiffon, with a plain border in two shades of yellow was worn by several chic women. So was the beautiful model in black tulle, and one in plain chiffon with shirring horizontal at the waistline and a long panel to the ground both back and front and a shirred skirt with a double flounce on the front at the hem. This latter gown was worn in bright orange capucine, yellow, white, black and pale green.

There is no doubt that the new line makes one look very slender, and stout women need not fear it, for, on the contrary, it is more becoming to those with rounded figures than to women who are too thin. The Marquise de Paris wore a charming gown by Chanel one evening, palest pink georgette with a simple skirt that dipped only at the sides in two square panels cut in forme. The whole gown was embroidered in a fine design of tiny beads in pale pink, pale Natter blue and opal shades. Comtesse Jean de Polignac was exquisite in a Lanvin gown in bright Venetian red, carried out in fallie, with the new little peplum having a shirred waist and a full skirt that hung in graceful folds, longer at the sides than in front and at the back, though all round it had greater length than the gowns of last season.

Through one sees a great deal of white, yellow and shades of orange is undoubtedly the coming color, both in plain and printed fabrics, and the vague fox printed chiffon grows greater than ever.

Simple Science for Everybody

By Colin G. Welles, Ph. D.

SICK INSECTS THAT MAKE OTHER CREATURES SICKER

PLANTS and animals and men are sometimes the breeding ground for disease of insects—and in almost all of these cases, though the diseases properly belong to the insects, they injure the animals and plants and human beings more seriously than they do their insect hosts.

Generally the diseases are carried by insects which are infected with them. Take that most terrible disease, elephantiasis, for instance, which makes a man's leg or his hand or his nose swell to four or five times its natural size—and stay that way. So far as we know, there is no cure for it in human beings.

The little worms that do the damage are carried by mosquitoes in whose intestines they are hatched and passed into human beings through their stinging beaks. There, under the unhappy human's skin, they develop into adult worms and in good time produce young creatures which go out in the man's blood at night, when the mosquitoes are most apt to "bite" and take them into their intestines. There they change into young worms, and the whole thing begins over again when the wormy mosquito bites still another human being. The worms stay only three weeks in the mosquito, and do not make it sick. They grow for at least a year in the bodies of human beings, however, with most disastrous results.

Malaria is another disease which is carried by mosquitoes. The insect bites any person sick with malaria, contracts the disease itself and then bites another human being, infecting him also. In the case of malaria it is the "anopheles" mosquito which spreads the trouble. And again the disease organism lives only a short period in the mosquito and does not seem to harm it, while it lives indefinitely in man, doing incalculable damage.

The tsetse fly is a messenger of evil for cattle and other domesticated animals in Africa. Itself afflicted with the disease which later kills the animals, this little African relative of our house fly does not seem to suffer from the sickness, but when it carries the little creature which is the source of the trouble, from one animal to another, the poor animals almost invariably die.

Although many plants are killed by insects which feed upon them, only a few contract a disease from their insect visitors. One of these unlucky plants is the China aster which contracts a disease called "yellowing" when a little leaf hopper that has carried the poison in its body for 10 days bites it. Our own familiar lettuce also suffers from the leaf hopper's poisonous bite, but certain other plants, like wheat, though they are bitten by the insect, seem to be immune to the poison.

All of these disease-bearing insects spread an infection which is started within their bodies. Unlike the house fly and other insects which carry germs and poisons on their feet, these particular insects are themselves afflicted by the very diseases which do so much damage to the animals and plants and human beings to which it is carried.

THE HUMAN BODY

By Dr. Logan Clendening

LEFT HANDEDNESS

FATHER whose boy is left-handed wants to know whether training him to be right-handed is attended with any disadvantages. He has been told that left-handed people who have trained themselves to be right-handed stutter or stammer.

As the father asked me to solve the problem and as I have had no experience, I tried to find out if anyone had had any, and discovered a very interesting "Little book" by Parson called "Left Handedness" (Macmillan, 1924). It discusses in detail a great many questions of interest to all left-handed persons and stutters.

The theories to account for left handedness are passed in review. The fundamental question is whether individuals are born with no leaning in either direction and right handedness the predominant form of operation, is due to habit and training or whether there is some change in the structure of two brains which makes one person left handed and another right handed. The evidence seems to be entirely for the second theory—that handedness is due to the massing of certain centers on the one or the other side of the brain.

Right-handed people are probably right eyed, and right eared, and right legged, and right faced, etc. So far as the stammering question goes it is theoretically very reasonable. As is well known, the left side of the brain controls the right hand and right leg (the motor fibers cross over). The speech center, where words are remembered, and the act of speaking and writing is located, is on the left side of the brain. There is no speech center on the right side of the brain. It is possible that left-handed people have all this reversed and have speech center on the right side of the brain, so that when they are trained to be right-handed some connections slip in the speech center and stuttering begins.

Mr. Parsons recounts some experiments conducted in the schools of Illinois, N. J., in which pupils were trained to be right-handed. Stammering did not frequently occur with the change, but sometimes it did. It training was begun young enough, stammering did not appear. But in the older pupils it was likely to interfere with the training.

"From his study of speech defects the present writer is led to believe that stammering occurs as a result of changing the native handedness of young children it lasts while the change is made, and no longer. If the corrective training is continued until the change becomes a fait accompli the stuttering will, in a normal child, disappear. If it does not disappear, we must believe that centrally the change has not been made and when the stuttering persists all efforts to effect a change of handedness should, of course, be abandoned."

Celery and Cabbage Salad.
Remove outside leaves from a small white cabbage and then cut out center, leaving just a cabbage shell. Chop the center finely with a sharp knife and add an equal amount of chopped celery. Marinate with mayonnaise dressing and return to cabbage. Place on a platter surrounded with lettuce leaves. Serve at the table. A very novel and attractive salad.

Watercress Sandwiches
Now that watercress is appearing, a delicious little sandwich to accompany the soup or salad may be made. Moisten 1 cup of chopped watercress with 1/4 cup mayonnaise dressing. Press the yolks of 3 hard-boiled eggs through a sieve and mix with the watercress. Add salt and pepper to taste. Spread between thin slices of buttered bread and cut into fancy shapes.

HELPING THE SCHOOL CHILD

By Emilié Hoffman

A CHILD came running into the house the other day, excitedly exclaiming, "Oh, mother, Grace has scarlet fever." The mother asked how she knew this, and she was horrified when the child replied, "I went in to find out why she wasn't in school today, but she isn't so very sick. She is in bed and she has new paper dolls, and we played with them."

Naturally, the mother is alarmed and she feels bitter against the mother of the sick child for allowing the two girls to play together. She is quite justified in her stand, but both mothers are at fault.

There still are mothers who believe children must have the various children's diseases, and the sooner they get it over with the better. Possibly the mother of the sick child is one of this type. Intelligent mothers know this is not true and they also are aware that the younger the children are when they are attacked the more serious it is.

The schools are taking every precaution to prevent contagion, but they cannot successfully control communicable diseases without the co-operation of the home. They may exclude a suspected case from the school, but if the mother allows this child to play outdoors with others, the danger is spread quite as seriously as though the child had been kept in school.

Mothers should co-operate with the schools. First of all they should educate their children in personal and public hygiene. These are taught in the schools, but the mother should emphasize this instruction and impress upon the school child the necessity of the utmost caution in health matters. Someone terms this "cultivating a sanitary conscience," and any mother who accomplishes this with her children is doing a worth while work.

Had the girl mentioned been trained to avoid "catching diseases" she would not have entered the home when told her schoolmate was ill, and under proper training the girls would not have shared the dolls.

You have heard mothers say "I don't believe in frightening children or making them afraid of these diseases, so they go to the other extreme. The wise mother will avoid causing any anxiety or fear in her children, but she will make them understand no chances should ever be taken on contagious diseases. She will, just as a matter of course, train them in the importance of personal cleanliness as a health factor. She will teach them that diseases are transmissible by germs, the spreading of which can be mitigated by the observance of certain precautions which she will endeavor to establish as habits."

If the mother of every school child would awaken and cultivate a "sanitary conscience" in her children and establish in them common sense caution against exposure to infectious diseases the danger of epidemics would be considerably lessened and the chances for interrupted school attendance would be materially increased.

THE WAY —OF— A WOMAN

by Marguerite M. Marshall

HUSBANDS' FAULTS.

Anybody who knows anything at all about married life realizes that the little foxes that spoil the wine are not great sins and cruelties that make most of the trouble, but the little foxes that spoil the wine.

The little habits and failings of one partner that get on the other's nerves—

That induce the "I-can't-stand-it-anymore" or "her-another-minute" mood.

Every wife who has ever felt like that—

"Oh, you'd better just say EVERY wife," murmurs the (sighs).

Most interest, not to say sympathy, over the admissions of her hundred feminine fellow-sufferers.

Who have told what is wrong with their husbands.

That absorbing new book, "What Is Wrong With Marriage," by Dr. G. V. Hamilton and Kenneth MacGowan.

Here is the list (partial) of things husbands are and do—which they shouldn't—as reported by wives:

"I don't like the way he eats. He smacks his food in his mouth."

"I object to his habit of apparently biting his nails—which he really doesn't do."

"He is inclined to be rather unconventional about his clothes, and he is very lazy about being well-groomed and he doesn't care about it."

"He indulges in too much potato, candy and ice cream, which produces excessive weight."

"I feel irritated when he snores."

"He leaves his clothing, newspapers and desk articles hither and yonder."

"He does not carve well, and that irritates me because he will not learn."

"The one thing that I feel most deeply about is his one-track brain."

"I object to his dreaming and his slowness."

"He does not smoke and I object to that."

"I feel he'd get along better if he'd get over his inferiority complex."

"I think his worst habit is staying out at night. The last time he didn't come home till dawn."

"He has no idea of time. He keeps me waiting for dinner."

"His meanness bothers me. The only trouble we have is when he picks up my things."

"He reads all night and keeps me awake."

"He plays the piano before breakfast. I don't like to hear a Bach fugue while I'm combing my hair."

"I think he is terribly self-centered. He doesn't consider me at all."

"He has a good deal. It is a habit I object to."

"He just says the same thing over and over again. It bores me."

"He sits for hours and won't talk to me."

"He's too good tempered. He lets me walk on him."

"He spends a great deal of money on things I don't want. He'll buy me many presents, but he won't let me pick them out."

"He likes to have him a little more dandy in his dress."

"I wish he'd put his intelligence to better use. I don't think he reads enough and thinks enough."

"I think he is a little bit dumb, really."

"I believe he has an overdeveloped tendency to truthfulness."

"If he thinks that he has done something that I am criticizing, he will deny it."

"He has no tendency to flirt—I sometimes wish he would flirt a little, so that I could make a struggle to keep him."

"The average wife, as we said, will have an sneaking sympathy for many of the complaints on this list."

When it doesn't agree with all of them; the average husband will probably snort, and ejaculate: "Name the man! Women are all perfect. Now, if I told you what the matter with my wife is—"

Your turn will come. Look for "What Is Wrong With Your Wife" in this column tomorrow. (Copyright, 1929.)

BUSTER BEAR APPEARS

Even those who use the greatest care
Are sometimes taken unaware.
—Lightfoot the Deer.

PETER RABBIT visited Lightfoot the Deer often. He began to understand why it was that Lightfoot kept himself so well hidden. Without his antlers, Lightfoot was quite as helpless as Mrs. Lightfoot. He had nothing where-with to fight, except his hoofs. Furthermore, he had something of a feeling of shame. He shouldn't have had, but he did. Always he had been so proud of those antlers that he to be without them and defenseless gave him little feeling of shame. Then, too, the rapid growth of the new antlers took much of his strength. So altogether, Lightfoot preferred to keep as quiet as possible, hidden away where he would not be disturbed. All this Peter had begun to understand.

It happened that early one morning Peter was on his way to pay Lightfoot a call. He knew that Lightfoot would be lying down in a certain thicket and it was toward this thicket that Peter was hopping along. He was going upwind. That means that the wind was blowing from the thicket toward Peter. Lightfoot lay toward Peter, knew just how Lightfoot would be lying. Lightfoot's nose would be pointed in the direction from which the wind was blowing. No enemy could approach from that direction without Lightfoot being warned in plenty of time by that wonderful nose. He would have his big ears widepread to catch any sound from other directions.

Peter was still some little distance from that thicket where Lightfoot was, when he discovered someone walking noiselessly just ahead of him. It was so sudden, so unexpected, that Peter's heart seemed to jump right up in his mouth. The one walking just in front of him was great, big Buster Bear. Yes, sir, it was great, big Buster Bear. He was traveling in the same direction that Peter was. "I wonder where he's going," thought Peter, as he set down to wait until Buster should get out of sight. "He acts as if he were going somewhere in particular."

This was quite true. Buster was moving along as if he had something on his mind. He didn't stop to pull apart rotting old stumps, or to pull over old logs, or to dig up roots. He moved right along as if he had a purpose in mind. "I'm glad I'm behind him, and not in front of him," thought Peter. "He isn't making a bit of noise. It is hard to believe that one so big can make so little noise. I believe I'll follow him."

Now, timid as Peter is, he is, as you know, also very curious. Curiosity leads him to do foolish things very often. As he led him now to follow Buster Bear. He knew that Buster didn't know that he was anywhere around. Furthermore, he felt sure that he could run away from Buster if he tried. So, because he wanted to see what Buster was about, he followed along behind, taking care not to get too near.

Presently Buster began to move more slowly and with greater care. He lifted his head and carefully tested the Merry Little Breezes with were blowing straight in his face. He seemed to be quite satisfied with what they told that wonderful nose of his for you know his nose also is wonderful. Then he moved forward very slowly. Every few steps he would stop and use his nose. Of course, Peter couldn't see his face, because he was behind him. Had Peter been able to see Buster's face, he would have seen thereon a very pleased and satisfied look.

And then, all in a flash, it came to Peter. Buster Bear was after Lightfoot the Deer! There could be no doubt about it. That thicket of Lightfoot's was straight ahead. Lightfoot couldn't possibly smell Buster, and Buster was making not

A NEW KILLER FOR THE MOTHS

ETHYLENE OXIDE is a fumigant not hitherto used for exterminating insects, but recently discovered by the United States Department of Agriculture to be highly toxic to certain species. Those commonly infesting stored food products, clothing and furniture can be easily killed by the vapors of ethylene oxide in concentrations that can be used without danger from fire and that are not dangerous to human beings. Clothes moths, carpet beetles, weevils, saw-toothed grain beetles, Indian meal moths, red-legged ham beetles and flour beetles all succumbed to this new fumigant when it was used experimentally for a period of 20 hours in the proportion of one pound of ethylene oxide to 1000 cubic feet of space.

For commercial fumigation work it is, however, recommended that the fumigant be used at double this quantity per 1000 cubic feet of space. Comparative tests indicated that the vapors of ethylene oxide are somewhat more toxic to stored-product insects than are those of carbolic disulfide and about 30 times as toxic as those of carbon tetrachloride.

Owing to its low boiling point ethylene oxide is effective at comparatively low temperatures, ranging from 60 degrees to 70 degrees Fahrenheit. It has excellent powers of penetration. Insects buried in over-stuffed furniture, sealed in packages of cereals and buried in jars of grain were killed with ease. No deleterious effect was noticeable when the commercial dosage of the fumigant was used for 24 hours on commodities, foodstuffs of various types, clothing, furniture and metals. Such foodstuffs as nut meats and dried fruits were unaffected, and no foreign taste or odor was discernible after removal from the fumigation chamber.

Preliminary tests in a vacuum fumigation tank show that ethylene oxide can be successfully used for this type of fumigation.

Seeds for planting purposes, however, should not be fumigated with ethylene oxide, since the vapors seriously affect the germination.

The smallest sound. Not a leaf rustled.

"He's after Lightfoot! He's after Lightfoot!" Peter kept saying over and over to himself. "What can I do? Oh, dear, what can I do?"

THE GARDEN IN SPRINGTIME

(National Garden Bureau)

START BATTLING THE BUGS

IT sometimes seems as if each season brought new kinds of bugs to plague the gardener. Each season seems reasonably certain to bring back the old ones. The battle against the bugs may start at any time one can get into the garden. Start the clean up now if any old stalks of vegetables were left in the garden. Usually there are plenty of them that "re-missed in the fall clean-up, which is sometimes made impossible by bad weather."

Go over the garden any bright day and clean off all old stalks and gather them up and burn old cabbage stumps, bean vines, and the like. They furnish winter shelter for the eggs and cocoons of myriads of insects. Every one destroyed may be counted as destroying some form of its hostile to plants.

Rake the old leaves and grass off the garden at the first opportunity and stack it on the compost heap.

While attending in leisurely fashion to clean up, be sure to use a liberal supply of insecticides along with the seed order. Nothing like having them in the house. If you treasure a few plants in the house over winter they are likely to need tobacco in some form for plant lice, while oil soap for scales and mealy bugs.

Powdered tobacco sprinkled about the roots of plants has been found to be a preventive of many insect pests. A handful on top of the delphiniums checks the deadly "black" which it is now known is caused by a mite that dislikes tobacco. Destroy any cocoons found in fences or bushes about the garden. The insect hibernating inside may be ready to break forth and lay eggs as many devouring "worms" as soon as warm weather arrives.

Start the war on insect pests before the ground is in shape for planting. It will give a decided advantage in the annual battle. Kale, which stands out all winter for use, often harbors aphids or plant lice which stand low temperature and survive. See that all the kale is removed from the garden if not used before spring arrives.

DISCOVERY.

THIS, then, is love for which I sought
Through aching years in vain;
Its signs, the wonders it has wrought:
Release from fear and pain!

Not like a rippling, silver stream
In grassy banks confined,
(That love of which I used to dream)
Is this, the love I find.

That stream was but a slender
That danced in shallow glee;
But love's vast tides about me spread
As boundless as the sea.

Love is not only for the few
My selfish heart might prize;
But like the universal dew
That on all verdure lies.

This, then, is love! Its glories fall
On every soul I meet.
And, strangely, this new love for all
Makes old loves doubly sweet.

Childbirth Mortality Increases in England

THE British Government and British medical science are baffled by the problem of mortality in motherhood. Social welfare workers in the last two decades have reduced infant mortality by one-half, but they have been unable to reduce the rate of mothers' deaths in childbirths in the slightest.

Indeed, the rate of maternal mortality in 20 years in Britain has slightly increased, and the situation in this vital concern is now declared by the Minister of Health to be "lamentable and terrible."

The Government itself has been spending about $10,000,000 annually for maternity and child welfare services. Vast sums have been expended by voluntary organizations for the same objects.
